INSULL LOSSES IN MARKET WAR TOLD AT TRIAL

Claim 'Victims' Paid Eaton's Winnings.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A mingled pattern of life and finance was woven yesterday before the jury in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court which is hearing the government's case against Samuel Insull and 16 other defendants on the charge of fraud and deception in connection with the sale of Corporation Securities company stock.

CYRUS S. EATON.

Out of the shadows of the financial wreck of the Insull Investment company came men and women who typified the social strata which furnished the flow of gold that enabled Samuel Insull, for instance, to command a payment of $56,000,000 to Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland financier, who was seeking control of the Insull companies in 1930.

Half Million Homes Affected.

These millions came out of half a million homes. It is like the magnificent palaces of the maharajahs of India that arise astonishingly out of the trickles of taxes that flow from a thousand poor villages.

Stories of elderly men and women who had invested their savings in the magic name of Insull were interspersed in effective manner yesterday with tales of inside manipulations of these stocks, in which syndicate managers made profits and in which high values were upheld on the stock exchange through "wash sales" and other secret methods of brokers.

The motive undoubtedly in both high and low finance disclosed was to make money, but the evidence shows that the Insull group had the distinct advantage of knowing exactly what was going on.

Still Selling in 1931.

Even as late as the fall of 1931, a few months before the collapse of Corporation Securities, the Insull salesmen were disposing of this stock, it was shown yesterday. Two of these small investors, it developed, are neighbors of two of the jurors. This was said to be a mere coincident.

The story of the gigantic struggle with Mr. Eaton was told for the first time from the minute books of the Insull concern. The details of how the market was maintained at Mr. Insull's direction by dummy accounts also were revealed by a La Salle street broker, whose testimony was regarded as of high importance to the government case.

Late in the afternoon the government began to get before the jury the book story of the organization as a syndicate to support the Insull stock at the time of the reorganization of Middle West Utilities company, which was the genesis of the Corporation Securities company.

Hold Market Steady.

This dealt with an agreement to hold the stock at a certain figure. It involved another $18,000,000 or so, and profits to the inner circle, according to the prosecution.

Much of this technical phraseology may have been beyond the heads of the jurors, but they were closely attentive when a gray haired woman whose husband has lost his business and has no income testified to investment of $2,201.75 in Corporation Securities common stock from May, 1930, until June, 1931. This was Mrs. May Stoetzel, 1337 Granville avenue, who lives two doors from Juror Charles H. Wilson.

Parade "Victims" on Stand.

Mrs. Lydia Stoner of Des Moines was another who listened to the talk of Insull company salesmen and invested $2,687 in these stocks. She was smiling and apparently unworried about it, but Mrs. Stoetzel looked grim and vengeful. John Origer, a Niles Center bus driver, 52 years old and unemployed for two years, said he bought $540 worth of the stock as a good, safe 6 per cent investment.

Edith M. Drier, 1536 Birchwood avenue, bought 50 shares at $27.50 a share in 1930, and in 1931 got 50 more at $7 on the advice of an office salesman of Utility Securities. Mrs. Pauline Larsen, 2722 Cermak road, invested $610. A friend of hers told her that "anything that Insull is in is good."

Mrs. Mary Konecke, 2220 Geneva terrace, bought 30 shares in 1931 at $5.36 a share. The Utility Securi-

City Reduces Tax Warants $27,000,000

The outstanding tax warants of the city's corporate [operating] fund have been reduced by $27,609,811 since 1930. Figures showing a vastly improved warant situation were made public yesterday by Mayor Kelly and City Controler Upham, who declared that the city's credit structure had been bolstered by a persistent drive for economy.

One significant item in the report showed that for the year 1930 interest on corporate tax warants amounted to $3,915,000 in contrast with an estimated $1,200,000 for 1934, or a reduction of more than 70 per cent. It was recalled that in March of this year, under the direction of the mayor, the city reduced the interest rate on warants from 6 to 5 per cent.

Catch Up with Pay Rolls.

The outstanding tax warants of the corporate fund are recorded as follows:

1931	92,875,577
1932	80,658,300
1933	74,212,000
*1934	75,770,966

*As of Oct. 16. The figures for other years are for the end of each year.

It was explained that the increase between Dec. 31, 1933, and Oct. 16, 1934, resulted from the fact that in the intervening period city officials have caught up with $9,000,000 in back pay rolls, so that on a comparable basis the outstanding warants now would be approximately $8,000,000 less than they are. City employés will be paid up to date by Nov. 1 for the first time in four years.

$28,000,000 Still Outstanding.

"Tax warants were issued against the tax levies from 1928 to 1932 inclusive," said Controler Upham, "to a total of $231,977,000, of which $203,086,000 has been paid off, leaving a balance outstanding at this date of $28,890,000, of which only $848,000 is held by the public. On Dec. 31, 1930, the public held $61,457,700 of warants for these years. Of course 1933 and 1934 taxes to retire the borrowings for these years have not yet gone into collection."

Corporate fund tax warants were around par on the market yesterday as compared with heavy discounts of previous years.

Earle Wynekoop Critically Injured in Colorado Crash

Earle Wynekoop, whose mother, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, is serving a 25 year sentence for the murder of Earle's wife, Rheta, is in a serious condition in a Denver hospital as the result of an automobile accident last week, it was learned yesterday. Young Wynekoop suffered a skull fracture and his back was broken in three places when his automobile was forced off a cliff by another car near Denver.

FINDS SOME REASON TO SPORT UPPER LIP EYEBROW MUSTACHE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP)—An upper lip health risk that may justify the "eyebrow" mustache as a real protection was explained to the American College of Surgeons here tonight.

Any infection of the upper lip, such as might arise from even a trivial razor scratch or whatever risk there may be in kissing, is much more potentially dangerous than similar infection on the lower lip.

The facial mechanisms involved in this situation and the not infrequently fatal results were explained to a symposium on infections by Frederick A. Collier, M. D., of Ann Arbor, Mich. A person with anything larger than an ordinary pimple on the upper lip, he said, really ought to be in bed in a hospital because of what might happen.

Broadly speaking, this "upper lip" area includes not only the site of mustaches but much of the face and nose. Infections in these areas if they get beyond mild stages are apt to spread until they reach the facial veins.

Differ on What Soul Does if Body Is Revived

Denver, Colo., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The question of whether a dead man brought back to life would be a person without a soul was raised by Denver ministers today in a discussion of the experiments of Dr. Robert E. Cornish of Berkeley, Cal.

The Berkeley scientist, who has revived dogs with at least partial success, has proposed to try to restore life to a convict executed in Colorado's lethal gas chamber.

The Rev. Thomas Murray of the South Broadway Presbyterian church cited instances in the Bible where Jesus raised Lazarus and the son of a widow, St. Peter resurrected a young girl, and Elisha a child as proof that a person brought back to life would have a soul.

But Others Dissent.

The Rev. Hobert Meyer, pastor of Emmaus Lutheran church, said these instances should be excepted, with the explanation they were miracles performed by divine power and that no ordinary mortal would be able to bring back the soul.

"The soul leaves the body at the moment of death, not to be readmitted until judgment day," he said. "It would be a sin and interference with divine law."

Msgr. William F. O'Ryan of St. Leo's Catholic church said:

"The soul is the source of life. It would be impossible to bring back even mechanical life if one really were dead. But if one were medically dead, it would be right to revive him. The Catholic church teaches that the soul may remain in the body three hours after apparent death."

May Be "Suspended Animation."

Rabbi W. S. Friedman of Temple Emanuel agreed with Msgr. O'Ryan that what seems death may be only "suspended animation" and pointed out the great benefit it would be in accidental "death" if it were possible to revive the victim.

The Rev. A. E. Cook, pastor of the Boulevard Congregational church, said it is only by experiment "that we discover God's law, and the progress of science is progress in the knowledge of the laws of God."

Jury Upholds Heirship of Unwed Mother's Daughter

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A jury of ten men and two women in Circuit Judge Charles E. White's court today decided that Mrs. Ella Cuthbert of Niles, southern Berrien county, was the legal heir to a share in the $16,000 estate left by Tracy Harper, wealthy Berrien Springs bachelor. Mrs. Cuthbert produced records to show she was Harper's illegitimate daughter.

NEW DEAL LOSES SUPPORT, STRAW VOTE REVEALS

List 17 States Now Against Program.

VOTE BY STATES

A tabulation of the vote by states in a poll of sentiment for and against the New Deal will be found on page 6.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A poll of 65,000 ballots just completed by the Literary Digest shows that a majority of the respondents in 17 of the 48 states are opposed to the acts and policies of President Roosevelt.

The final percentages, as tabulated by the magazine, show 50.97 per cent of the total ballots in the poll favor the New Deal, while 49.03 opposed the administration. A similar poll of 65,000 in the spring gave 69.03 per cent in favor of the New Deal. Thus a change of 18.06 per cent, with the administration policies shrinking in favor, is demonstrated on the face of the returns.

Inquiries Sent to Same 65,000.

Besides the two polls limited to 65,000 ballots, the Literary Digest conducted a 15,000,000 ballot poll on the New Deal some months ago. This widespread "straw" gave a vote of confidence in the President, 61.15 per cent favoring his policies.

Ballots were sent, in the later or August-September poll, to the same 65,000 persons who were asked to vote on the proposition in April and May. The object of the magazine, it was explained, was to discover whether there had been a shift in sentiment.

While the spring poll gave a majority of votes in 47 states to the New Deal only 31 are now in the "yes" column. In each instance the straw voters were asked whether they approved "on the whole" the President's acts and policies during his first year. The seventeen states which balloted in the later one against the New Deal are to elect almost half the membership of the house of representatives.

Delaware Reports 50-50 Vote.

Between the spring and the fall polls five states showed an increase in sympathy for the President. Forty-three showed a loss of his influence. One of the interesting sidelights was that Delaware, the only state against the Roosevelt régime in the spring, has increased its "yes" vote until it is 50 per cent for and 50 per cent against in the fall.

The recheck poll shows Arizona, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming with anti-New Deal majorities, although in some of these states the margin is small. In Rhode Island the pro-Roosevelt vote shrank from 72.41 per cent in the spring to 42.30 per cent in the fall.

The Literary Digest announced that the 65,000 names used in the poll were sent out in a ratio mathematically proportioned geographically to the list of 15,000,000 voters who cast ballots in the big poll. Thus each state received a share of the total ballots in ratio to its poll "voting strength."

"Yes" Gains in Five States.

In discussing the result further, the Literary Digest will say in the current issue:

"In certain states the proportion of 'Yes' ballots is larger in the August-September poll than in the March-April poll. These are: Delaware, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina and Utah."

Nevada, it is stated, increased its yeses from 68.13 per cent to 83.33 per cent. The percentage drop in California, however, was from 74.62 to 58.28, in Illinois from 66.06 to 46.34, in Indiana from 65.35 to 44.95, in Michigan from 75.40 to 45.38, in Minnesota from 79.15 to 63.26, in Missouri from 75.20 to 53.77, in New Jersey from 59.39 to 38.86, in New York from 64.68 to 42.35, in Ohio from 68.31 to 49.15, in Pennsylvania from 69.37 to 47.47, and in Wisconsin from 72.30 to 54.01.

Large States Veer Away.

From the poll it would appear that the large and populous states definitly have moved to a position of greater opposition to the Roosevelt policies, while the gains made by the New Deal ideas between polls have been in the states that have smaller populations.

Furniture Dealer Sues Jean Harlow; Asks $1,009

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Jean Harlow, platinum haired movie star, has failed to pay for furniture fabricated for her and her late second husband, Paul Bern, movie director, according to a lawsuit for $1,009 filed today.

Hear New Alibi Evidence for Hauptmann

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—James M. Fawcett, attorney for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, will offer new evidence supporting his client's alibi for the night on which he is accused of kidnaping Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. when the case comes before the appellate division tomorrow afternoon.

MRS. B. R. HAUPTMANN.

Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer in the Bronx Supreme court on Tuesday night dismissed a writ of habeas corpus designed to prevent Hauptmann's removal to New Jersey. Mr. Fawcett took an appeal to the Appellate division.

Ordinarily, the appellate division does not permit the introduction of new evidence in such a case, but Mr. Fawcett tonight obtained permission from Justice Francis Martin to make a preliminary motion requesting the right to introduce new evidence, before the appeal is taken up. Justice Martin told Mr. Fawcett that the court would take such a motion under advisement.

Two New Witnesses.

The new evidence consists of statements by Joseph M. Furcht, an investigator for the New York City department of public welfare, and E. V. C. Pescia, head of an employment agency. Furcht accompanied Mr. Fawcett on his visit to Justice Martin, but was not taken before the justice.

Furcht says he was construction superintendent of the Majestic apartments in 1932 and that he has records showing that Hauptmann went to work there as a carpenter on March 1, 1932, the day of the kidnaping, and worked from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. that day and also the next day. The kidnaping took place between 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock on the night of March 1 from the Lindberghs' summer home at Hopewell, N. J.

Pescia says that he sent Hauptmann to the Majestic apartments on Saturday, Feb. 27, 1932, for employment to begin on Tuesday, March 1. Both Furcht and Pescia said that their records showed that Hauptmann was at work between the hours mentioned on March 1.

Neither Has Testified.

During the two day hearing on Hauptmann's writ of habeas corpus before Justice Hammer neither Furcht nor Pescia testified. Furcht could not be located by defense attorneys then and Pescia's connection with the case was not known to them.

When Hauptmann took the witness stand to give his alibi he said that he could not remember whether he worked at the Majestic apartments on March 1 or whether he spent the day at an employment agency waiting for a job. He testified that he went home to the Bronx that evening and about 7 or 7:30 o'clock called for his wife, then working as a waitress in a Bronx restaurant. After having dinner he and his wife went home and spent the entire night there, he said.

Mr. Fawcett announced that Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, the prisoner's wife, had made available $10,000 for the defense, of which $3,000 already has been spent. He explained that the money had been raised by the sale of two mortgages of $3,700 face value each sold at a discount, $4,000 from the sale of securities, and $1,000 cash.

Rob Loop Store Manager; Others Present Unaware

Two robbers entered the Liggett's drug store at 2 South State street last night and compelled the manager, William Brackenridge, to surrender $800. Both then fled to an automobile halted in Madison street, west of State street, and fled with a third man at the wheel. Brackenridge said the bandits went behind the prescription counter, where he was standing, and held him up without other persons in the store being aware of the robbery.

FATHER UNDER $25,000 BONDS AS ACCOMPLICE

Find Youth's Auto and Ransom Bill.

The Kidnap Story

Widespread ramifications of the Stoll kidnaping case yesterday developed from three angles. In brief, they were:

1. At Nashville, Tenn., Thomas H. Robinson Sr., father of the actual kidnaper, was arrested by federal agents on charges of abduction and conspiracy.

2. At Springfield, O., the younger Robinson's car and one of the ransom bills were found. Drag net was spread but he apparently eluded it.

3. At Louisville, Ky., Frances Robinson, wife of the kidnaper, held as an accomplice, charges that she was working at all times with the federal men in collecting and delivering the ransom; that even her expenses on the trip to Indianapolis with the money were paid by a member of the Stoll family.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Thomas H. Robinson Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville, was believed tonight to have eluded a widespread dragnet set for him at Springfield, O. At the same time his father, Thomas H. Robinson Sr., was arrested here on a charge of kidnaping and conspiracy lodged in Kentucky.

The elder Robinson was given an immediate hearing before United States Commissioner Julian Campbell, pleaded not guilty to being a fugitive from Kentucky and was held on $25,000 bond, which friends furnished. The district attorney had asked bonds of $50,000, which the elder Robinson said he could not give. They then were reduced to $25,000.

Seized by U. S. Agents.

Robinson, who is a contractor, was seized at his home by Deputy United States Marshal O. D. Johnson and W. A. Rorer, head of the federal agents operating in the Nashville area.

Taken to the federal building, the elder Robinson asked to call his attorney. The hearing was accordingly delayed until the attorney, Monte Ross, arrived. The date of the final hearing was set for Oct. 26, after bond had been set and provided.

Earlier in the day it was asserted by an adviser of the Robinson family that the senior Robinson had agreed as long ago as last Sunday, when he first became convinced that his son was the kidnaper, that he would assist authorities in freeing Mrs. Stoll and that he would do all in his power to help bring his son to justice.

Good Fortune with Him.

The luck that has followed the younger Robinson from the time he beat the federal agents to the bridge over the Ohio river after kidnaping Mrs. Stoll apparently still held good today.

A gigantic dragnet had been placed all around the city of Springfield, O., today after his automobile had been found abandoned in the garage of a rooming house and one of the ransom bills which he had given the landlady had been traced. But tonight he was reported near Georgetown, O., 70 miles to the south, where he fled from a lunchroom upon hearing the radio broadcasting his description.

Identifies His Picture.

After his automobile had been found the rooming house proprietress identified his picture as that of the man who arrived yesterday morning, paid a week's room rent in advance in cash, including the $5 ransom bill, took a last look at his car, and vanished. Soon three other persons had reported to police that they had seen the kidnaper in Springfield during the day.

Melvin H. Purvis, head of the Chicago bureau of the department of justice, who is credited with tracking down and slaying John Dillinger, arrived in Springfield tonight, accompanied by four aids, to take charge of the search.

Under his command the Ohio highway patrol began stopping all automobiles on U. S. route 40 at points four miles east and four miles west of Springfield. The orders were to remain in effect for 24 hours. But in spite of these precautions it seemed Robinson had escaped the net.

Description Tallies Closely.

The restaurant suspect was described as being about 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighing about 145 pounds, with dark hair, a light complexion and blue or gray eyes. Those in the restaurant said he kept a cap pulled down over his eyes, looked carefully at every one in the place before sitting down, and appeared fatigued as if he had driven a great distance. He had not finished his sandwich when he departed hurriedly on hearing the radio description.

Mrs. Edna Dearwester, who operates the rooming house, said the man who left the car at her place registered as Ben Doken of South Bend, Ind.

After placing his car in the garage the man went up to his room and shaved, Mrs. Dearwester told police. When he came down he said he was going downtown.

"I retired for the night when he didn't return," Mrs. Dearwester said. "I thought if he came back and wanted to get in he would knock and awaken me.

"Of course I never dreamed it was Robinson even though I had been particularly interested in the Stoll case. He talked pleasantly with me and was a nice enough looking man."

She said the man was about six feet tall and wore a derby and glasses.

The car was taken to the police garage where experts obtained several prints from the steering wheel and a door. The machine still carried the license plates and bore other details corresponding to the previously described car in which Robinson fled from the Indianapolis apartment where he had held Mrs. Stoll prisoner.

Find Coat and Newspaper.

In the room the man had rented police found a suitcase containing an overcoat and a Chicago newspaper which featured a story of the hunt for the prominent Louisville woman and her kidnaper.

The authorities learned of the abandoned car by the neighborhood gossip which followed when Mrs. Dearwester confided to friends her perplexity over her new roomer's failure to return. The talk finally reached the ears of a patrolman who reported it to headquarters and caused an investigation.

The reports from the three other persons who said they had seen Robinson here this morning were made to Police Chief Abele. One person said he saw the kidnaper in a furniture store, another said the fugitive had been in an automobile agency, and a third said he saw him walking on the street.

Letters from Captive Revealed.

Two letters, one from Mrs. Stoll while she was held a captive by Robinson in Indianapolis, and the other from Robinson, signed "Kidnaper," were revealed here today. With Mrs. Stoll's letter, which was a plea for the ransom to be paid, was inclosed her wedding ring on which was both her name and that of her husband.

The letter signed "Kidnaper" was addressed to the elder Robinson and gave in detail the procedure to be followed in passing on the ransom after the father had received it from the Stolls.

A damaging bit of evidence in this letter was included in a paragraph which indicated previous arrangements between the younger Robinson and his wife, who carried the ransom to him. It read:

"Be sure to tell your daughter-in-law to carry out her instructions just as they were given to her."

'KIDNAPED' BRONX YOUTH RETURNS HOME UNINJURED

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Louis Esposito, 23 year old Bronx youth for whom a wide search has been conducted since he disappeared last Monday night, was returned to his family tonight, apparently unharmed and in good health. The young man, reported kidnaped and held for ransom, fled into his parents' house, leaving both the police and newspaper men mystified as to his whereabouts for the last four days.

The first sight of the missing youth was obtained by a group of reporters at the house who saw a late model Packard car draw up to the curb. Young Esposito jumped out, raced up the stairs of his home and disappeared into the interior.

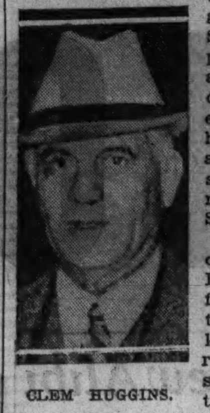
The driver did not respond to questions. Finally, he became abusive and followed Esposito into the house.

Police Inspector Henry Bruckman, informed of the youth's return, hurried to the Esposito home and went into a conference with members of the family.

The car was found to have been registered in the name of the Melrose Paper Box company, a firm with which the police said Anthony Esposito, Louis' father, had some sort of connection.

Mrs. Robinson Says She Acted with U. S. Knowledge and Aid

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Frances Robinson, through counsel, tonight declared that regard for Alice Speed Stoll completely overbalanced any respect or admiration she ever had for her husband—Thomas Henry Robinson Jr., the man named as Mrs. Stoll's abductor.



CLEM HUGGINS.

Clem Huggins, counsel for Mrs. Robinson, who faces trial for participation in the kidnaping, told reporters she felt she had aided in the restoration of Mrs. Stoll and was resentful that she nevertheless finds herself in the Jefferson county jail.

During the day Martin J. Connors, jailer, told how the woman had been given opiates. It was he who revealed that she bore a paring knife with a three inch blade when she arrived at the jail.

Takes List of Questions.

Huggins visited the woman for 45 minutes in the evening. He took with him a list of questions prepared by the press.

The questions and the answers as quoted directly by Huggins are:

Q.—How was it that you came to know about the case?

A.—I read about it in the papers but I didn't know my husband was mixed up in it. Then on Monday morning he called me up and told me he was the kidnaper. He said he would kill Mrs. Stoll if I did not do what he told me.

I told my father-in-law [Robinson Sr.] and he went downtown to see about it. He saw the attorney general and they had a meeting with police and federal men. He said the meeting had decided I was to do as my husband said. My father-in-law gave me the money and I left that night for Indianapolis. I took the train to Terre Haute and a taxicab to Indianapolis.

I went to the apartment. I threw the money on the bed. My husband didn't say anything. Mrs. Stoll was in bed when I got there. In a few minutes my husband told me 'Let's go,' but I didn't want to go. After a while he went away and left me with Mrs. Stoll.

The lawyer said that one of Mrs. Stoll's relatives from Louisville left a check for $125 to pay the expenses of Mrs. Robinson on the trip to Indianapolis to deliver the ransom.

Stayed Because of Fear.

Q.—What was the reason that Mrs. Stoll stayed in the apartment after Robinson left?

A.—Because I was afraid of my husband. I was afraid he would kill me and I begged not to go with him. Mrs. Stoll helped me try to talk him out of it and she promised to stay there if he would not make me go. It was in consideration of her promise to remain that my husband let me stay there, too.

Q.—Didn't you know that accepting $500 of the ransom would involve you?

A.—No. I gave the money to Mrs. Stoll. She wanted some beer, so I went out and got the beer and some things for breakfast. Mrs. Stoll remained there alone, and we fixed breakfast when I got back.

Q.—What other ransom money did you spend?

A.—I paid the cab fare to the Clegg home with one of the bills.

BROTHER IS CHARGED WITH WRITING NOTE DEMANDING $20,000

Sioux Falls, Ia., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A threat to kidnap Frank G. Rollinger, general agent here for a life insurance company, was revealed in a federal indictment returned late yesterday against Herbert M. Rollinger, 41, Le Mars, Ia., the prospective victim's brother.

The Le Mars man is now serving a five year sentence in the Iowa penitentiary for extortion, federal officials here were advised.

He denies having written the kidnaping threat.

The indictment charges a letter was sent through the mails about March 9, 1934, threatening Rollinger with abduction unless $20,000 was paid. The letter ordered Rollinger to go to St. Paul with his brother Bert [the man charged] and make contacts there with the purported kidnapers.

Rollinger turned the letter over to the United States authorities.

WRITES DANCER OF REBUFF AND TRIES SUICIDE

A young man who swallowed iodine at 27th street and Indiana avenue early today was hurried to Michael Reese hospital by sympathetic bystanders. At the hospital the poison was pumped out of him and the police were summoned. Before they arrived, however, the youth fled, leaving behind him his coat, which contained a letter addressed to a dancer appearing at a north side theater.

The letter, signed Stanley Wascky, related that the writer had called at the stage door to ask for an autographed portrait of the dancer and that he had been harshly told by the doorman to write her a letter.

"I suppose that is the way you treat all your admirers," he continued. "Or maybe you don't want to see me because I have no job and no money. So I think I will end it all."

U. S. AGENTS FIND NO TRACE HERE OF STOLL ABDUCTOR

J. P. McCarthy, acting Chicago chief of the federal bureau of investigation, said yesterday that no trace had been found in Chicago of Thomas H. Robinson Jr., who is hunted as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Stoll of Louisville, Ky. Before the kidnaping Robinson had lived for five weeks at the Hotel Cedar, 1112-18 North State street, it was learned, but since the kidnaping there has been nothing to indicate that Robinson has returned to Chicago, McCarthy said.

The suspicion that he was the man who spent Wednesday night at the Arena hotel, 2342 West Madison street, was removed when Mr. McCarthy investigated the serial numbers on two $5 bills changed by the Arena hotel guest and found they were not part of the $50,000 ransom paid for Mrs. Stoll's release. The guest had registered as J. Stoll Dee, and he was said to resemble Robinson.

4 ROB CITY HALL IN HAVANA; GET $150,000 IN CASH

HAVANA, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A sensational robbery of the city hall treasury today, in which four armed men rifled the vaults of $150,000, was followed by the detention of the municipal cashier and his two assistants.

While soldiers, sailors, and police searched Havana for the quartet police clapped José Guerra and his two aids into jail pending a thorough investigation.

The four bandits, described by police as gangsters, after locking Guerra and the others in the treasury safe, carefully selected American bills to the amount of $150,000, leaving behind more than $1,000,000 in Cuban silver, and fled in an automobile.

PLANS FOR PARK ON FAIR GROUNDS SENT TO MAYOR

Recreation Group Offers 12 Point Program.

A twelve point program for transforming the area now occupied by the World's Fair into a huge park was adopted yesterday by members of the Chicago recreation commission, headed by Philip L. Seman.

Meeting in its headquarters in the Conway building, the commission unanimously approved a report submitted by Henry P. Chandler, chairman of a subcommittee named to study the question of what to do with the area now occupied by the Fair. Known as Burnham park, this territory extends along the lake front from Roosevelt road to the north end of Jackson park.

Proposals Will Go to Mayor.

The recommendations which will be turned over to Mayor Kelly, who in turn will submit them to the new consolidated park board, which has jurisdiction in the matter, were:

1. Burnham park should be free to the people of Chicago for recreation.

2. The park should be given over to landscapes, gardens, and playgrounds. Only such buildings as may be necessary for administration, refreshments, and comfort should be allowed.

3. High speed automobile trafic should be confined to the inner edge of the park, except for the highways now in operation, and suitable subways or bridges for pedestrians be provided.

4. Except for covering the cost necessary for boating, refreshments, or possibly special bathing facilities, the park should not be commercialized. [This would eliminate so-called amusement concessions in the "Coney Island" sense.]

Recommendation on Museums.

5. Only such museums as are of a general educational, artistic and recreational value, without commercial motive, should be permitted and should be grouped as closely as possible in the northerly part of the park, leaving the rest free for landscaping.

6. At least two bridges should be provided for crossing to Northerly island.

7. The Fort Dearborn replica should be preserved permanently as a historical exhibit.

8. The Ford orchestra shell and its seating arrangements should be retained if suitable for summer concerts, but should be moved to a more accessible place in the park.

9. At least two bathing beaches, complete with facilities, should be developed.

10. Boating in the lagoon should be continued.

Sports Fields; Playgrounds.

11. Tennis courts, playgrounds and sports fields should be provided, but golf links should be omitted because of the large space required.

12. The Fair horticultural exhibit, now operated as a private concession, should be acquired by the park board and be operated free of charge.

Incorporated in the resolution was a suggestion by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, that the student tours sponsored mainly by officials of the Fair be continued under the auspices of the park board. With the close of the exposition, these tours would cover museums, zoos, libraries and similar establishments.

STORM AT ROUND LAKE.

Hayward, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The section around Round Lake, eight miles from here, was visited by a storm late last night which blew down much timber and demolished barns on the farms of George Lowers and B. C. Wood. The twister covered a strip a mile wide and three miles long.

SOUP HEIRESS WED

CHARLOTTE DORRANCE.

Radnor, Pa., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Charlotte Dorrance, the Campbell soup heiress, became the bride of William Coxe Wright here this afternoon at a quiet home ceremony marked "strictly private."

While guards patroled the palatial Dorrance estate, Charlotte, one of the country's richest young women, and the athletic Bill Wright exchanged their vows in the candle lighted drawing room before the two families.

Under the will of her father, the late John T. Dorrance, Charlotte not only enjoys an income of $120,000, but shares the Dorrance fortune, estimated at $150,000,000, with her mother, her three sisters, and young brother.

Wright is a national court tennis singles champion.

The tall, slender heiress wore a severely plain gown of white moire shot with silver threads. The gown was high of neck, long of sleeve, and extra long as to train. The tulle veil, plainly arranged cap fashioned over Charlotte's dark hair, was held in place by orange blossoms, while butterfly orchids formed a conventional wedding bouquet.

The bridal couple left by motor in the early evening on the first step of a honeymoon journey that will take them to Honolulu.

Wright's first wife, the former Eleanor S. Carpenter, obtained a divorce about seven years ago.

$2,000,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT NAMES GIMBEL

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Frederic A. Gimbel, retired department store executive now abroad, has been sued in the Supreme court for $2,000,000 damages for breach of promise, it was learned today. The plaintif is Marie De Rivera, who alleges that he promised to wed her on May 1, 1930, and again on Jan. 1 last, but has refused to keep his agreement. She asserts that Mr. Gimbel leased an apartment in the Majestic hotel on Nov. 10, 1932, and that she went there to live with him in reliance on the promise of marriage. He is alleged to have left her there on March 15 last, when he went abroad.

A general denial of the allegations has been made by Mr. Gimbel.

FORMER BUTLER HELPS CASE OF MRS. VANDERBILT

Before Private Hearing as Her Witness.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Episodes in the household of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt were related today by Harry Wright before Supreme Court Justice John Carew. The evidence was intended to show that the beautiful widow of Reginald C. Vanderbilt was an attentive and devoted mother to Gloria, heiress to a $3,000,000 fortune.

Wright now at the Sherry-Netherland hotel, was said to be Mrs. Vanderbilt's former butler. Wright was called to the stand by Nathan Burkan, Mrs. Vanderbilt's attorney. He was permitted to testify out of turn at the request of Burkan.

Mrs. Whitney in Court.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and a daughter arrived early at the trial today. Mrs. Whitney is caring for her niece, Gloria, at her old Westbury estate, maintaining that the child's mother is unfit to care for her. The hearing was private again today.

Although witnesses have testified they saw Mrs. Vanderbilt participating in bedroom espisodes with titled persons of both sexes, Mrs. Vanderbilt is expected to ask Justice Carew to let the press and public hear her defense.

The request to open the courtroom doors, closed since the third day of the habeas corpus hearing, is to be made as soon as Mrs. Whitney's side of the case is closed.

Wants Public Hearing.

Mr. Burkan will argue that since scandalous charges were made against Mrs. Vanderbilt in public and widely published before the press was excluded, she should have an opportunity for equal publicity for her defense.

Waiting to testify for Mrs. Vanderbilt are her sisters, Lady Furness and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw Jr.; her brother, Harry Hays Morgan Jr., and Prince Gottfried zu Hohenlohe-Langenburg, her former fiancé.

It was learned today that Mrs. Vanderbilt in 1926 took out insurance policies on her life totaling $500,000, with the idea of providing for her child's future in case her own fortune were dissipated.

Nature of the Policies.

The policies provided that the principal in case of Mrs. Vanderbilt's death, should be held in trust for Gloria, who would receive only the income.

Surrogate James A. Foley, however, denied a petition by Gloria's guardians to permit them to pay the premiums on the insurance from Gloria's income.

REPORT LINDY TO TAKE HOUSE AT SANDS POINT

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle said today it is generally believed the Lindberghs will move within thirty days to a cottage on the estate of the late Daniel Guggenheim in the fashionable Sands Point colony on Long Island.

The cottage in question is in the course of remodeling and Col. Lindbergh has been seen frequently at the site.

At present the Lindberghs are living at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, at Englewood, N. J.

The Guggenheim estate adjoins that of Vincent Astor, on which there is a private flying field. Sands Point is seven miles from Roosevelt field, one of the largest of the metropolitan airports.

Col. Lindbergh's tour of the United States after his trans-Atlantic flight was sponsored by the Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics, founded by Daniel Guggenheim.

6 DIE IN 2 DAYS' QUAKES AND RAIN IN LOS ANGELES

Two More Are Missing as Flood Rises.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Six persons were dead and two others were missing, supposedly drowned, here today when another earthquake and more flood waters preyed upon Los Angeles and surrounding cities. Property damage was estimated in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Following almost the same course as the flood which claimed more than two score lives last New Year's eve, a huge wall of water swept out of the foothills and through the towns of La Crescenta and Montrose and the city of Glendale.

Hundreds Desert Homes.

Hundreds of persons were forced to evacuate their homes and flee to higher ground ahead of the raging waters. More than half a hundred homes were damaged and several wrecked.

In the La Crescenta valley, where the January flood claimed its heaviest toll of lives and property, frantic householders raced ahead of a 10 foot wall of water which spread over the lowlands and filled the streets of the towns.

In Long Beach hundreds of persons were made homeless by the downpour of rain which attained torrential proportions and came in the wake of one earthquake yesterday and one this morning.

Boy, 9, One of Missing.

The six persons dead in the Los Angeles area were killed in automobile trafic accidents attributed to the severe storm. The two missing were a 9 year old Los Angeles boy and a Montrose man. The boy was reported by a playmate to have been swept into a large storm drain.

Additional police and ocean life guards were pressed into service to rescue marooned families. Some persons had escaped the high waters by climbing trees and the sides of canyons and were unable to get down.

Authorities at Pasadena reported the heaviest rainfall of record in Fern Canyon, near there, where a 20 foot wall of water rushed down the canyon, demolishing the cabins that were in its path.

Light Tube Becomes Drain.

The mile long vacuum pipe in which the late Dr. A. A. Michelson, University of Chicago and Pasadena scientist conducted his speed of light experiments near Los Angeles today was performing successfully as a storm drain. When Dr. Michelson completed his experiments, Los Angeles county bought it at a bargain. The metal tube was relaid as a drain near the suburb of Downey.

Marlene Dietrich and Josef von Sternberg, director, narrowly escaped injury when a battery of thousand watt lights exploded on an outdoor set. Two extra players were cut.

The explosion was attributed to heavy rainfall.

N. Y. Exchange Member's Wife Sues Mother-in-Law

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine T. Maxwell, daughter of Col. and Mrs. M. V. Thraves, has filed suit for $230,000 against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Raymond Maxwell of New York and Paris. The declaration charges the defendant "poisoned the mind" of the plaintif's husband, George L. Maxwell, New York Stock exchange member, against his wife while the latter was ill in New York City after the birth of a daughter on Dec. 30, 1933.

CRUDE VERBIAGE OF POLICE MAKES MR. REILLY SAD

When Glenn E. Reilly is arrested he wants to be arrested grammatically, at least.

Beneath Mr. Reilly's rags and tatters beats a cultured heart. Reilly, who lives at 5828 South Wells street, was taken to the Town Hall police station last night, accused of getting $4.50 in three holdups.

"How come you were on the heist?" asked Sergt. Michael Ahearn.

"I beg your pardon," replied the ragged Mr. Reilly, "I was on no such thing as a 'heist.' It was robbery."

"My motives in this affair," he proceeded, "were actuated by a desire to obtain money to defray the cost of a fine incidental to a trafic transgression. Had I not paid this fine it would mean an arrest and consequent cessation of employment I recently obtained."

Sergt. Ahearn studied a pocket dictionary carefully, then said:

"I get it. You got a ticket and didn't have the dough to pay the fine, so you go out on the heist to grab it, eh? Anyways, you're booked for robbery."

"Such people. Such language," lamented Mr. Reilly as the cell door closed behind him.

Wife of Eddie Buzzell, Film Director, Wins Decree

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Less than 24 hours after Mrs. Sarah Clark Buzzell had filed an action to divorce Eddie Buzzell, motion picture director, the case was heard and she was in possession of a decree awarded by Superior Judge Hight. The couple was married Aug. 11, 1934, and separated Sept. 27.

Charges Cruelty

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The year-old pact of blonde Claire Luce, the actress, and her wealthy husband, Clifford Warren Smith, to "disagree and separate" without a divorce approached an end today.

Smith, one of the heirs to the fortune of the four Smith brothers of Maine and a stepson of Newcomb Carlton, chairman of the board of the Western Union Telegraph company, has filed suit for divorce in Minden, Nev., charging cruelty, desertion, and infidelity.

Under terms of the separation, Smith's attorney, Bennet E. Siegelstein, announced that Miss Luce would receive $25,000 a year for life, but he said today if the Nevada suit was successful it "would cancel and terminate any previous agreement."

$900 GONE; LAKE CAPTAIN TELLS OF BEATING HERE

Capt. John E. Fick, master of the lake freighter Griffin, who disappeared in Chicago on Oct. 1, together with a $900 pay roll he had drawn from the bank, has returned to his home in Buffalo, N. Y., it was made known yesterday by officials of the Jones Navigation company there.

According to the word from Buffalo, Capt. Fick apparently had been beaten on the head and doped. The money was missing. The captain said the last he could remember was being struck on the head by one of two men who waylaid him here.

He was unable to account for his movements during the days he was missing. He had a cut on his head and his hearing had been impaired, it was reported.

TABER AND KEHOE SURRENDER FOR BUS MURDER QUIZ

Union Leaders Go to Jail; Seek Bail Today.

William Taber, financial secretary, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary of the street car men's union, who have been indicted on a charge of complicity in the murder of James Kelly, a bus dispatcher for the Chicago Motor Coach company, surrendered last night and were locked up in the county jail.

The surrender had a distinctly "by appointment" flavor. Bailif James Z. Gabriel of the Criminal court met the two union officials, who were accompanied by their attorney, James McDermott, at 63d street and Ashland avenue and all went to the sherif's office and then the jail. It was explained that the two accused men had just returned from the American Federation of Labor meeting in San Francisco.

Seek Freedom on Bail Today.

Mr. McDermott, who is associated with the law firm of Nash & Ahern, said that a motion for bail would be made before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court today. He added that his clients desired an early trial, but not until Attorney Michael J. Ahern was available to defend them.

Taber and Kehoe declined to talk about the charges, but Mr. McDermott, speaking for them, asserted they would be vindicated. He questioned the motives of the witnesses who had named them in connection with the Kelly killing.

Bus Schedules Maintained.

Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the bus union whose employés are on strike against the motor coach company, has been indicted in the same killing. The great majority of the bus company employés, who are members of the Motor Coach fraternity, have continued to work through a campaign of terrorism. Stoltzmann's union and that of Tabor and Kehoe are branches of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America.

Confessions of several men who claim to have been hired to slug Kelly and to have participated in other acts of vandalism for a fee are on file in the state's attorney's office.

HALT PENNILESS YOUTHS DRIVING INTO CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The NRA, moving to halt an influx of penniless youths who drive "caravan" automobiles to California from eastern factories, ordered today that they be paid wages under the truck code.

Donald Renshaw, western regional NRA director, issued orders to eleven state directors to enforce code provisions, including wage rates.

"Automobile caravans no longer will be brought into California at the expense of human misery," Renshaw declared. He said the practice of dealers and truckers of employing destitute youths in the east to drive cars into the western states, especially into California, paying no wages in most cases, will be stopped by prosecution if necessary.

"I want to make it clear the NRA is not opposed to caravans," he said, "but we are opposed to violation of the codes and mean to put a stop to it."

21 FLYING TEAMS SET FOR LONGEST RACE TOMORROW

Mollisons to Lead Hop for Australia.

MILDENHALL, England, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Twenty-one crack flying teams from both hemispheres settled down tonight for their last complete rest before roaring away in Saturday's dawn for Melbourne in the world's longest air derby.

Weighing of all planes at the airdrome except the monoplane of Wesley Smith and Miss Jacqueline Cochran of New York has been completed. Restrictions on weight forced several American and other foreign competitors to make wholesale sacrifices of gasoline capacity and other equipment.

Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, a favored American team, made drastic reductions, but later Turner said his machine is ready for the takeoff.

Mollisons to Lead.

As a result of a ballot for starting places, Amy Mollison and her husband, J. A. Mollison, will lead the takeoffs, followed by the Turner-Pangborn team. Miss Cochran is ninth, J. H. Wright of Utica, N. Y., tenth, and the young Australian, C. J. Melrose, will leave the ground last. The ships will leave at 45 second intervals.

The plane of Ken Waller, which suffered damage to the undercarriage and propeller during a heavy landing, was placed in the hands of a mechanic, who worked furiously to complete repairs.

Wright's saucy little blue ship took to the air late in the gray afternoon and cut fancy capers which gave a thrill to the Mildenhall villagers.

After receiving the weather report officials said there is every prospect of a fast first lap when the pilots get under way.

Try for Distance Record.

ROME, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Mario Stoppani and Flippo Zappata hopped off from Trieste today for Aden, southwest Arabia, in an attempt to break the distance record for seaplanes. The distance was roughly computed at 3,187 miles.

CITY GETS SLIGHT DRIZZLE AFTER 18 RAINLESS DAYS

A slight drizzle fell early yesterday afternoon, following eighteen consecutive rainless days in Chicago. As a result, the run of nineteen consecutive dry days in October of 1897 still stands as a record. The temperature, which stood at 54 degrees at 3 a. m., continued to fall during the day until it reached a minimum of 48 degrees at 2 p. m. Slightly warmer weather, with possible showers, is forecast for today.

ROBBERS GET $68; ELUDE POLICE.

SUIT CHALLENGES VALIDITY OF LAW DEBASING DOLLAR

Demands U. S. Redeem Its Bonds in Gold.

The constitutionality of the law permitting the reduction of the gold content of the dollar was attacked yesterday in a suit filed in the United States District court. Validity of the subsequent action of President Roosevelt in reducing the gold content of the dollar to 59.6 cents is also questioned in the action.

The suit, filed by Attorney Edward H. S. Martin against the United States, is brought in behalf of Mrs. Mary Scanlan, a retired school teacher. The complainant, who owns six Liberty loan gold bonds of the 1933-'38 series, sought to redeem them on Monday at the Federal Reserve bank.

Bank Declines to Pay Gold.

The bank, the suit said, "offered to pay only in legal tender of the money of present standard value and not in gold coin of the standard value existing in 1918, or in the equivalent in legal tender of the money of the present standard of value."

Attorney Martin charged in the petition that the congressional act is unconstitutional because it "deprives the plaintif of property without due process of law and takes private property for public use without compensation."

The suit also charged that congress in giving power to President Roosevelt to debase the gold content of the dollar delegated legislative powers to an executive in violation of the constitution.

Charges Contract Repudiated.

Attorney Martin also declared that the government is repudiating a contract in violation of a recent decision of the United States Supreme court. The decision, given in a case involving government war risk insurance, held that congress could not repudiate a contract of the government and that to do so was a violation of the fifth amendment of the constitution.

Attorney Martin pointed out that the present dollar is valued, by presidential decree, at 59 per cent of its old gold value, and that this brings a loss of 41 per cent to his client.

The case is the first of its kind in this district, and is the first involving a contention that the government repudiated its own contracts through the devaluation of the gold dollar. The U. S. Supreme court recently agreed to review a similar suit in which Norman C. Norman of New York sought a judgment against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for failure to pay him interest on a bond in gold.

DEAD GANGSTER NAMED SLAYER OF ELI DAICHES

Suspect Tells of Riding in Car with Killer.

James Murphy, 30 years old, 307 East 71st street, under arrest as a robber, was reported yesterday to have told assistant state's attorneys and policemen the name of the man who shot and killed Eli Daiches, advertising agency executive, on March 3. Murphy, it was said, admitted that he was at the scene as a companion of the killer.

The gunman named by Murphy was Jerry Pilot, 5204 South Washtenaw avenue, an alcohol peddler who was shot and killed on Aug. 13 in a barbecue stand at 3201 West 51st street. Murphy was questioned closely on whether he drove the car in which the three Daiches assassins escaped, but was said to have confessed nothing except that he was a witness.

Present at the quizzing of the suspect were Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and Lieut. Otto Erlanson. All declined to talk about the progress made in solving the Daiches mystery and it was indicated they had been pledged to secrecy.

Seeking Gangster Pal of Murphy.

However, it is known that the police are seeking Jack London, gangster, a friend of Murphy. The latter told of being with London on numerous occasions.

Another man questioned during the day was Irving Weitzman, 5000 Cornell avenue, operator of the Dolly Lee bakeries and a brother of Louis A. Weitzman, chairman of the board of the Thomas M. Bowers advertising agency, with which Daiches was connected. Irving Weitzman was reported to have stated that he once hired London and Murphy to protect him while labor troubles were prevalent in his bakeries. Mrs. Weitzman also was quizzed and allowed to go home.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Weitzman was made in the afternoon. Hearing on the motion was continued by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court until 2 p. m. today. Murphy, who as yet has not been booked, will be freed today, if no formal charges are filed against him this morning.

Contest Over $300,000 Insurance.

Daiches was shot near the Sherry hotel at 1725 East 53d street, where he resided. It was disclosed after the killing that he carried $300,000 life insurance, with the advertising agency as beneficiary. Before the death of Daiches control of the company had passed into the hands of Louis Weitzman, who claimed that he had made loans to his associate which were never repaid. Mrs. Belle Daiches widow of the slain man, has filed a suit to share in the insurance and other assets of the agency.

Mrs. Daiches, at the suggestion of Mr. Regan, called at the state's attorney's office early today, but it was indicated she was not able to furnish any new clews.

For a long time the police have suspected Murphy of complicity in the crime. Only a few days ago he was arrested by Sergt. Florian Smuczynski of the detective bureau and was identified by Harry G. Goelitz, 525 North East avenue, Oak Park, as one of a gang who robbed him of $973 in Berwyn. London also has been suspected, but the name of Pilot until yesterday had not been mentioned in connection with the crime.

MORRO CASTLE MAY BECOME PLANE CARRIER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Enough money to find out whether the smoke-blackened and fire-warped hull of the Morro Castle, on which 130 lives were lost, can be turned into an airplane carrier has been promised to the navy department.

From the public works administration the department today received a $180,000 allotment to cover the cost of moving the vessel from the surf at Asbury Park, N. J., to a New York drydock.

Secretary Ickes said the allotment was made because the navy wanted to see whether salvage was justified. The navy is permitted one more plane carrier of not more than 14,500 tons under the London naval treaty.

The allotment is contingent on the United States obtaining full title to the vessel. The government had lent more than $4,000,000 toward its construction.

LAZIA BACKERS KEPT SECRET IN INCOME CASE

'He's Dead, What's Use?' Cummings Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today refused to crack down on one of the country's most notorious alliances between the underworld and corrupt politicians.

Cummings declined to expose public officials who came to him to plead for John Lazia, Kansas City underworld and political boss, in an income tax case. Lazia has been named recently as a plotter in the famous Kansas City Union station gang massacre of two federal agents, two detectives, and a felon.

Sticking to the department of justice's ancient rule against revealing names of persons who "front" for gangsters, Mr. Cummings, said he would have to consider carefully before revoking that rule. Newspaper men pointed out to him that by disclosing persons who sought paroles, pardons, or leniency for gangsters he could smash combinations of the underworld and politicians.

But Lazia Is Dead Now.

Lazia, who himself recently died in a blaze of gang guns, had been caught by the government on an income tax case. Because of his political influence in Kansas City he is reported to have been able to persuade prominent office holders to plead for him with the attorney general.

"I will say that a good many people have been inordinately interested in Mr. Lazia," Mr. Cummings admitted, "but he is dead and gone now."

Asked if he would not tell who had been "inordinately interested," the attorney general replied:

"O, no, I couldn't do that. There would be no use in making the names public where the pleas are ineffective. In cases where the pleas win some leniecy there might be more merit in the suggestion."

Knew Lazia's Connections.

"We all knew what Lazia's connections were and have known for some time," the attorney general admitted when he was asked if the department was aware of alliance between politics and the underworld which Lazia represented. Mr. Cummings steadfastly refused, however, to name politicians who had sought to help Lazia.

Mr. Cummings promised, however, that the subject of naming politicians who "front" for criminals will be taken up at a crime conference he is planning. J. Edgar Hoover, Cummings' chief investigator, in a speech made at Chicago, recently urged state officials to make such disclosures.

SHOT AS HE FIGHTS BANDITS.

Three armed Negroes entered a butcher shop at 133 East 55th street yesterday and told the owner, William Holliday, 55 years old, that it was a holdup. Holliday threw a wooden box at the nearest Negro. One of the men shot him in the right thigh. All fled without loot.

GERMAN ENVOY IS CHARGED WITH BEING NAZI AGENT

Alien Tells of Orders to Report to Ambassador.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Representative John W. McCormack, chairman of the special congressional committee investigating alien activities in this country, today termed "the presence in the United States of the German ambassador in a dual capacity as representative of his country and of a political party in that country" a violation of international law.

McCormack based his charge that the ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, is here "in a dual capacity" on evidence obtained from Ernst Berkenhoff, a Nazi Storm Troop captain, who was summoned before the committee while he was on a visit here. Berkenhoff lost his papers and they fell into the hands of the committee with the result that he was called as a witness last Tuesday.

Report to Ambassador.

McCormack said Berkenhoff testified he had been instructed to report his presence in the United States either to the New York unit of the National Socialist party or to the ambassador.

Furthermore, he said, Berkenhoff's instructions from the Nazis in Germany to report to a local unit disproved the contention of the Friends of New Germany that they no longer are connected with the German organization.

"Any organization which advocates the overthrow of government by violence and force should not be allowed," he added significantly. "We have no place in America for double allegiance."

Disgraceful Situation.

The existence of Nazi organizations in this country he termed "a disgraceful situation." Yesterday's disorderly demonstration by Nazi sympathizers, which disrupted an open hearing before the committee, was the best possible evidence "of the connection of the Friends of New Germany with the Nazi movement," he declared. "The brazenness of the outbreak is unbelievable."

McCormack and Representative Samuel Dickstein, vice chairman of the committee, saw reporters before an executive session of the investigating body held today at the Bar Association building. Dickstein, asked whether the committee would recommend the deportation of any individuals as a result of evidence gathered by it, said such recommendations possibly would be made at the conclusion of the hearings.

There are to be no more public hearings until the committee meets in Washington in December. Today's executive session, Mr.Cormack said, would take up communistic activities from "a new angle."

PARTY ORDER NIPS IN BUD REVOLT OF NAZI CHURCHMEN

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A Nazi party order intended to nip an incipient revolt of Nazi churchmen in the bud tonight instructed three churchmen to "make peace" with Dr. August Jaeger, Nazi commissioner for Protestant churches, whose dismissal they demanded two days ago.

The three—Chief Church Councilor Birnhaum and Pastors Langmann and Christiansen—withdrew the resignations they had submitted and Jaeger canceled the dismissals with which he had countered. After the conciliatory action on both sides the three churchmen returned to the church council.

The revolt extending to the Nazi churchmen had appeared to threaten the rule of Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and Jaeger. The spreading of the rebellion to the ranks of Chancellor Hitler's faithful became apparent with the formal protest of the Nazi Christians' leader and attorney, Christian Kinder. Kinder expressed lack of confidence in Dr. Jaeger after protesting personally to the reichschurch government. He is supported by the powerful Nazi bishops, Friedrich Coch of Saxony and Karl Thom of Pomerania.

STATE STREET'S BARGAINS DRAW BUYING THRONGS

50 Women Shoppers Race for Cash Prizes.

Despite inclement weather, bargain hunters flocked into the State street stores yesterday, drawn by special prices offered for State Street Day. Flags and banners gave the busy street a festive air, and the nippy gray day was a constant reminder to shoppers that the Christmas shopping season is not far away.

At the close of the day, Walter L. Gregory, president of the State Street council, declared the results had been "most gratifying" and that merchants had expressed "appreciation of the splendid response received from the buying public."

Women Race for Prizes.

A feature was the shopping race during the noon rush hour. Fifty women assembled at Congress and State streets, where a rope had been stretched. At a signal they rushed up State street, their task being to make one purchase in every block to Lake street.

Twenty-three minutes later Mrs. Florence Humphries, 1500 North La Salle street, clutching a shopping bag in which she carried among other things a hairnet, ink, pencil leads, handkerchiefs, and chewing gum, reached the goal. Two minutes later Mrs. Mamie Meighan, 3407 North Springfield avenue, arrived with Mrs. Jo Boucher, 6513 North Sacramento avenue, close behind. They won prizes of $15, $10 and $5.

Mrs. Humphries explained as follows how she won her race:

"I selected the stores in advance, and picked on the nearest counter to nearest door. Between stores I tried the good old football stunt of running around the end of the line instead of crashing through, that is, I took to the curb or the street to avoid the crowds."

Toy Day Set for Nov. 24.

Women were seen clustered tightly around bargain counters where neckwear sold for 78 cents, hose for 68 cents, and purses for 88 cents. With an eye to Christmas, throngs swarmed about counters selling men's socks.

Meanwhile the Chicago Association of Commerce announced that the Christmas shopping season will make its debut officially on Nov. 24, with the opening of the toy departments. The civic and commercial organizations in every business section will stage toy parades.

Sanitary Board Ousts 19 More on PWA Demand for Cleanup

The sanitary district board yesterday ordered the discharge of 19 engineering assistants, charged with inefficiency, to complete a cleanup of its engineering field staf demanded by Carl H. Bauer, state engineering inspector for the federal Public Works administration.

The board's action, together with the employment of 32 engineering assistants approved by the PWA, is expected to release next week $400,000 of federal money being withheld from the district, and should remove a threat that the PWA will refuse to approve future sanitary district pay vouchers, Mr. Bauer said.

Shakeup Ordered Last Spring.

Bauer's view was supported by information from Washington that Secretary of the Interior Ickes, head of the PWA, had indicated that there would be no shutting off of federal funds granted to the district last winter.

The sanitary district was first ordered to revamp its field staf last spring, shortly after sewer and sewage treatment plant construction was started under the terms of a $42,000,000 loan and grant made by the PWA, Mr. Bauer said.

Mr. Bauer expects a report from the sanitary district engineers tomorrow, setting forth the changes in personnel that have been made, and at that time he will make a formal decision on future funds.

Police Guards Assigned.

"On present information, it's safe to say that the district funds are not endangered," he declared.

Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the district's finance committee, and Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district board, both declared that the PWA would not stop incoming funds. "We're coöperating with the government fully," Mr. Woodhull said.

Meanwhile Mayor Kelly assigned 12 Chicago policemen to guard the various district projects now under way. This action was taken after John Rapson, a discharged field clerk, allegedly struck C. L. Carter, a government inspector on the west side sewer project on which Rapson had been employed.

WARN PUBLIC OF FAKES, LIQUOR INDUSTRY URGED

Reductions in liquor taxes will not go as far toward eliminating the post-repeal bootlegger as education of the public against spurious products, according to J. M. Braude, associate state director of finance. Mr. Braude spoke yesterday before the national price stabilization conference of the wine, beer and liquor industry in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

He said the industry at present is spending huge sums in advertising that assists the sale of bootleg products because the public has not been educated to recognize imitation goods. Some of this money, he said, should be spent in educational work.

The conference, in resolutions adopted during the day, recommended that all alcoholic beverages be sold f. o. b. at the point of manufacture. It also was recommended that the minimum markup by wholesale dealers be 15 per cent over their costs.

FOG OF WORDS HIDES SINCLAIR FROM REPORTER

His Many Mansions Are Owned by Wife.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—During the three days I have spent in Los Angeles Upton Sinclair, professional proletarian and self-advertised apostle of the "goldfish bowl" mode of life, has proved more inaccessible than J. P. Morgan.

Sinclair has not been visible to the naked eye at any of his numerous town and country houses, at his offices, publishing plant, or at any of the numerous headquarters of the EPIC. He has remained incommunicado in some mysterious retreat, changed from day to day and known only to his manager, Richard S. Otto, according to EPIC headquarters.

Flees From His Disciples?

According to one authority, Sinclair, "nut" that he is in the estimate of the conservatively minded, was compelled to take refuge in the foothills from the out patients of Los Angeles' famous "nut" colony, who had flocked to EPIC as the newest cult and besieged his threshold either to worship at the feet of the master or to submit Utopian schemes even more weird than his own.

So Sinclair disappeared to escape from the "nuts" and perhaps from interviewers like me with annoying questions to ask. At any rate, after promising for two days to produce him from hour to hour for an interview, Mr. Otto failed to do so—with the utmost regret, of course.

In the course of this fruitless quest, I visited some of the Sinclair residences, the pictures of which the opposition press is fond of publishing to show the extent of wicked property owning attaching to Proletarian Sinclair and the splendor and luxury in which he is lapped while inditing the 47 novels and several hundred tracts designed to rouse the populace to arise and tear down the institutions of capitalism and abolish private property.

Best of Sinclair's Houses.

Sinclair's grandest house is in Arden drive in one of the most exclusive quarters of exclusive Beverly Hills. It is a spacious two story mansion embowered in ample grounds. In response to the ring of the doorbell and my inquiry, a woman through the aperture of the barely opened door, said Mr. Sinclair did not live there, that the house was occupied by tenants.

Then after viewing the humble cottage in which Sinclair began his career in California 18 years ago, I hied myself to Pasadena, locale of another of the great proletarian's residences. The taxi driver deposited me before a rambling frame bungalow with wide porches approached by a semi-circular driveway under arching trees.

The house, with shades tightly drawn, appeared deserted; there was no answer to my ring. One sign tacked on the door jamb read: "No peddlers or agents."

By Appointment Only.

Another pinned to the door and still another propped in a window proclaimed: "No visitors except by appointment—leave messages at next house north." The next house north was another large bungalow which proved to be Sinclair's private office. There a woman, the proletarian's private secretary, said she did not know where Sinclair was; that he could be seen only by appointment through Mr. Otto.

At least two other Sinclair homes there appear to be—both on the seashore—which I did not have time to visit. The Sinclair property owning has become quite an issue in a campaign in which Sinclair is preaching the abolition of private enterprise and property. To the charges of insincerity illustrated by pictures of the Sinclair residences, Sinclair has an answer that he deems complete. It is that he never has owned a foot of property himself; that it is all owned by his wife.

His Proletarian Plight.

This is the way he tells it in his campaign booklet entitled "The Lie Factory Starts":

"My wife and I at the present time are financially embarrassed. At the moment of writing I have $10.74 in one bank account and $20.60 in another.

"I must tell you about my wife, and her financial affairs. You have met her, and know what a wise and kind and gracious woman she is. She is not very well, unfortunately; she has worn herself out trying to help other people in their troubles.

"She might have been, if she had given her time to it, one of America's great poets. She has written a few sonnets which I have published in pamphlet form, and one of them, entitled 'Love,' and addressed to her husband, was described by Luther Burbank as 'the finest thing of the sort ever born of the human mind.'

More About Mrs. Sinclair.

"Mary Craig Kimbrough was the daughter of one of the richest cotton planters in the state of Mississippi, a president of two banks and a judge of the state courts. She married a Socialist writer and shared her husband's poverty and hardships. There was a time when she pawned a diamond necklace to cover nine dollars a week rent on a furnished apartment in New York—this because her husband had spent his last dollar trying to help the Colorado mine strikers.

"After we came to California, Craig decided that she would no longer stand being poor; she hadn't been brought up to it. She decided that for the future her contribution to her husband's work would consist of providing him with a home and an income independent of his writings and 'causes.' She borrowed money from her father and brothers, bought some lots on the instalment plan, and bought some old houses and remodeled them and sold some of them, devoting her energy and health and artistic abilities to this humble end.

Makes Home for Husband.

"In that way she made some money and made a home for her husband, being particular to keep the property in her own name so that he could not spend it on any of his causes. At least that is what she declared she was going to do; but what happened was that every time a new cause arose and her husband became interested in it she allowed herself to be drawn into it, and mortgaged her real estate to help finance it.

"When her husband had written a new and specially dangerous book, again she would pledge her property to the printer in order to finance the publication. That has gone on for the past fifteen years, and I could tell a whole series of stories about Craig's real estate, and putting on of mortgages and paying them off again."

After telling how his wife built the Pasadena bungalow piecemeal beginning with a $30 garage, Sinclair gets to the Beverly Hills mansion:

"Two years ago I found that I had to be working all day in Hollywood and Culver City, and found the long trip each day a waste of time. I went over to rent a place in Hollywood or Beverly Hills, and I found the slump so desperately bad there that by assuming a mortgage my wife could purchase a house with a thousand dollars or so in cash payment, and that the interest on the mortgage would be less than the rent of a Hollywood house.

"So she assumed a mortgage, and we joined the aristocracy of Beverly Hills for a year and a half. But my wife found that she could not live in a two story house because of her health, so we moved back to the old place, and Craig is trying to sell the Beverly Hills equity.

"I must not leave anything for your sleuths to discover, so I mention that in the course of her real estate trades many years ago, my wife acquired two lots near Signal Hill. They were supposed to be worth a few hundred dollars each, but soon after that, oil was discovered, and I had an opportunity to get information which I used in my novel "Oil" not understanding the oil business, my wife traded her lots and secured two small houses at the beach.

Tries Climate for Health.

"On account of ill health, she wanted to try the beach climate. One place we lived in, and the other became the office of my book business. My wife still owns those places, for the reason that most real estate is owned in California these days—because it cannot be sold at any price. One of the Long Beach places is on the market at $1,000, and as this booklet goes to press, a purchaser is nibbling.

"Outside there stands a 1928 car which is now valued at $125. It breaks down now and then, and so the EPIC candidate has to hitch-hike to a political meeting. One of my political opponents called me a hitch-hiker—but not knowing that it was literally true."

Much has been heard in the campaign of the wealthy "angels" financing Sinclair's EPIC movement, including Mrs. Elene Barnstable of Hollywood, the wall of whose estate is placarded with demands for the pardon of Tom Mooney, and of Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz, one of the Chicago Cranes. Sinclair explains that Mrs. Gartz would be helping "if she had the funds."

Sinclair says his primary campaign cost him only $600—"all that my wife would give me." As soon, however, "as it became realized that I stood a chance of becoming governor of California the offers of money came in"—from the gamblers who offered "anything within reason" for a promise to be let alone.

'NOT CANDIDATE,' FARLEY'S REPLY TO G O P CHARGES

Nathan Straus Jr. Talks of Building Deal.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Nathan Straus Jr., president of a corporation building an $8,000,000 Bronx housing project with federal money, admitted today that a building material supply company operated by a brother-in-law of Postmaster General James A. Farley had cornered a substantial share of the contracts connected with that venture.

In a statement, Mr. Straus sorrowfully deplored the "mud slinging tactics" of Robert Moses, Republican candidate for governor. Moses charged yesterday that the housing project was being run as a huge fount of patronage by New York's secretary of state, Edward J. Flynn, and that the General Builders Supply company, of which Farley was formerly president and in which he remains a stockholder, profited by the sale of materials to the builders.

Straus Offers Explanation.

Mr. Straus then revealed figures which, he explained, showed that the supply company in which Farley is interested by no means got all the contracts from the builders of the big project.

The figures showed that Farley's company supplied one-third of the brick and one-third of the plaster for the buildings, but none of the cement, lime or sand. The value of the materials that company supplied was "only" one-fifth of the total spent for materials, Mr. Straus pointed out. Whether that one-fifth was a large or small figure in dollars and cents was a subject upon which all concerned were reticent.

Charges Slur at Lehman.

"I wonder," Mr. Straus said scornfully, "if Mr. Moses thinks he will get votes by a campaign of mud slinging at our great Gov. Lehman and those who are supporting him for reelection?"

Mr. Farley today had regained his placid good nature, said to have been disturbed at first by the charges.

"I've nothing to say," he remarked cheerfully when found at a Democratic luncheon. "After all, I'm not running for office."

Farley's Kindred Again.

Mr. Farley also refused to comment upon the revelations, first published a month ago, that the building supplies firm run by his relative sold materials aggregating about $400,000 in cost to the constructors of the postoffice building annex and the federal courts building here.

Concerning the charges that Flynn, adviser of President Roosevelt on New York City politics and a frequent guest at the White House, was using politically the housing board, which is supervising the venture under the direction of Mr. Flynn as secretary of state, George Cove, secretary of the board, said:

"The housing board has let $15,000,000 worth of contracts in the last year, and neither Mr. Farley nor Mr. Flynn communicated with the board directly or indirectly concerning those awards."

COUNTY LEADERS OF G. O. P. PLAN A FIGHTING FINISH

Begin Final 2 Week Battle with Rally Monday.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican leaders in Cook county announced yesterday that next Monday night they will raise the curtain on the hottest final fortnight of campaigning that ever preceded an election.

They have arranged a program for a big massmeeting in the Chicago Stadium that night which they say will sound a battle cry for the two weeks remaining before the election of Nov. 6. Refusing to follow the example of the Democrats who pictured a similar meeting as a county convention which "adopted" a platform, the G. O. P. said the 25,000 they expect to rally to the meeting will listen to a "declaration of war" on their opponents.

Ready Now to Open Final Fight.

Much of the time of the Republican committees until now has been occupied with details of organization, "cleaning house," selecting new ward leaders here and there, eliminating the previously costly factionalism and otherwise preparing for battle. Now, its spokesmen say, the party will open the fight on Monday and will continue it right up to election day.

While there is a general desire on the part of candidates to select the national political situation as their target since they feel that the local Democrats have chosen to hide behind it, party councils have led to a decision to center the fire on local issues.

Brooks to Direct Attack.

Because of this, the chairman of the Monday meeting, C. Wayland Brooks, nominee for congressman at large, who was given big receptions throughout his downstate tours whenever he discussed the New Deal, is to be the only speaker to touch on the subject of Washington.

The other speakers, all of whom will be candidates for county and other local offices, will confine themselves to an analysis of the records of the opposition and the declaration of war on the Democrats now in office.

"This meeting will make political history," said Jacob D. Allen, secretary of the candidates' committee. "The time has come to tear the smirking mask of political deceit and hypocrisy from the face of rascality, thievery, and sordid corruption.

"Our declaration will deal directly and specifically with our local affairs. It will at once take its place as the most complete, detailed exposure of the debauchery of a great city by a ring of corruptionists. It surpasses the exposure of the Tweed ring in New York."

Hour's Broadcast Over W-G-N.

An hour of the proceedings and speeches will be broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, in two thirty minute periods, the first from 8 to 8:30 and the other from 9 to 9:30 p. m. This will permit broadcasting the "declaration of war," Brook's discussion of the national situation, and some of the other important speeches. A similar broadcast was provided for the Democratic "county convention." In each instance THE TRIBUNE contributed the time on the air as a public service.

The Republican state organization also is preparing to carry the war downstate to the Democrats. Chairman Justus L. Johnson sent throughout the state a formal charge that Gov. Henry Horner, in his announcement that he would take the stump in senatorial districts where the Democratic candidates for the general assembly have hot contests, has disclosed that he intends to engage in the same practice for which former Gov. Len Small was severely condemned.

Johnson accused the governor of attempting to "hand pick" legislators—"an effort of the executive branch to take possession of the legislative branch of the state government."

Attacks Horner Legislation.

"In downstate Illinois," read the Johnson statement, "the governor will find a disturbed citizenry smarting under the legislative program he has forced through in the last twenty-two months. The sales tax, the state NRA act, and some of the other measures he jammed through will not meet with enthusiastic applause if he mentions them. We cannot expect him to dwell much upon them.

"It is to be hoped that when he asks voters to support his candidates for the assembly they will ask him just what is his program for the next session about which he is so anxious but which he has refused to disclose."

Candidates on Nov. 6 Ballot

Brief biographies are presented below of the Republican and Democratic candidates at the Nov. 6 election for clerk of the Criminal court:

Republican.

Franklin C. E. Lundquist is business manager of radio station WCFL. He is married, and lives with Mrs. Lundquist and their daughter at 2724 Winnemac avenue.

Mr. Lundquist was born in Chicago on March 15, 1885. He is active in the affairs of the Swedish people of the city. He is a member of the Swedish club, director of Svithiod Singing club, past grand master of the Independent Order of Svithiod, past president of the Swedish National societies of Chicago, past president of the Swedish Old Peoples' home, and is now serving his second term as president of the Cook County club of the John Ericsson Republican league of Illinois.

Democrat.

Thomas J. Bowler has served as president of the sanitary district since his election to the board of trustees in 1930. At the time of his election to the sanitary board, he was serving his fourth term in the city council as representative of the 41st ward.

Mr. Bowler was born on Feb. 18, 1886, near Jefferson and Sebor streets on the near west side. He was educated in the Armour street grade school, and went to work as an errand boy at the age of 12. After six years as a minor league baseball player, Bowler took a job as street car conductor and served five terms on the executive board of the Street Car Men's union. He is married and lives at 6101 Warwick avenue.

SEIZED AFTER HE HINTS AT CLEW IN BARBER SLAYING

Leslie Beedle, 23 years old, 2500 North Artesian avenue, was held by the Shakespeare avenue police last night for questioning in connection with the slaying of Charles Vallone, 2008 North Western avenue. Vallone, a barber, was shot down in his shop at 2417 Fullerton avenue on Wednesday.

Beedle was seized after Mrs. Angelina Vallone, widow of the barber, reported Beedle had hinted to her that he could tell the name of the killer. He admitted dropping the hint, but asserted he had nothing to do with the killing.

The police said they doubted if Beedle had any information of value, but decided to keep him in custody until the inquest is held.

We never dreamed it possible. And it wouldn't be, were it not for an unusual shift of events ★ ★ A few months ago, the fabric market was in the doldrums. Leading weavers had big stocks of raw wool, and no orders. To save expensive factory layoffs they made us this offer: "We'll deliver at cost, if you contract to keep our looms busy until regular orders start coming through." We jumped at the deal—but we're sorry to say it didn't last long. Congress started talking about a 30 hour week. The drouth forced up the prices of all commodities. Orders again started rushing through, at higher prices. And our "party" was over! That's why we have only a limited number of these money-savers. Today, they start on their merry way, at $25 with two trousers! ★ ★ So if you've that "new suit feeling"—and a tender regard for your pocketbook—treat yourself to one of these thoroughbreds, and save as much as $10. This is the week to do it!

BORAH'S MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY NEW AAA WORRY

Idaho to Be Denied Beet Sugar Benefits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration are finding it difficult to answer the charges of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], who is threatening to "raise a riot" because sugar beet producers of his state were left out of the AAA bounty plan.

The adjustment contracts prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace made specific provisions for "acts of God," such as the devastation of a region by drouth, but there was nothing in the planned economy which anticipated acts of man.

Strove for Parity Prices.

The contracts, recently offered by Secretary Wallace, were designed to assure sugar beet raisers pre-war parity prices on their 1933 crop by refunding losses sustained by processing and flood stock taxes and on the 1934 crop by the payment of benefits. But to get these bounties the growers must sign reduction agreements for 1935. Benefits for 1935 will be paid only to growers who have contracts with processors and deliver their crops.

The Amalgamated Sugar company recently moved out of the Twin Falls-Burley district of Idaho and located in California, claiming that Idaho crops had been too poor. This left the state without a processor.

Wallace Is Bewildered.

Secretary Wallace admitted at a press conference that he didn't know much about the situation and called upon Chester Davis, AAA administrator. Mr. Davis suggested that, inasmuch as Mr. Borah is a constitutional lawyer, an AAA legal expert had better do the explaining.

Lee Pressman, youthful Harvard law school graduate who was sponsored for his post by Felix Frankfurter, thereupon delivered a lecture that left Secretary Wallace, Administrator Davis, Economic Adviser Mordecai Ezekiel, three press agents, and forty reporters in a daze.

Mr. Pressman himself was apparently bewildered, but his explanation seemed to be something like this: The AAA couldn't force processors to sign contracts with producers; the government contracts had to be limited to producers holding processing contracts or the Jones-Costigan domestic beet sugar allotment might not be fulfilled.

TALLY OF VOTES ON RELIEF BONDS TO TAKE 3 WEEKS

It will be at least three weeks after the Nov. 6 election before the official outcome of the referendum on the $30,000,000 emergency relief bond issue will be known, it was said yesterday by Robert L. Taylor, attorney for the board of election commissioners. The bond proposition must win to prevent a $38,000,000 state tax levy from being collected from property owners next year.

Approval of the bond issue requires a majority of the number of votes cast for candidates for the state legislature.

The state canvassing board at Springfield will have to determine the total vote cast for legislative offices. In districts where state senators and representatives are to be elected, the total number will be divided by three, but if the resultant figure is smaller than the vote for senator, the latter vote will be considered. The problem will be simpler in districts where only a senator or representatives are to be chosen, Mr. Taylor said.

Marriage Canceled.

BARBARA WEEKS.
[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The wedding of Guinn [Big Boy] Williams, movie leading man and polo star to Barbara Weeks, movie actress, will not be held. Williams today announced that a "friendly agreement" between himself and Miss Weeks had determined the marriage license obtained last week would not be used. William Weeks, inspector at a local air terminal and father of the bride to be, complained to a member of the district attorney's staf that Williams had threatened him.

PRESIDENT GOES ON SHORT TRIP INTO VIRGINIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will leave the capital tomorrow morning for a three day trip. That will include the dedication of a new veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va., and the receiving of an honorary degree from William and Mary college at Williamsburg, Va.

Speculation to the effect that the President would discuss the soldiers' bonus question in his speech at Roanoke tomorrow afternoon was discounted today.

Saturday morning the President will attend the induction of John Stewart Bryan, editor of the Richmond News Leader, into office as president of William and Mary college. At that ceremony Mr. Roosevelt will receive an honorary degree. After which he will proceed to Yorktown. There he will board the presidential yacht Sequoia. He will return to Washington Monday morning.

The White House also announced today that President Roosevelt will leave on Nov. 15 for his annual trip to Warm Springs, Ga., for a three weeks sojourn. En route to Warm Springs, the President will inspect various projects of the Tennessee Valley Authority, with stops at Nashville, Tenn., Knoxville, Tenn., and Sheffield, Ala.

MONEY TINKERS HELD DANGEROUS BY BRECKINRIDGE

Candidate for Senate Hits Experimentation.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Col. Henry Breckinridge, candidate of the Constitutional party for the United States senate, addressed the Advertising club today on the subject of money, quoting Theodore Roosevelt to the effect that the silverites and allied financial theorists want, not money made of any particular substance, but "irredeemable paper money."

"Nowadays there is an idea going around that if government can just keep on changing the metallic content of the dollar fast enough everything will be fine," he said. "An old friend of mine who held high office in the treasury under a Democratic administration remarked to me the other day, 'The politicians have the American people sashaying back and forth between the experimental laboratory and the roulette wheel.'

Yardstick Would Change.

"Now, suppose the housewife could always buy a yard of cotton cloth for 25 cents and the law compelled this price, but the yardstick would change. So one day the housewife would get 30 inches for her quarter, another day 20 inches for her quarter, and another day perhaps 40 inches.

"Always she would be getting a yard of cotton cloth for her quarter, but unless she could stretch or shrink her children according to the changes of the yardstick there would be great variation in the number of yards of cotton cloth necessary to dress her children, and I do not see that she would be any better off. It seems to me lacking in common sense to say any of us would be better off by having the government constantly monkeying with the dollar.

Attacks Valuation Change.

"After all, it is the real things of economic life that count—the amount of food, clothes, and the countless other things that go into use and consumption. Doubling the size of the bushel would not make any less wheat. Cutting the bushel in two would not make any more wheat. And jacking the dollar up and down would not make it any easier for the millers to buy wheat or the bread eaters to buy bread."

Many Iowa Farmers Fail to Vote on Corn-Hog Poll

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Iowa, out where the tall corn grows, has given the New Deal a shock in the small vote cast by farmers in the corn-hog referendum of the AAA.

It is the home state of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and it is the champion corn-hog commonwealth. But its response on the question of continuing the regimentation process under the brain trust has been so disappointing that Secretary Wallace is quoted today as saying in Washington that another vote will be held on one of the questions.

Millions Paid to Iowans.

Despite the $73,727,900 of corn-hog checks which is given as Iowa's total, Santa has not delivered all of it yet.

Less than one-half of the corn-hog contract signers in the state have taken the trouble to vote in the referendum which the AAA has been holding in the last few weeks. Only about 35 per cent of the corn-hog contract signers voted for continuance of the corn-hog adjustment program in 1935.

The New Dealers had set up a shout that 70 per cent of the farmers were voting for continuance, but analysis showing less than half the farmers voting wiped away the smile. Now, with the election three weeks away, both Republican and Democratic politicians are wondering what it may mean for the Nov. 6 polls. It is being recognized as something of fundamental significance as reflecting farmer psychology toward "controled agriculture" as a brain trust experiment.

The farmers voted against the No. 2 proposal for a 1936 program.

Results on Two Questions.

Official figures obtained today from the federal corn-hog offices in the federal building are almost complete. With 61 townships out of 1,640 in Iowa missing, the tabulation shows the following results on the two questions submitted by AAA in its corn-hog plebescite:

1. On continuance of the corn-hog program in 1935:

	Yes.	No.
Contract signers	62,061	24,927
Nonsigners	2,194	4,135
Total	64,255	29,062

2. On a one contract a farm program for 1936:

	Yes.	No.
Contract signers	40,536	40,375
Nonsigners	1,354	3,904
Total	41,890	44,279

The number of farms in Iowa in the 1930 census was 214,928. The number of corn and hog raisers is about 190,000, and the number of corn-hog contract signers in Iowa is 176,000 in round numbers.

Using a little arithmetic on the results, politicians and others are pointing out that only 35 per cent of the corn-hog contract signers voted to continue the program next year. The yes vote represented about 30 per cent of all farms and 34 per cent of all corn-hog farmers. More than half the signers neglected to vote at all, although AAA has been ballyhooing the regimentation program as the road to salvation.

Plan Another Poll Later.

On the No. 2 question, covering a program proposal for 1936, those who voted gave it thumbs down and gave a majority of Noes. On this the AAA declaration quoted in Washington was that the farmers did not understand the question, so another vote will be held later.

New Dealers here who seem rather bewildered by the scant vote cast today sought to pull an alibi by saying that a 50 per cent vote is all that is cast anyway in some general elections. Many others took the ground that in view of the emphasis laid on the referendum by the AAA and the vital stake the farmer was told he possessed in the referendum, the small vote indicates a swinging away.

While the AAA held the referendum with the idea of getting a "mandate" from the farmer as a guide for further policy, the politicians looking for political clews regard the vote as indicating the farmer is growing in skepticism as to the value of brain trust panaceas. One view generally expressed here is that so long as Santa Claus is dishing out Christmas tree money the Iowa farmer expects to get his full share, but he is starting to wonder how, when, where, and by whom the presents will eventually be paid for when the bills come rolling in.

PLAN 6 HOUR DAY FOR CARPENTERS OF CHICAGO AREA

Adoption of the six hour day for union carpenters by independent contractors in the Chicago area was announced yesterday by Thomas Flynn, president of the Carpenters' District council. Business agents have made agreements with individual contractors on a six hour day five day week basis, Mr. Flynn said.

The Builders' association, composed of employing builders in Cook county, will consent to a 30 hour week on an eight hour day basis, but opposes the six hour day basis, Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the association, explained yesterday. "No member of our association signed those six hour day agreements, but we are still negotiating with the carpenter unions," Mr. Rosenthal said.

The Carpenters' District council has 18,000 members in Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties.

What the VINTAGE MARK means to you . . .

FOR CENTURIES it has been possible to choose a fine Vintage wine without guesswork. Every bottle of such wine bears its date—a mark that pledges its quality.

And now every 5¢ cigar smoker can select a mild, mellow Vintage cigar by this same method. Because every box of White Owl Cigars carries a Vintage mark.

The Vintage mark is our pledge—and your assurance—that Vintage White Owls contain none but the finest of American filler tobaccos. Only when nature particularly favors the crops—when leaf of Vintage quality is grown—is the tobacco considered suitable for White Owl.

We go one step further. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobaccos into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades passes White Owl's strict Grade A filler requirements. No other filler tobacco is ever used in White Owls.

That's what we mean by the Grade A Vintage mark on the White Owl box. That's why you can be sure of a quality cigar where you see the Vintage mark. You'll always find a mild, mellow smoke in the Vintage White Owl box. Try a Vintage cigar today.

TREASURER RUNS 718 PROPERTIES; COLLECTS TAXES

Receivership Law Speeds Back Payments.

County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash is now operating 718 income bearing properties valued at $100,000,000 in order to collect $4,512,053 in delinquent real estate taxes. Mr. Nash yesterday made public figures showing the efficacy of the Kerner-Skarda law, which authorizes his appointment as receiver of buildings whose owners fail to pay taxes.

Since the act went into effect on April 28, 1933, petitions to place 20,000 parcels of real estate in receivership have been filed by the treasurer's staf. The number of buildings actually taken over, however, has been comparatively small because the action served as a spur to hustle in tax payments to avoid the receiverships.

100 Suits Filed Daily.

In many cases delinquent owners arranged to make regular tax payments in monthly instalments. Suits against others are still being filed at the rate of 100 daily by Assistant State's Attorney William Crilly and Assistant Corporation Counsel William L. Sullivan.

Last summer the Illinois Supreme court held that the County court, in which the petitions were being filed, had no power to appoint receivers for the tax delinquent parcels. Filing of suits in the Circuit court began on June 25.

Payments Show Big Increase.

Since then 5,263 suits involving $33,222,592 in overdue taxes were filed in the Circuit court. Delinquent taxes paid in this period totaled $14,491,180. In the same period payments of current 1932 taxes totaled $29,226,664, making an aggregate of $43,717,845 paid in less than four months, long after the penalty dates were passed.

The treasurer showed that delinquent real estate tax collections were almost three times as great during the twelve months after the receivership law became effective as in the year preceding. In the earlier period delinquent 1928, 1929 and 1930 tax payments totaled only $15,321,180. In the first year under the Kerner-Skarda law payments for the same years were $46,988,556. In the same comparative periods the total of all delinquent and current real estate taxes collected was $69,239,873 prior to the law and $166,804,041 after it became effective.

FAIR WILL RETIRE $879,921 MORE IN DEBTS ON NOV. 1

All Bondholders to Break Even, Says Lohr.

Another payment, totaling $879,921, will be made in cash by A Century of Progress to its bondholders Nov. 1, it was announced yesterday by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair. This means that two classes of notes will be paid off in full with interest, leaving approximately $600,000 plus interest still unpaid out of the original bond issue of $9,700,000.

Authorization of this payment definitly established the payment of 94 per cent of the bond issue principal. Whether the remaining 6 per cent will be paid is problematical, Maj. Lohr said. Nevertheless, if demolition costs less than the million dollars set aside for it and weather for attendance during the remaining two weeks of the Fair, observers predict that another payment will be made, probably about Jan. 1.

"None to Lose Money."

"No bondholder will lose any money," said Maj. Lohr. "Even if nothing more is paid on the $600,000 indebtedness which will remain after Nov. 1, the bondholders will have received enough interest to bring their returns up to the amounts they originally put in."

The payment Nov. 1 will retire the final 10 per cent of the principal owed on unwaived bonds, or $165,750, plus $414.87 in interest for the period from Oct. 15 to Nov. 1. Thus the holders of these notes will be paid in full with interest.

Also included in the payment to be made on Nov. 1, Maj. Lohr explained, is $713,757 on waived notes, making another 11 per cent paid to this class of noteholders. Ninety-one per cent of these bonds therefore will be retired.

Agreement with Noteholders.

The distinction between waived and unwaived notes was made in October, 1934, when, finding it necessary to hold certain sums in its treasury to finance construction of the 1934 Fair, the Exposition management asked holders of unguaranteed notes to waive their immediate rights to interest payment. Eighty per cent of the bondholders agreed to do this, and before the opening of the 1934 Fair permitted a 10 per cent payment to be applied against guaranteed notes. This was done, and approximately $2,000,000 worth of guaranteed notes was wiped out.

Dreary weather yesterday ushered in Fair's final two weeks. Many out of town sightseers braved the chilly winds, however, and at midnight 48,553 the turnstiles. At the same hour 34,097 persons on the relief rolls had been admitted free.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Costica Florescu, who swings through the air in a 200 foot arc supported only by his teeth, will make his first World's Fair appearances tomorrow as a feature of the congress of thrills. Workmen will start early today erecting the rigging for Florescu on Northerly Island at the 23d street bridge. Performances tomorrow and Sunday will be at 3, 7:30, and 9 p. m.

The Illinois State Florists' association will present the final Fair flower show beginning tomorrow in the Horticultural building. This is the association's annual show and will continue until the end of the Fair.

Seven thousand employés of Wilson & Co. will arrive today at 2 p. m. for the Wilson day celebration. Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board of directors, and Edward F. Wilson, president of the company, will attend.

Mandel Brothers' department store announced yesterday that it will hire 75 employés of A Century of Progress after the Fair closes on Oct. 31. This move is being followed by many large business houses in Chicago.

The high school essay contest on "The Plays of Shakespeare at the Old Globe Theater," will close tomorrow and winners will be announced by J. T. Schless, general manager of Merrie England, at a meeting in the Old Globe Theater, on Oct. 27. First place brings a $200 scholarship, and the next three places scholarships of $100 each.

Chicago Legionnaires will celebrate American Legion day at the Fair today. Drum and bugle corps will perform at the Legion building from 7 to 9 p. m.

Employés at A Century of Progress will hold their farewell dance Monday, Oct. 22, at 8:30 p. m., in the Trianon ballroom. Elinor Huesman, 1102 Loyola avenue, who was chosen "Miss Century of Progress" recently, will preside with her court of honor. Stars of the Fair's entertainment talent will be attractions.

Mrs. Margaret Jane Hazard, 82 years old, of Cincinnati has hiked over the entire Exposition grounds during her visit here, according to her son, J. Lester Hazard. She visited the 1893 Fair.

Dowagiac, Niles, Buchanan, and other nearby Michigan cities will send 2,800 public school pupils to the Fair today.

A musical contest in which contracts to sing with the Chicago Grand Opera company will be given to the winning male singer and the leading woman singer will begin at 8 p. m. Monday in the Lagoon Theater and continue nightly through Saturday, Oct. 27.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

MISSION CHURCH GROUP'S FIGHT FOR FUNDS TOLD

Report Reveals Rescues from Mortgages.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The struggle of the Methodist Episcopal church to keep its missionary churches alive in the Chicago area during these difficult times is related in the annual report of the church's Home Missionary and Church Extension society made yesterday by Dr. John Thompson, superintendent.

The most serious problem the society has had to face during the depression has been the saving of church properties, according to the report. Churches were built in the midst of prosperity with mortgages secured and money borrowed when no one could foresee the depression, and the society with its endowments and pledges guaranteed interest and indorsed notes, the report states.

Emergency Fund Raised.

"The burdens have been almost intolerable," the report adds. "Many of our churches were in serious jeopardy, but all but three or four have been saved through an emergency fund raised among our churches."

The missionary churches serve twenty races and nationalities. Many are exclusively foreign language churches.

The society's social service department finds work for the jobless, and aids unfortunate girls and women.

Mergers Bring Saving.

"There is an erroneous impression that Protestantism is forsaking the downtown sections of Chicago with the movement of substantial family life from the center of the city to its outlying sections, leaving one time strong family churches reduced in their support," the report states.

"Nothing could be further from the facts. We have a comity commission of nineteen denominations which has saved Protestantism hundreds of thousands of dollars by avoiding needless overlapping through merging denominations where there are too many striving for existence."

CONTRACTOR SUES BUSSE FAMILY OF MOUNT PROSPECT

Charging the Busse family with exercising monopolistic control in Mount Prospect and forcing him to move away from the town, Sven F. Svenson, 5040 Wilson avenue, a building contractor, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday for $65,000.

The defendants named are the Mount Prospect State bank; its president, William Busse Jr.; County Commissioner William Busse Sr.; and George Busse Jr., nephew of the county commissioner and a real estate dealer at 12 East Busse street, Mount Prospect.

Svenson's bill, drawn by Attorney Helmar O. Ekberg, says the Busse family conspired against him for his failure to patronize the business places they control. He alleges the defendants harassed him in the building and management of several houses in the town. He charges them with conspiracy, slander, and practicing fraud and deceit, alleging that their treatment forced him out of the town last March 1.

She gave her occupation as a nurse, but refused to identify herself further. She was released from the hospital.

CHURCH ATTACKS ARMS PROFITS AT CONVENTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Possibilities of the development of another Protestant church as a result of the unification of promotional functions of the various missionary and benevolent boards of the Disciples of Christ became somewhat more remote today. The international convention of that religious group, in session here, accepted the unification report without debate.

A resolution condemning war and asking that private profits be removed from manufacture and sale of munitions was unanimously adopted by the convention today.

However, the new money raising plan does not go into effect until some time after July 1, 1935, at the discretion of the commission on budgets and promotional relationships.

Nine of the ten national boards accepted the new promotional plan in committee room sessions. Out of the 32 state or regional boards, 23 have officially given sanction to the new setup. The national board still remaining outside the new unification is the National Benevolent association. This board, with offices in St. Louis, was organized for the support of hospitals and other philanthropic activities of the church.

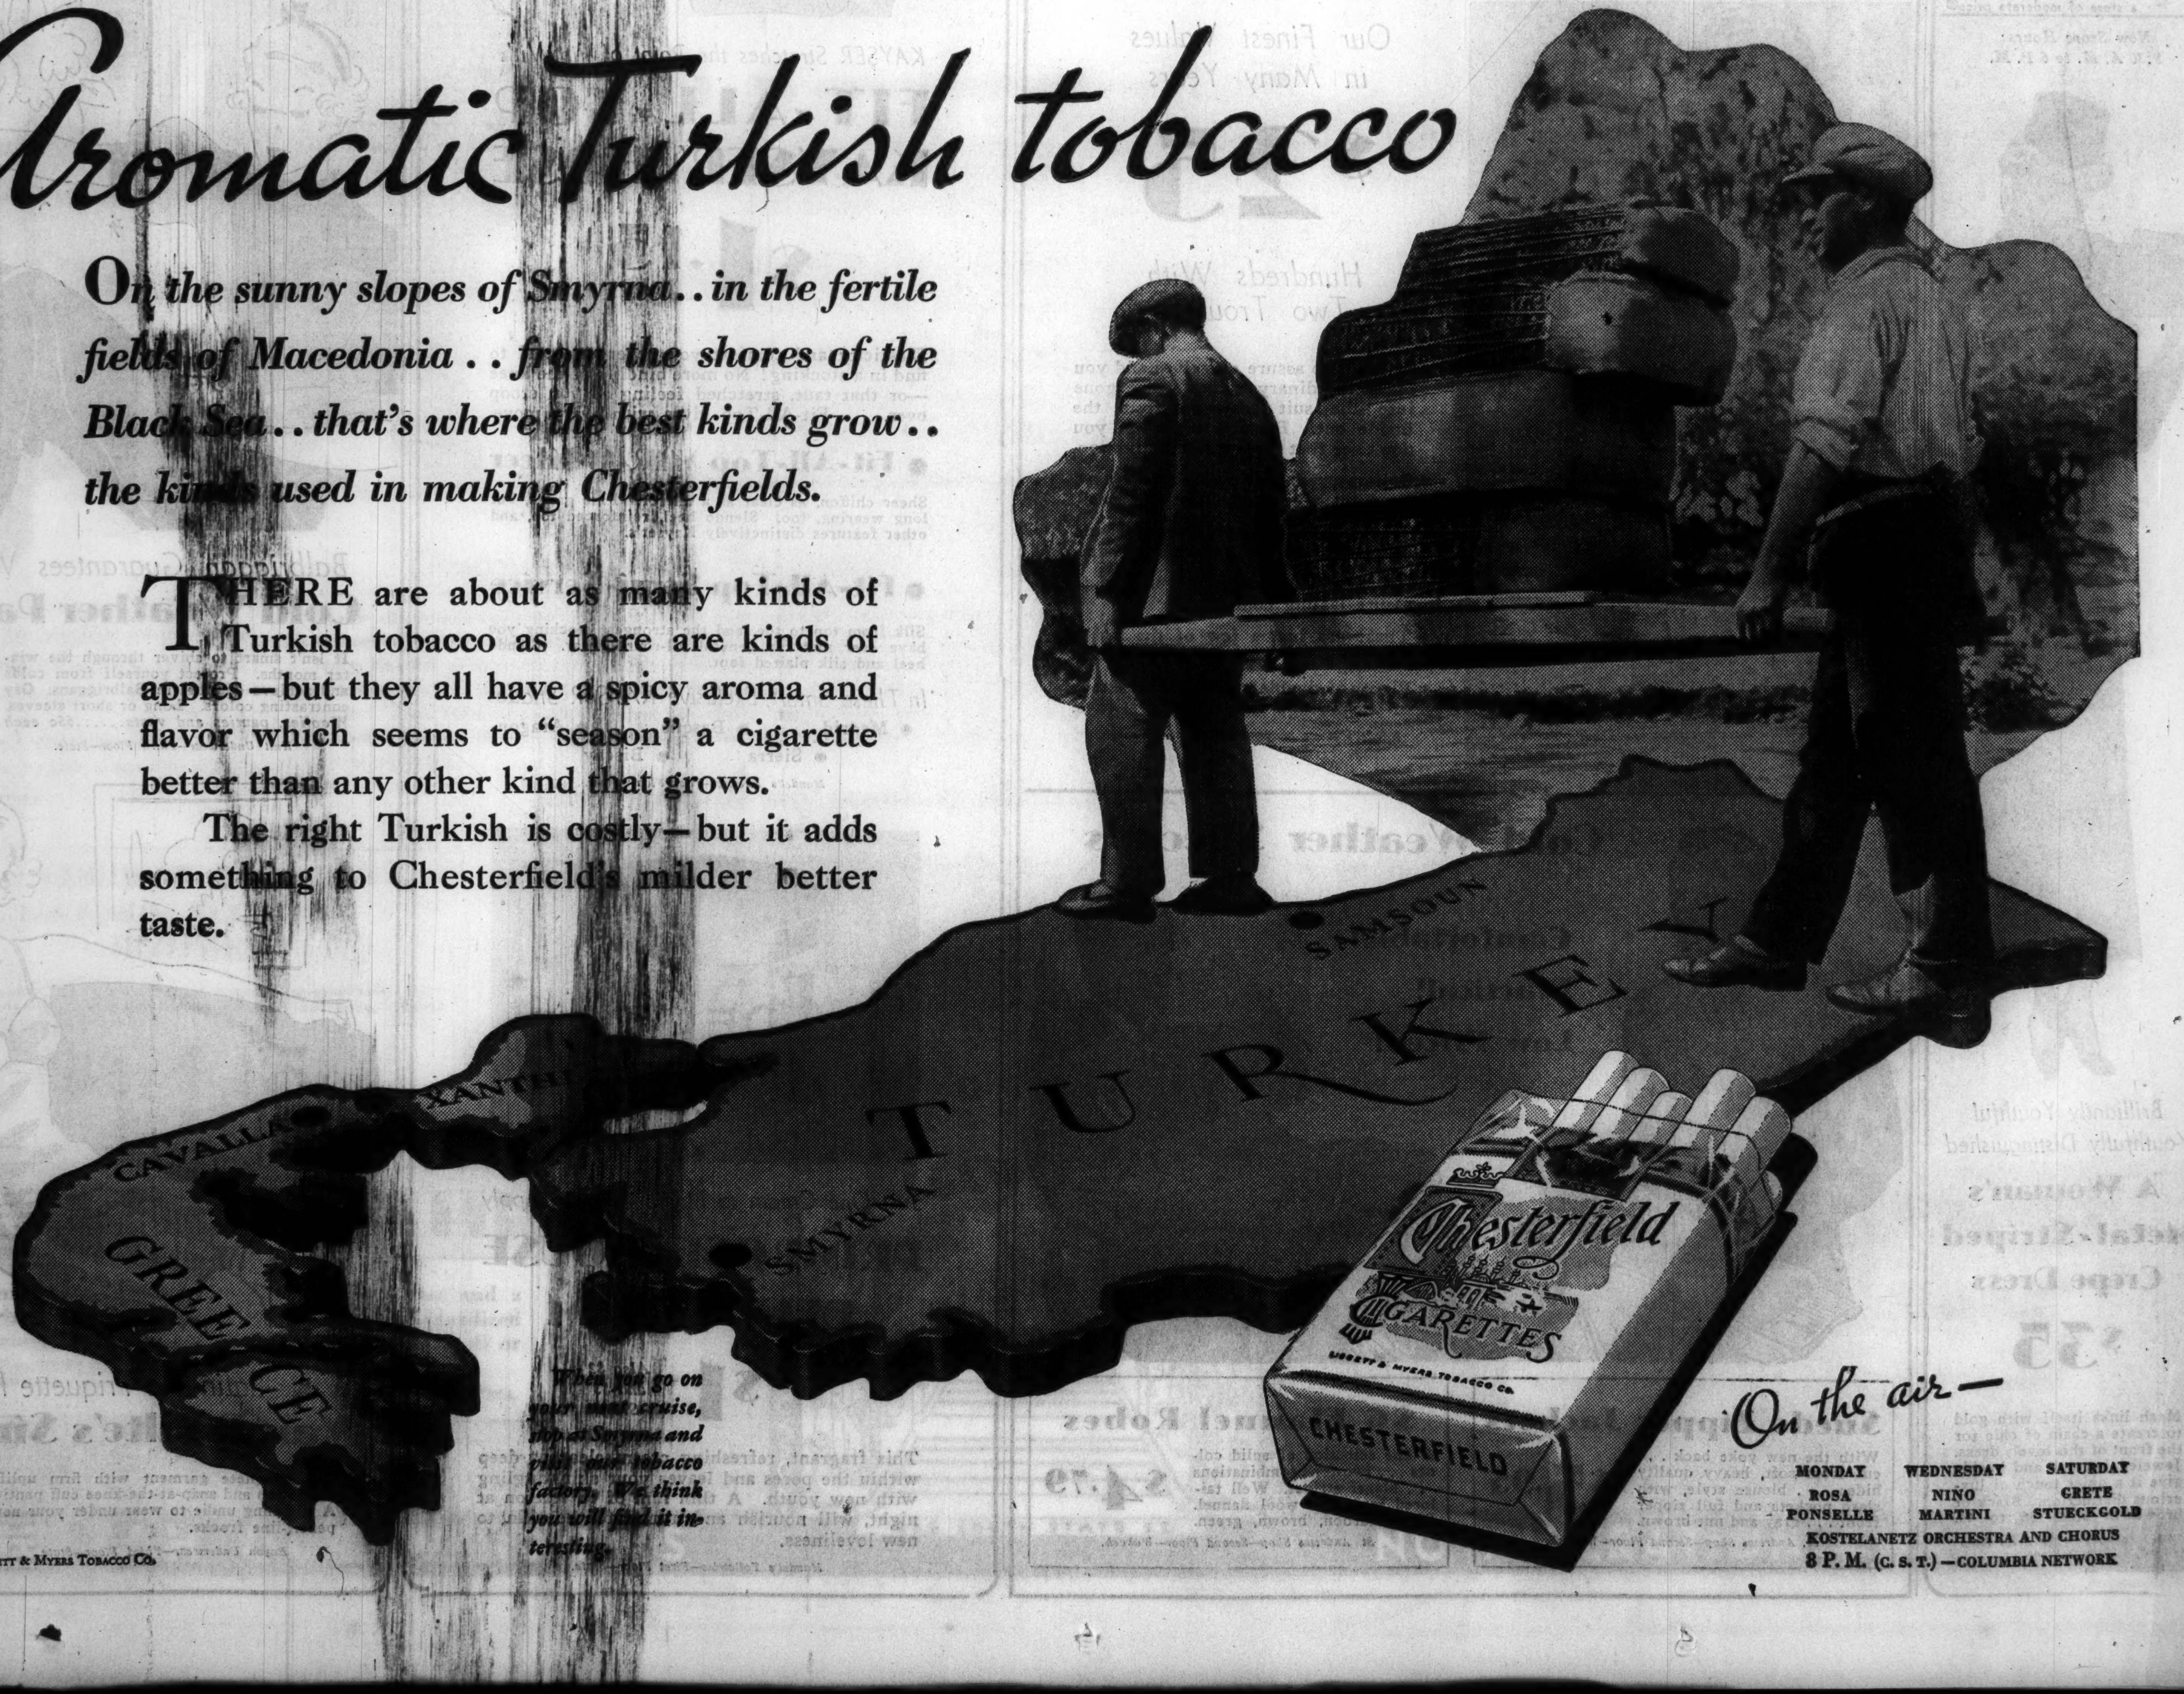
Aromatic Turkish tobacco



On the sunny slopes of Smyrna.. in the fertile fields of Macedonia.. from the shores of the Black Sea.. that's where the best kinds grow.. the kinds used in making Chesterfields.

THERE are about as many kinds of Turkish tobacco as there are kinds of apples—but they all have a spicy aroma and flavor which seems to "season" a cigarette better than any other kind that grows.

The right Turkish is costly—but it adds something to Chesterfield's milder better taste.

When you go on your next cruise, stop at Smyrna and visit our tobacco factory. We think you will find it interesting.

INSULL'S LOSSES IN MARKET WAR BARED AT TRIAL

Charge Eaton Winnings Paid by "Victims."

ties salesman told her it could not go lower. David Isenberg, furniture dealer, 722 Bittersweet place, bought 400 shares from an agent of the company. He paid on the instalment plan, he said, until "the company went to pieces."

"How to Make $500."

Mabel McDonnell, 2000 Foster avenue, needed $500 to pay on a lot before Jan. 1, 1932. On the advice of a salesman she bought 25 shares of Corporation Securities at $15.56 a share in July, 1931. The salesman told her, she said, that she would make her $500 in that way.

P. J. Fallon, former treasurer for Insull, Son & Co., was on the stand at adjournment as the witness through whom the government expected to show the formation of an inner company syndicate that sold over $18,000,000 worth of stock to Corporation Securities at a profit to the members, several of whom are defendants.

Stock "Ransoming" Bared.

The transactions with Eaton in which Insull "ransomed" the stocks of three of his operating companies were told to the jury by Assistant District Attorney Leslie E. Salter, who read from the minutes of the meetings of the executive committee of the Corporation Securities company.

The first mention of this appeared in the minutes of the meeting on June 2, 1930. The executive committee was informed that Eaton held 160,000 shares of stock in the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and was willing to sell these shares to Insull for $400 a share.

In previous hearings on the receiverships of the Insull holding companies the courts have referred to Eaton's operations as a "piratical raid."

"Ransom" Higher Than Market.

Eaton's exact holdings were 85,800 shares of Commonwealth Edison, 60,600 shares of Peoples Gas, and 13,600 shares of Public Service of Northern Illinois. Insull informed the executive committee, according to the minutes, that he was negotiating for the purchase from Eaton at $350 a share. This price was in excess of the market price.

On June 3, 1930, the executive committee was informed by Insull that Eaton was willing to sell his stock at $350 a share, a total purchase price of $56,000,000. It was agreed to pay Eaton $48,000,000 in cash and $8,000,000 in stocks of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities company. The companies agreed to share equally the cost of buying Eaton's holdings, but the transaction was to be in Insull's name.

Insull Freed from Loss.

The minutes of June 16 disclosed a resolution by the executive committhe "that the transaction is for the benefit of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities company and while it is carried in Insull's name he is forever protected and indemnified and is rendered harmless and not responsible for any loss incurred on the purchase."

Developing this line of evidence and the effect of the purchase on the fortunes of the Insull empire—it being regarded as the beginning of the downfall—Prosecutor Salter read from the minutes of the meeting of Sept. 9, 1930, when it was decided that to enable Corporation Securities to bear its half of the purchase price, the sale of $40,000,000 of the company's serial gold notes to the public should be authorized.

The gold notes were sold through Halsey, Stuart & Co., four of whose officials are defendants in the present trial. Later, $10,000,000 of the notes were canceled. When Corporation Securities failed, more than $24,000,000 of the notes were in the public's hands.

The records of the meetings showed that Harold L. Stuart, one of the defendants, was not present at most of them and that at one where he was present he refused to vote on the Eaton transaction and the gold note issue.

Insull's former stock broker, who testified for the government, was J. D. Scheinman. He had maintained offices at 120 South La Salle street. Scheinman, a short man in dark business clothes, was apparently nervous while he was questioned by the prosecution, his replies often being indistinct as he covered his mouth with his hand.

On cross-examination by the defense, however, Scheinman spoke in a louder tone. Obviously still loyal to Insull, he said he "had gone to Insull for advice and everything—he was like a father to me." After detailing the dummy sales on direct examination, Scheinman said on cross-examination that he believed there was nothing wrong in them."

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who, since delivering his opening address, has allowed his assistants to handle the case, appeared in the rôle of an interrogator on the examination of Scheinman. The stock broker said he had met Insull while doing bookkeeping work for the Chicago Civic opera. He said that he first talked to Insull on brokerage business in October, 1929.

"I was out to break away from my partners and would have been forced to liquidate if I couldn't get business," Scheinman said, "so I asked Mr. Insull for business and he said he would help me out."

Q.—[By Mr. Green]—When did you see Insull next? A.—On Dec. 1, 1929. He told me to buy units of Corporation Securities stock [each unit containing one share of common and one of preferred]. He wanted me to get the unit price up to 75 as that was what the stockholders paid for it. He gave me discretionary orders, telling me to use my judgment as to how much to buy or sell.

Q.—How long did this continue? A.—Until April 1, 1930. Then I talked to Scheel]Fred H. Scheel, one of the defendants, who was vice president of Utility Securities company, the marketing concern for Corporation Securities]. He told me to buy the common stock at 27½ a share.

Market Break Brings Crisis.

Q.—Did you talk to Scheel on the telephone on May 2, 1930? A.—Yes. There was a bad break in the market. I was buying the common stock at 27½ and told him I needed a bushel basket to carry it. He said: "What the hell can I do? I've got to take it. You've got to buy it."

Q.—On what account were you handling the Corporation Securities units? A.—On the name of C. W. Daniels (former employé of the company). I didn't know him.

Q.—Did you talk to Insull in January, 1930, about Insull Utility Investments, Inc., common stock? A.—Yes. He said he didn't like to see this stock so low and was willing to buy up to 10,000 shares to get it higher. The next month he told me to buy 10,000 more shares. Scheel and I discussed scalpers on the exchange who were trying to anticipate our moves. However, we wanted the stock to be active.

Q.—Now was there a special J. D. Scheinman trading account and an A. Garfield Stensland trading account in your office? A.—Yes. Stensland was my order clerk.

Q.—Was there any relation between the accounts? A.—Yes. The Scheinman account would buy and sell from the Stensland account and vice versa. The transactions were in Corporation Securities and Insull Utility Investment stocks.

Q.—Why were these accounts handled this way? A.—To save commission for the Utility Securities company.

Testimony Kept in Record.

On cross examination Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing the Insulls, moved to strike out the testimony in regard to the trading accounts, contending that it had not been shown the defendants had knowledge of them. The motion was denied by Judge Wilkerson after Prosecutor Green said that the government had shown Insull and Scheel used Sheinman as their agent. The witness was then examined by Attorney Thompson.

Q. [By Thompson]—You went to Insull in October, 1929, for advice? A.—I went to him for everything—he was like a father to me.

Q.—There was no suggestion of anything illegitimate in your dealings or any violation of the exchange rules? A. [loudly]—No, sir. Certainly not.

"Spending His Own Money."

Q.—Was Insull spending his own money? A.—As far as I know. The transactions, however, were in the name of P. J. McEnroe [another defendant, who was vice president of Corporation Securities].

Q.—[By Defense Attorney Jay Fred Reeve]—You still feel there was nothing improper in the transactions, don't you? A.—Yes, sir. We were buying Corporation Securities stock to prevent a sag in the market. There were rumors at that time that the Insull stocks were being raided by the bears. There was gossip that J. P. Morgan was out to wreck Insull. All these things caused the stock to go down.

In reply to a final question by Prosecutor Green, Scheinman said that he billed Daniels and McEnroe for his commissions on the stock transactions.

Stensland was the next witness. He was questioned by the prosecutor.

Q.—Did you have any interest in the A. Garfield Stensland account? A.—No. As I understand it, it was opened to clear the trades of Utility Securities and to save them commissions.

Q.—What did you attempt to do in this account and in Scheinman's special one? A.—To make the stocks appear more active.

Q.—Did you try to balance these accounts? A.—Yes. At the end of the day there was usually an even number of shares on each side, and the amount bought by one account was equal to the amount sold by the other.

Profits "Wipe Out Costs."

Q.—How about the commissions? A.—The commissions were charged to the Stensland account and usually in a day or two there would be a profit of, say, ⅛ of a point to wipe out this cost.

On cross-examination, Attorney Reeve asked Stensland if he knew why an attempt was made to save "infinitesimal commissions" on the two accounts while Utility Securities was paying commissions on its other transactions.

Stensland said he was "just following Scheinman's orders."

Earlier in the day Attorney Salter had shown from a reading of minutes that when Corporation Securities brought out its issue of 1,250,000 shares of common stock in 1930 it was to be offered to the public at $27.50 a share by Utility Securities. Corporation Securities imposed the condition that the latter company maintain the price of the Corporation Securities units of stock, issued the previous year, at between $69.50 and $70 per unit.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . Vigor . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

INSULL JURY TAKEN TO MOVIE PREVIEW; STORY ABOUT OPERA

The twelve members and the two alternates on the jury in the Insull fraud trial were entertained last night at a preview screening of the motion picture "One Night of Love" in a private room at the Chicago theater. The jurors were taken from their quarters in the Great Northern hotel to the theater at 7:30 p. m. in charge of Frank Otto, Judge Wilkerson's bailif. No other persons were permitted in the room.

The picture, in which Grace Moore plays the leading rôle, deals with the career of an opera star.

PONZI BACK IN ITALY; SAYS HE'S GLAD TO BE HOME

NAPLES, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, laughing and rollicking, and in his own words "glad to be home again," burst from the third class quarters aboard the liner Vulcania today full of political predictions about the United States.

The get-rich-quick genius whose plans brought ruin to investors in the United States and 12 prison years to himself, made his fellow passengers happy, they said, during his deportation trip to his native land.

In a moment of solemnity Ponzi said, "the destiny of the United States is either Fascism or Communism. Roosevelt is a good man and I hold him in great esteem, but America cannot go ahead under his present political system."

Ponzi said he would not return to his native Parma in southern Italy, but would go to Rome, where "I hope to open either a tourist agency or a hotel."

HOLD 3 AS AUTO RADIO STRIPPERS; HUNT 2 OTHERS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 25; recovered, 32; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Wednesday].

Three members of a gang of thieves whose specialty was stripping automobiles of their radio sets are under arrest at the Burnside police station and two others are being sought.

One of the trio in custody, Joseph Korvelly, 20 years old, 9225 University avenue, has confessed that the band took 50 radios in recent weeks and also that they burglarized 17 homes. The others held are Frank Zimmerman, 26 years old, 9336 University avenue, and Ignatz W. Arendt, 34 years old, 8245 Buffalo avenue.

Arendt was the alleged fence for the gang. Thirteen radio sets, some silverware, and other articles of value were found in a small shop he operates.

3 Policemen Dismissed by Civil Service Board

Three policemen were ordered discharged from the department yesterday by the city civil service commission. Patrolmen Patrick J. Dwyer of the Des Plaines street station and George Lowing of the Cragin station were dismissed on charges of intoxication. Charles Collins of the North Damen avenue station was discharged for conduct unbecoming a policeman.

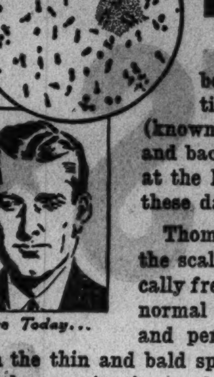
Dandruff Germs Cause
BALDNESS



Here Today...

Almost 90% of all cases of baldness can be traced to some form of dandruff infection. Dandruff is caused by minute "germs" (known technically as Flaschenbacilli of Unna and bacille a bouteille of Sabouraud). The sketch at the left, made from a microscope slide, shows these dandruff germs, greatly enlarged.

Thomas treatment removes dandruff germs from the scalp, and leaves it antiseptically free of infection. It stops abnormal hair-fall, ends scalp itch, and permits hair to grow again on the thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination and see for yourself exactly how this reliable, proved method overcomes all types of local scalp ills.

"Why, we've actually saved money on cleaning bills already!

GAS HEAT IS SO CLEAN"

Read this true story by Mrs. Helen Schultz, 2421 S. 56th Court, Cicero.

THOUSANDS upon thousands of enthusiastic users of gas heat can tell the same story. Mrs. Schultz knows what a relief it is not to have to clean up after the mess of soot and grime, dirt and dust. Housework is enough trouble without adding to the burden with dirty fuel and an old-fashioned heating system that constantly needs attention.

Gas heat has shown the way to perfect heating comfort. With gas, you never worry about the furnace. Simply set a little thermostat on the wall and the heat comes up. And there's no dirt. Because gas heat is clean—absolutely clean.

Get the facts on gas neat . . . NOW

We want you to prove to yourself that gas heat will make your home cleaner than ever before. More comfortable. Give you much more time for leisure. We want you to experience the pleasure of gas heat. So here's our proposition. We'll install a burner in your present furnace or boiler. We'll install it at our expense. You have a month, two months or a year to decide if you like it. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the nine heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If at any time within the year you find you don't like gas heat, we'll take it out—at our expense—and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat, as we think you will, all the rental you have paid is applied on the purchase price of the equipment.

Investigate this offer at once. Install gas heat and your home will have countless advantages no other type of heat can give. For full details, get in touch with your nearest gas company office.

Mrs. Schultz has more time to enjoy the company of her baby daughter since gas heat has banished dirt and dust from the Schultz home.

GAS SERVICE HAS 84-YEAR RECORD

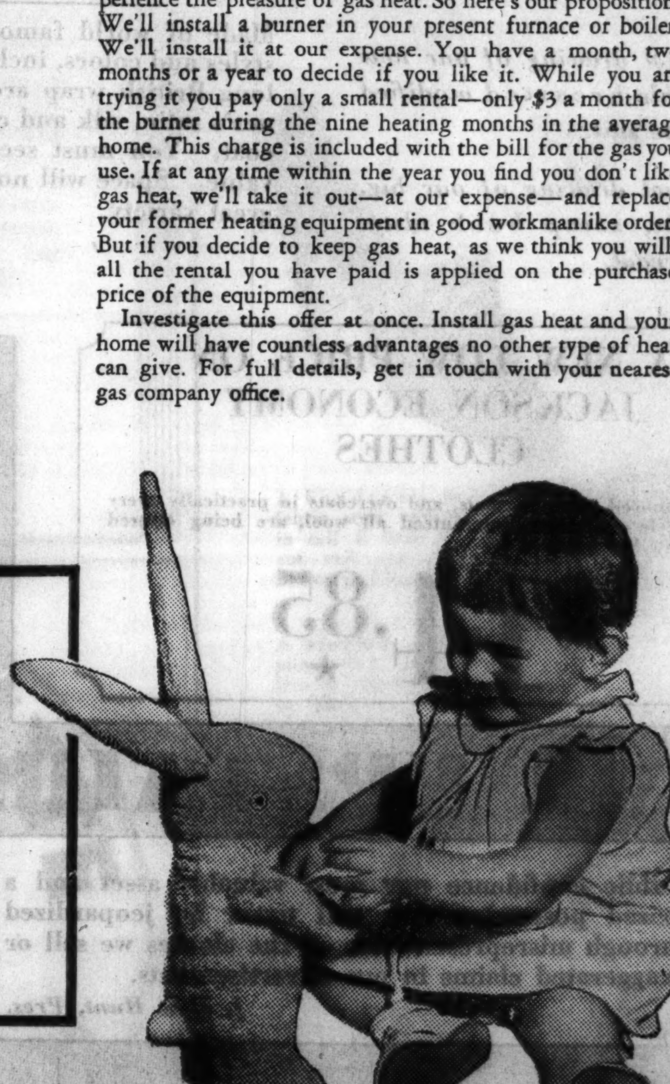
Gas service was turned on for the first time in Chicago on September 4, 1850. There were 125 customers for the new company—also 99 street lamps and the city's one public building to be lighted by gas. Since that evening 84 years ago, gas service has continued without interruption in Chicago.

Eighty-four years have brought great changes. The little 4-mile gas main of 1850 has grown into a 3,735-mile distributing system. The city now uses as much gas in one hour as it did in the entire first year, 1850-51. Constant research and experiment fostered by the management, plus the conscientious efforts of 4,000 employes, have brought improvements in service that have given Chicago a gas service unexcelled anywhere in the world.

This service has been a factor in the growth and development of Chicago and our aim is to make it an increasingly potent factor.

YOU INVEST NOTHING
To Try Gas Heat

- Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense, remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.



"The uniform, comfortable temperature gas heat gives our home," says Mrs. Helen Schultz, "is especially welcome because my little girl can play in any room, on the floor, anywhere."

ALLEGED 'BRAIN' OF ASSASSINS IS JAILED BY ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 18.—Evidence indicating that Dr. Anton Pavelich, leader of a Croat revolutionary organization, who was arrested today at Turin, Italy, came to Marseilles a few days before the arrival of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and personally organized the assassination plot was unearthed today by Marseilles police.

Pavelich, described by the French police as the "master mind" of the assassin gang, was jailed at Turin together with Egon, or Eugene, Kvaternik. Lengthy grillings, despatches from Turin said, failed to break their emphatic denials that they had anything to do with the assassination. The two men declared they were miles from the scene of the assassination of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France.

Hotel Register Clew.

The clew which led to the discovery that Pavelich was in Marseilles a few days before the killing was a hotel register, or rather one of those information slips which travelers in most European countries are obliged to fill out when registering at a hotel. A special department of the Surete Nationale does nothing but check up on these slips. In scanning the records it was discovered that on Sept. 30, a man, who gave his name as Georges Pavelescu, 44, registered at a little hotel near the railroad station with his wife, Marie. The register said he was an employé of the Rumanian state railways.

A detective figured out that Pavelescu was the Rumanian equivalent of the Serbian Pavelich and police summoned the hotel proprietor. Photographs of the Croat revolutionary leader were exhibited to the hotel keeper, who positively declared he was the same man who had registered under the name of Pavelescu.

Efforts now are being made to trace Pavelich's movements after he left the hotel—for he stayed only one night. The police also are attempting to determine whether the Marie, who registered as his wife, was the mysterious blonde beauty who is suspected of having furnished the slain assassin Vlada Georgieff Tschernocemskz, alias Petrus Kalemen, with his weapons.

Two Names Linked.

French police recall that a blonde woman registered at a hotel in Aix-en-Provence with "the delegate" Kvaternik under the name of Marie Vjudroch.

Authorities also suspect that Pavelich after leaving Marseilles went to Aix or nearby Avigon and from there directed the operations of the assassin, leaving France on the eve of the crime.

According to the police, if it can be proved Pavelich was in Marseilles and communicated with other members of the gang there, it should be easy to indict him as the real instigator of the plot and condemn him to death.

It is expected the French police will request Italy to extradite Pavelich and Kvaternik immediately so they can be brought to Marseilles for examination. It is generally believed the Italians will heed the request for extradition since they arrested the two Croats at the behest of the French authorities.

KING ALEXANDER HONORED HERE IN MEMORIAL RITES

While funeral services were being conducted yesterday in Belgrade for King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, a similar service was held here at the same hour, 11:30 a. m., at the Serbian Eastern Orthodox church, 1905 Fowler street. This official Chicago memorial for the assassinated king was attended by D. C. Kolombatovich, Jugo-Slav consul general, and the entire consular corps.

The church was crowded. Attending were representatives of the United States army and navy and of the state, county, and city. The service was conducted by the Rev. P. O. Stiyachich, pastor of the church.

Memorials were conducted in other churches, including St. Michael's Archangel Orthodox Serbian church, 98th street and Commercial avenue. A picture of the king is to be hung in the church with a vigil light, under auspices of the Circle of Serbian Sisters of Queen Zorka. Several other memorial services are scheduled for next Sunday and on Dec. 17, the day following the king's birthday.

Modern Chivalry Adds One to John Pullishy's Family

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 18.—(AP)—John Pullishy, Lamont, Alta., farmer, is a chivalrous man. He had his own problems, but when an unknown lass smiled prettily and asked him to hold a bundle for her he did so cheerfully. He waited and waited. Then he opened the bundle. Now his eight children at home have a six week old brother.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every 6 minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c. ©1934, C.M.Co.

MOTHER IS HELD

MRS. LUCILLE CAREY.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Lucille Carey, 24 years old, 517 West 42d place, mother of four children, was held last night by the Stockyards police for an inquest today into the death of her oldest child, Jeanne, 4 years old, who was fatally burned early yesterday while playing with matches in her home.

Mrs. Carey, whose husband, Thomas, is in Joliet penitentiary for burglary, admitted to the police that she was away from home Wednesday night attending a beer party. The police arrested James Murphy, 57 years old, 512 West 43d street, when it was reported that the party was held in his flat.

Mrs. Carey returned home yesterday morning as the police were taking her daughter to the Evangelical hospital. Neighbors who saw the girl run into the street with her clothing on fire beat out the flames. She died several hours later. The other children, Helen, 3 years old; Peggy, 2, and William, 1, were placed in St. Vincent's orphanage.

SERBIA DEMANDS HUNGARY EXPLAIN TERROR "COLONY"

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Oct. 18.—Immediately after the conclusion of the funeral ceremony of King Alexander today an intimation was conveyed to the Hungarian government from the Jugo-Slav government to the effect that the latter is greatly shocked at the proof that has been received that Hungary has been harboring Croatian terrorist organizations on her territory.

The Jugo-Slav government is said to have requested within ten days from the Hungarian government full details of the activities of Croatian and Macedonian terrorists in Hungary.

Despite its very precise language, the intimation, having been conveyed informally, does not have the character of an ultimatum. It will, however, form the basis of political discussions by the mebers of the little entente conference, which begins tomorrow.

Estate Finally Settled; Heir Gets His 50 Cents

Pecos, Tex., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Joe Hinson, Pecos pharmacist, found today he is an heir. A great-grandfather, at Weatherford, left an estate years ago and it is finally being settled. Joe's share is 1/8448th part of the estimated $4,200 estate, or, in round figures, about 50 cents.

BOY KING SITS ON THRONE AS HIS FATHER IS BURIED

Vast Throng Weeps at Alexander's Funeral.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

BELGRADE, Oct. 18.—Martial Jugo-Slavia today laid dark visaged King Alexander in his tomb on top of a tree tufted hill above his native village of Topola. The nation also engraved his name in its history as the monarch under whom the national unity of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes was achieved.

The coffin of Alexander, the fourth of his dynasty which sprung from Kara George [Black George], the Topola swineherd and patriot who fired the first shots in the Serbian war of liberation against the Turks a century ago, was sealed under a slab of yellow marble in a crypt of St. George chapel. The royal mausoleum marks the spot where Black George began the fight to free Serbia from Turkish rule.

Lies Beside His Mother.

Alexander lies beside his mother, Queen Zorka, wife of the liberal King Peter. He occupies the 15th tomb in the mausoleum. The monarch was buried in the crypt beneath his father, King Peter, and his ancestor, Black George.

The most colorful and imposing funeral that has ever been witnessed in the Balkans was held nine days after the Marseilles assassination plunged this Adriatic domain of Slavdom into mourning and disruption.

The final requiem mass was celebrated this afternoon at St. George chapel, on which Alexander lavished money for the last ten years by decorating it with brilliant mosaics. The slain king's coffin was placed beside the altar on the tomb which holds the headless body of Black George—Black George's head was sent to the Turkish sultan by his Obrenovitch assassins—while young King Peter II. sat beside it in the place where only kings may sit. He was dry eyed and bewildered as he sat on his throne for the first time. He was trying with his 11 years to comprehend the fitful events he was compelled to witness.

Nation Silent Two Minutes.

Before the final liturgy was sung by orthodox clergymen in gorgeous vestments of brocade, the whole nation at 3 o'clock observed two minutes of silence. Then, as the coffin was being lowered into the grave, all bells of Jugo-Slavia set up a cacophony of clanging. Salvos of artillery were fired.

This morning the tiny king in his gray uniform marched sturdily in the funeral procession beside his mother, Queen Marie, as a gun carriage carried the murdered monarch's body two and a half miles from the cathedral to the Belgrade railway station for its trip to Topola.

Queen Marie was a symbol of tragic grief. She insisted on following the procession afoot although Prince Paul, head of the regency, feared she would not be able to stand the fatigue. He ordered an automobile to follow the procession in case of emergency.

In contrast with Marie's grief stricken countenance was her brother, King Carol of Rumania. He marched beside President Albert Lebrun of France. Carol's chubby jowls were wrinkled into smiles as he emerged from the church. He drew a freezing glance from Prince Paul.

The military strength of Jugo-Slavia was displayed in the procession.

Rites Begin in Belgrade.

There were two episodes in today's ceremonies. The first took place in Belgrade. It began with the requiem at the baroque cathedral. The second episode took place at Topola.

Following the religious ceremonies at Belgrade the king's coffin was taken by train to Mladenovacs. From there the coffin was conveyed by herse to Topola, once the capital of Black George.

From Topola to the hill Oplenatz lying above it, the coffin was borne on the shoulders of local peasants, working in relays.

A heavy mist from the Danube swathed Belgrade at dawn when the city and its 500,000 guests began to blacken the streets. They were held back by double lines of soldiers.

At 7 o'clock men in black clothes and white shirt fronts began to gather at the church and in the square before it.

One hundred airplanes with streaming black banners droned overhead. Bells tolled dirges. At five minute intervals cannon from Kalemagdan fort roared salvos. At 8 o'clock limousines bearing the royal family arrived.

Little King Peter, carrying white gloves and a black hat with a feather in his hand, left the car with his mother and grandmother, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania.

Then came King Carol, Grand Duke Cyril of Bulgaria, the duke of Spolete of Italy, the French president, Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, and grave Marshal Henri Petain, French minister of war. While waiting to enter the church Goering and Petain talked for at least 20 minutes. Goering stood stiffly, while Petain gesticulated violently.

Sing Liturgy for Hour.

When all were assembled inside the church before the king's bier the patriarch of the Serbian orthodox church and a dozen archbishops sang for an hour a liturgy for the repose of the dead monarch's soul.

When the services ended the gun carriage, drawn by nine rows of royal guardsmen, six in a row, was brought before the door of the cathedral. The king's coffin was carried by soldiers to the gun carriage. A band played a funeral march. The march to the station began.

Peter and his mother followed the coffin. The boy held his head high and kept his eyes steadily ahead.

When the gun carriage reached the station, troops filed by the coffin and paid a last military salute to the dead monarch.

Then Alexander was taken on his last journey to the village south of Belgrade.

PIERPONT'S BODY AT BLEAK CAMP OF HIS PARENTS

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—In a bleak, wind swept, deserted tourist camp, with grocery shelves bearing the inevitable canned goods and staples of a country store only a few feet from the room in which he lay, Harry Pierpont, once the "brains" of the Dillinger gang, awaited his funeral today. It was a long step for Harry from the luxury in which he used to live—the high powered cars he drove, the money which he lavished. But today the body of Harry Pierpont, who paid with his life yesterday in the electric chair at the Ohio state penitentiary for the murder of Sherif Jesse Sarber, lay in a darkened room in a little rural homestead near here.

Harry's body was brought secretly today from Columbus, O., to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Pierpont, at Blue Eagle inn, their combination tourist camp, gasoline service station, lunchroom, and general store, six miles south of this city on U. S. 31. Accompanied by an undertaker and Harry's brother, Fred Pierpont of Mishawaka, Ind., the body was taken to the Pierpont home.

There on Saturday funeral services will be held for Harry—not the "simple but lavish" services he requested before he died, but only simple. The body will be taken to Indianapolis for burial in Holy Cross cemetery.

Guard 12 Going to Prison After Escape Plot Rumor

Twelve squads of police supervised the loading of twelve prisoners at the county jail on a train for Joliet prison yesterday. A rumor that hoodlums planned to free some of the prisoners brought about the armed preparedness.

Suspect Is Held to Jury in Killing of Police Lieut. Day

William Randolph, 21 years old, a Negro, of 2833 South Dearborn street, was held to the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Lieut. James F. Day, police veteran. Lieut. Day was robbed and murdered Sept. 19 while on his way to duty at the Gresham police station.

TWO EX-CAPONE MEN GET PRISON FOR ARSON PLOT

Edward Brownstein and James Santy, both said to have been connected with the old Capone gang, pleaded guilty to charges of arson yesterday and were sentenced by Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court. The charge grew out of the burning, March 11, of a flat building owned by Santy at 9654 Avenue L, which was said to have been the site of a Capone brewery during prohibition days.

Brownstein, said to have served as south side Capone "manager," was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary. Santy got a term of one year in the Bridewell.

The convictions brought to nine the number of defendants sentenced since the opening of the investigation into the "million dollar" arson ring. Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney said that Brownstein and Santy were not members of the ring, although the case was solved at the same time as others involving ring members.

Lambert Webster, 2642 Augusta street, and Ray Williams, 425 North Kedzie avenue, charged with setting fire to a vacant building at 9810 South Morgan street, were acquitted by a jury in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller.

Even NATURALLY SKINNY Folks Now Add 5 lbs. in 1 Week!

Hosts of thin, pale, run-down folks — and even "Naturally Skinny" men and women are amazed at this new easy way to put on healthy needed pounds quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs.—in one month—5 lbs. in a week are reported regularly.

Kelp-A-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight, through a "2 ways in one" natural process.

First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches, the weight-making elements in your daily diet. Second, Kelp-A-Malt's natural FOOD IODINE regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation—the process of converting digested food into firm, flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelp-A-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more FOOD IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you feel. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in 1 week the trial is free.

SYMPHONY STUDY CLASS

Presented in cooperation with the Women's Committee of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Marx and Anne Oberndorfer will hold a Symphony Study Class in our Wedgwood Room at 11 o'clock each day on which the Orchestra presents a matinee performance . . . every Friday and alternate Tuesdays.

This series of lectures is given for the benefit of those who wish to learn more about music so that they may appreciate more fully the work of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Dr. Frederick Stock will give the first matinee performance of the Orchestra's forty-fourth season this afternoon at Orchestra Hall. In celebration of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach, the first composition will be the lovely Suite in D Major. This suite, in its perfect class form, makes an interesting contrast to the modern suite, "The Fire Bird," by Igor Stravinsky, with which the program closes. Both compositions will be explained and discussed this morning at 11 o'clock by the Oberndorfers.

There is no admission charge for these Study Classes

THE WRECK OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

Upton Sinclair beat Mr. McAdoo's man and made Mr. McAdoo like it. Two years ago Mr. McAdoo, having done his share in nominating Franklin Roosevelt, would have laughed at the prediction that in 1934 a Socialist would take the party away from him in California. Of EPIC he would have said "damned nonsense." Now he accepts it, poisonous as it is. His alternative is to bolt his party. EPIC is his party.

It is not confined to California. The fire is in the grass everywhere. Mr. Henning found the same wild men in control in the state of Washington, where L. B. Schwellenbach is the candidate of the party for the United States senate. Washington is trying to outdo California.

Huey Long in Louisiana and Bilbo in Mississippi are other characters typical of the leadership in what once was the Democratic party. When the national party swung off to the left under its Kerenskys nothing could stop the march of the Stalins. If the wealth of the nation is to be given away, the man who promises to give away the most will get the most votes. The old line conservative Democrats cannot stop the stampede in their party. They will be tossed aside.

Previous vagaries in the party were nothing to the ones now in full swing. Mr. Bryan in his heyday was regarded as something on the loose, but what a mild mannered radical he really was. His place has been taken by the Sinclairs, Longs, and Bilbos, and they are bound to predominate, control, and ruin; and the Democratic party, having given them their opportunity, must submit to them.

The rivalry in the party is now to outdo Sinclair. What he promises in California will be outpromised in the other states by wild men who will say that if Sinclair can get away with it so can they. Conservative Democrats will be left out of the running. The Democratic program is one of promising to every man everything he wants.

The public treasury has been made responsible for this, and Democratic candidates are outbidding each other to become the greatest distributors of other people's money. For one promise of a dollar there will be another promise of ten. For a promise of a hundred thousand dollars in useless public improvements there will be a promise of a million. The Democratic party by its radicals has been driven to a campaign of doles and subsidies, cakes and circuses.

The candidates predict the imminence of the millennial day when the wealth of the United States will be at every one's disposal without effort. They can say that they are only promising to make effective what the federal administration has announced as its objective. They can't be disowned by the national Democratic party because they are the logical products of the principles to which that party has committed itself. The national professoriat cannot disavow them because it has inspired them. Federal administrators must coöperate with the wildest of the radicals because they are gaining control in the states and because they propose to execute what is understood to be the intent of the national administration. The national party has been making its appeal to the elements which have turned to the Sinclairs and there can be no bill of divorcement.

The Democratic party has not only turned socialistic but unintelligently socialistic. Men of the American Socialist party, which has never been able to win more than a handful of votes in an election, would be the first to recognize in the policies of the present Democratic party only the ruin of the country subjected to them. Believing, as they do, in the possible success of the socialistic state, they could find only prospects of disaster in the present hysterical adoption of their ideas. Communists may think that in that ruin will be their own opportunity. They thrive on débris. Conservative Democrats must pray against fear that their party under such tutelage will be defeated as its only salvation. Believers in representative government will join that prayer, fearing that democracy may come out of the elections punch drunk and witless.

STREET RAILWAY EQUIPMENT.

Readers who more thoroughly peruse the financial columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE may have recently noted a relatively short article that discussed some suggested methods of disposition of the nineteen million dollar retirement accumulation of the Chicago Surface Lines. This huge cash fund is lying idle in Chicago banks drawing a minimum interest rate. Views were expressed by interested parties that it should be invested in a more lucrative manner—perhaps government bonds. City fathers were on hand to suggest investment in municipal tax anticipation warrants.

The operating departments of the surface lines, through research, are pointing the way to equipment replacements. Most of our citizens have seen the two experimental cars that have been in service all summer. Those who have had the privilege of riding in these cars are delighted with their almost noiseless operation, rapid but smooth acceleration and added riding comforts. The two cars have been on exhibition at various points and have elicited nothing but admiration. But what is their value alone? Superior speed of a single unit on a merry-go-round is wasted. Improvement is entirely nullified unless the whole line is similarly equipped. The management of the surface lines has shown us what it can do—and stopped.

Retirement of nineteen million dollar accumulation was adopted to furnish the wherewithal for equipment renewals when existing cars had outlived their usefulness. It is, therefore, legally and ethically available for the job of bringing our street car service up to date. There is no necessity for replacing all of the cars. A very substantial number of the newer ones now on the streets can be equipped with the new devices for reduced noise and increased acceleration. The fund is doing good to no one lying idle in the banks to swell bloated deposits. The purchase of government bonds is not the road to prosperity, and any proposal to use the funds as a repository for Chicago tax warrants will meet with objections from every interested committee as well as continue the present static condition. The equipment is sorely needed on our more important lines. It has shown substantial operating economies. The funds are available and should be put to work in heavy industry, the idleness of which is the key to the depression.

THE MYSTERY OF THE BUS STRIKE.

The so-called strike on the Chicago Motor Coach line is the most mysterious affair in the history of industrial conflict in America. If there is anything clear in the affair it is that except for a very small minority the employés did not want a strike. On the contrary, they have clung tenaciously to their occupation in spite of threats and violence intended to drive them off the job. Besides this sinister phase of the affair, other incidents have occurred to puzzle the public, if not those directly concerned in this curious controversy. For example, the proceedings of the Chicago regional labor board have never been clarified, although serious charges of partiality have been made by officials of the motor coach company, and its findings against the latter were obviously important inducements to the strike and the basis of the withdrawal from the company of the Blue Eagle. Company officials have charged that it was not accorded fair treatment before the board, and the charge has not yet been met by the latter, although the public right is incontestable to be fully informed.

In short, this so-called strike has been from the public's first knowledge of it a mysterious incident, and still remains so. Issues of importance are involved, but have not been met. Among these conspicuously are the question whether a federal agency is constitutionally authorized to intervene in a controversy in an enterprise strictly intrastate; whether, assuming very dubiously that it is, it has intervened as a partisan of one of the parties rather than as an impartial agency recognizing the legal rights of both parties; whether the right of collective bargaining has been denied by the employer or, in fact, is being defended by it, and, most important of all, whether the managers of the strike have resorted to criminal violence. The latter question is being courageously investigated by the state's attorney, who rightly accepts his official responsibility for the enforcement of law and the conservation of the public peace. In this service neither the rights of labor nor its real interests are in any degree disparaged or involved.

COMING AND GOING.

If report be true, and it is more than plausible, the stream of unemployed inspired by Candidate Sinclair's promise to abolish poverty in California will meet a stream of capital leaving the state for the same reason. Thus the Argonauts of 1934 will find as they arrive that a good part of the wealth they expect to share has departed and the poverty from which they are flying has arrived ahead of them.

Editorial of the Day

WASHINGTON HEEDS THE PRESS.

[Post-Standard, Syracuse, N. Y.]

The constitutional and traditional freedom of the press enjoyed in this country has proved its great worth.

The persistent battle which the newspapers carried on for inclusion in the newspaper code of a guarantee that freedom of the press would not be interfered with or restricted in any way has been vindicated.

The newspapers of America quite generally attacked what they believed to be unsound elements in the NRA. They exercised their constitutional right to point out the bad things in the National Recovery administration.

This was not done in any reactionary spirit, but because of absolute conviction that pursuit of these policies would bring harm to the United States and retard recovery.

Their criticism was leveled generally at the price fixing and production control clauses inserted in codes. Attempts to fix prices and control production arbitrarily were bound to fail—and newspapers of the country were not slow to point this out.

This opposition has had its effect. In a significant address, Donald Richberg, new head of the policy division of the NRA, says the government will abandon these uneconomic and harmful policies. They will be given over in favor of a return to "sound competition." The administration definitly has heeded the complaints and criticism directed at the NRA, realizing they are constructive and patriotic.

It is an excellent example of the extreme value and importance of those guarantees of freedom of thought, freedom of speech and freedom of action found in the constitution. When criticism is not muffled or killed, both sides of every great question are brought out.

Advantage is matched against disadvantage. Virtue is ranged against vice. The good and the bad both are made known. The worthwhile things are kept, the useless or harmless ones abandoned.

The NRA is not all bad. Even those newspapers which have criticized it most severely have stood stanchly for it in the work of routing out the unethical practices which have undermined industry and trade in this country in former years.

Now, these good things will be kept and strengthened. The prevention of sweatshops, of exploitation of child labor, of ruthless and deflationary price cutting, will go on, but the unsound price fixing and production control features will be eliminated.

Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are the direct cause of the betterment.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THOSE WERE INDEED THE DAYS.

These are campaign times, but there's no kick in 'em any more. This generation may think it's pretty hot, but it's lazy or languid or something. In the old days when campaign time came around we used to put on red, white and blue oilcloth capes and carry a flaming torch with the kerosene dripping down the backs of our necks, and sometimes we flamed, too. But we didn't care. We were saving the country and electing our congressman. And sometimes we would meet the parade of the rival candidate and then with a joyous cheer we would plunge to battle and biff each other with the torches. And sometimes we had flambeaus to carry. The trick with a flambeau was that you'd blow in the darned thing and it had some kind of powder in the tube which would flare up in a big blaze three or four feet high. And sometimes we'd get excited and instead of blowing into the flambeau we'd breathe in and get our lungs full of the powder and pretty near choke to death. And we'd march up to our candidate's house and give three cheers, and the band would play and the candidate would come out and tell us that one look at our bright faces and the intelligence depicted on every countenance and the enthusiasm we displayed assured him that he was good as elected right then and there. Then the flambeau club would blow and we'd wave our torches and somebody would get on fire and the fire department would arrive with a terrible clatter and put him out. Then we marched back to the courthouse, but most of the parade would drop off at Ed Kegler's saloon, and altogether it was great sport saving the country in the old days. Now the voters sit in front of the radio and if a political speaker happens to get tuned in they yell, "Fer the love of Mike, turn the button; let's have some jazz." No, election campaigns are not what they used to be.

WHY DIPHTHERIA HAS DECREASED.

THE control, if not the complete eradication, of epidemic diphtheria rests with public health authorities, physicians, and parents. Progress in recent years has been startling, and for the large reduction in the number of cases [and hence deaths] from this dread disease society owes an unpayable debt to a group of patient laboratory workers.

In 1883 came the description by Edwin Klebs of the organism causing diphtheria. This was followed in 1894 by the perfection of diphtheria antitoxin, the work of Emil von Behring. More recently a skin test for susceptibility was discovered and perfected by Bela Schick; and an essential preventive vaccine is now available in the so-called diphtheria toxoid, the work of G. Ramon.

At times the death rate from diphtheria in American cities has been exceedingly high—between three and four hundred a year per 100,000 of population. The present day average a year is less than four deaths per 100,000. Dr. William H. Park of New York City has been an outstanding public health leader in combating the prevalence of diphtheria.

In the city of Toronto F. S. Burke reports that they were able to test and immunize school children at an approximate cost of 60 cents per pupil. In evaluating the results of this campaign, Burke calls attention to the importance of immunizing not only the children actually in schools but those of preschool age, as this group may contract the disease from their immune elders.

The disease is spread through contacts with patients who are actively infected, or who have had the disease and as a result harbor the organism in the mouth, throat, or nasal passages. Those in the latter group are known as diphtheria carriers. While they may show no symptoms whatever, they are capable of spreading the organism to others who are not immune.

Certain routine health measures, particularly applicable to schools, have no doubt been a factor in decreasing the incidence of diphtheria. Among these may be mentioned the abandonment of the common drinking cup, medical inspection of school children, strict isolation and quarantine of infected cases. That the disease is not now more prevalent may be ascribed to the alertness of physicians, school nurses, and parents, as it has been estimated that from one-fourth to one-third of school children harbor diphtheria bacteria at some time during the course of each year.

To the widespread use of the Schick test, followed by proper immunizing procedures, may be ascribed to a great extent the lowering of the incidence of the disease itself. Certain investigators, however, believe that there are cycles in the virulence of the organism, and that we may now be in a period in which the bacillus has lost much of its vicious character. They hold that after a few years, unless the campaign of immunization is consistently maintained, outbreaks of a more virulent type may ensue.

The Schick test is easily performed by a skilful physician. It consists of injecting a minute quantity of diphtheria toxin into the skin. If the patient's blood contains enough antitoxin to neutralize the substance no skin reaction follows and the individual is classified as immune. If, on the other hand, twenty-four hours after the injection an area of marked redness appears, the person is classed as susceptible and diphtheria toxoid is administered. Some weeks after the patient has received the toxoid it is well to repeat the Schick test for the purpose of determining the effect of the immunizing process. A negative test definitly assures protection.

DIABETES AND X-RAY.

Mrs. O. writes: Has any progress been made in the cure of diabetes by X-ray treatment?

REPLY.

No.

PROBABLY NO DANGER.

Mrs. T. H. writes: I am 32 years of age and married. For the last two years I have taken treatment for syphilis. Is it dangerous to undergo an operation for appendicitis? Is any sort of operation serious on account of my blood condition?

REPLY.

No, if the disease is well under control and the Wasserman negative.

MAY GO TO DENTIST.

Mrs. G. B. writes: I am eight months pregnant and have been going to a dentist all the while. I have always thought, and people still tell me, that this is wrong. I have asked both my doctor and dentist and they both say it is all right.

REPLY.

Careful dental work that does not involve severe shock, up to the eighth month of pregnancy, cannot harm you. I assume that your doctor and dentist have both advised you that your system probably needs more calcium than you are obtaining in your regular diet. Many prospective mothers find that small doses of calcium taken each day help to preserve the teeth.

ALBUMIN.

J. V. C. writes: I would like some advice on albumin in the system. Is there a cure? My age is 48.

REPLY.

There is a large amount of albumin in the body. You could not get along without it. You probably mean albumin in the urine. This is a symptom of kidney irritation or disease. A competent physician should be consulted. Much can be done to relieve the condition.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My niece was deserted ten years ago in Iowa by her husband. She had two small children. Since then I have learned that three years ago she married in Indiana without a divorce, securing one in Illinois one year later from the children's father. 1. Is she legally married? She is now in Colorado and it seems [2] she believes that after seven years she was legally divorced from her first husband. 3. What steps should she take in the matter? She has never heard of nor seen her first husband since he left. M. A.

1. Not unless after the divorce there had been a common law marriage in a state recognizing common law marriages.

2. She is mistaken on this point.

3. Consider the following series: 1. A marries B. 2. A "marries" C without divorcing B. 3. C contemplates marrying D, ignoring No. 2 as bigamous. Where a ceremonial marriage has been celebrated, such as No. 2 above, it is presumed to be valid. [147 Ill. 210 and other cases cited in Callaghan's Illinois Digest "Marriage," sec. 20.] In other words, if it was contended in court that the children born of No. 3 were illegitimate and C and D sought to sustain the marriage on the ground that No. 2 was bigamous, it might be held that the burden of proof would rest on C and D to show that A and B had not terminated No. 1 by divorce before the contracting of No. 2. Such a negative is notoriously difficult to prove. Of course, the same presumption of the validity should operate in favor of No. 3 and might rebut the presumption of the validity of No. 2 above discussed, but it has also been held that no presumption of divorce arises from a subsequent marriage [117 Ill. App. 307]. The validity of the proposed marriage, No. 3, should, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion. In order to avoid all questions, we advise C to secure a divorce or annulment before contracting another marriage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GIFT INVALID.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A loaned B $200. B bought a car with it on payments. B gave A a note written in lead pencil reading: "In case of accidental death I bequeath all furniture and personal belongings to A in lieu of $200 loan I received from her." B alone signed. His wife did not sign. Must her signature appear also? Is the note valid when written with lead pencil? E. B.

As an attempt to make a gift at the time of a person's death, the instrument would be invalid because not executed with the statutory formalities required for a will, but as an admission of the validity of the debt during the testator's lifetime it would probably be a basis for recovering against the estate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NATURALIZATION.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a point in the naturalization and citizen laws in this country I would appreciate having cleared up. Can you advise me whether or not my impression that Chinese or any of the yellow race could not become naturalized citizens of the United States, even if they were born in this country, is correct? I believe this also applied to the Indian race. C. W. J.

The naturalization law provides only for the naturalization of free, white persons and persons of African nativity or African descent. However, all persons born in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States under the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago my mother passed away leaving a home, subject to a first mortgage. She left no will. There are a daughter and a son and a daughter of another daughter who is dead. This daughter is a minor. How can the title be obtained on this property? The mortgage is due in about a year. G. F. B.

Title would show in the persons whom you name, if the mother's estate is probated, but court proceedings such as partition would be necessary in order to effect a conveyance of the minor's share.

THERE IS NO DANGER IN ALLOWING A CHILD TO WALK AS SOON AS HE WISHES

When a child has the desire and strength to walk, it is folly to restrain him, modern physicians say. The chief danger in early walking is when the children are urged to walk before they desire it themselves. If a child has the strength to walk he will probably desire to walk. There is little danger of producing "bowlegs" when children walk early under these circumstances.

SOME NEW DEAL AMENDMENTS.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I have great respect for J. Adam Bede, whose letter on previous acts of our government which were unconstitutional appeared in today's paper. However, the two most famous ones cited, the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation Proclamation, had to be backed up by successful wars, or today they would be no more than interesting documents known only to students of history. But besides making them good with blood, their authors took the trouble to make them legal, the Declaration being followed in due course by the constitution, and the proclamation being legalized by no less than three constitutional amendments.

But the New Deal is a year and a half old, and as yet not a word has been said about legalizing it, where necessary, with constitutional amendments. I wonder why? Perhaps it is because they might bring a laugh, and ridicule hurts any cause. Here are some examples of appropriate amendments:

All contracts for the payment of gold coin, of any certain value whatever, are null and void no matter how solvent the debtor, as the creditor's insistence on such payments would be a hardship and embarrassment to insolvent debtors of distinctly other creditors.

All contracts for the sale of merchandise by a dealer shall be subject to review by a duly selected committee of his competitors, lest his ability and acumen be too unsettling to the welfare of his competitors' businesses.

The right to produce food, by farming or otherwise, shall be subject to government restriction as to quantity, as it is of prime importance to the public welfare that the total value in current dollars of any season's crop shall be the greatest figure possible regardless of the quantity [and inferentially the quality] of the food requirements of the body politic.

To date none of our basic law has been open to ridicule, unless perhaps it was the late 18th amendment.

ALAN D. WHITNEY.

WINNIE'S ENGLISH.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—I think some one should call to Mr. Branner's attention the insult to the business girl's intelligence as displayed in his cartoon today. Winnie's interrogation, "I'm fired, ain't I?" appeared quite out of line with the position she held as Mr. Bibb's secretary for years and her very valuable experience with the secret service.

I detest technicality in the funnies, but this one intimates that the average business girl is a gum chewing, brainless nitwit. Perhaps Mr. Branner was in a quandary how to use the interrogation. May I inform him that "aren't I?" is just as incorrect and the correct phrase is "am I not?" It might be of use to him in the future. SUZAN MEREDITH.

A CITIZEN OUT OF A JOB.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—For some time and for divers reasons I've refrained from writing this letter, but I've just come home from pounding the pavements in a vain effort to locate work, and being disgusted to such an extent I feel in fine fettle to shoot the works.

The reason for this outburst of indignation is the fact that so many American citizens are idle while aliens galore who have no intentions of ever becoming citizens are working contentedly, ignorant that there is such a thing as depression existent.

Had I known 12 years ago, when I was preparing for citizenship, that things were going to tur nout this way, I'd have refused to affiliate with a country which scorns her own and adopted subjects, and gives preference and privilege to aliens. [Wartime excluded.]

Among my acquaintances there are four in particular who chide me plenty about my citizenship. We've all been in America for 18 years and I'm the only one who severed allegiance to King George V. Strange as it seems I'm also the only one who's idle—and what's more, the only one with a family to support.

I can't get relief because my good wife is toiling for 56 hours per week for $10—yes! under the NRA. If she squawks another sucker will grab her job. So we've got to live up to American standards on $10 a week—feed, clothe and shelter four of us, while our friends have the life of Riley and laugh at us for being citizens.

Guess my journalistic proclivities are not so hot, but I'd tell a mouthful to any one who doubts the veracity of this letter and can prove everything contained herein.

Death where is thy sting?
America, I've found yours.

FOR A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—I have been to the Fair several times, but I just got a general idea that there was a Fair. As far as really seeing everything that I might have liked to, that was impossible. Many people on account of the depression never had a chance to get there at all, and that is the reason I couldn't get there as often as I liked. Why couldn't we have the Fair always? I'm sure this is not only my idea, for everywhere I go I hear that remark. Think of the thousands who, because of unemployment, in this town alone, couldn't get to see it, and then think of the many more thousands all over the country and in other countries who in better times would spend perhaps their last penny to see it.

Why not take a vote and see what the voice of the people really is in the matter? E. K. JOHNSON.

VURPILLAT DENIES DUAL LEGAL ROLE IN ICKES PAY CASE

Not Guilty of an Ethical Offense, He Says.

The latest development in the claim of John Ickes, chief clerk of special assessments in the city board of local improvements, for $40,781 in back salaries and damages from the city, is a statement sent to THE TRIBUNE by Francis J. Vurpillat, a member of the legal staf of the federal Public Works administration, which is headed by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, John's brother.

Vurpillat is the author of two briefs on behalf of John Ickes' claim, which is pending before the city council finance committee. Before taking the PWA post under Harold Ickes, Vurpillat represented the city in the matter of John Ickes' plea for reinstatement to his city hall job. John Ickes has charged that for nearly six years he was unlawfully separated from the civil service position he now holds.

Claims No Ethical Offense.

In his statement Vurpillat declared that his writing the briefs violated no canon of legal ethics nor was he involved in a dual rôle. He said that "no relationship of attorney and client exists or ever has existed between the claimant and myself," adding that he had never been paid a fee or had been promised one for his services.

"My opinions were written to John Ickes," said Vurpillat, "in the course of his friendly, personal correspondence with me in Washington, opinions invited by him, of course, but given with no intention on my part that they should be used as legal briefs of mine in any capacity as an attorney, and with no authority whatever given by me to enter my appearance in the matter of the claim. My opinions, or informal briefs, are not signed by me as attorney, but solely in my personal capacity as a friend to the claimant."

Then Vurpillat quoted from a letter he had received from John Ickes, dated Feb. 11, 1934. Ickes said that he and the law firm representing him, Scott, MacLeish & Falk, had decided to use the first brief "as you prepared it, with full disclosure of authorship," since it would give it "more weight" with the city officials and members of the council finance committee.

Cites Earlier Opinion on Ouster.

In connection with his earlier appearance in the case as an assistant corporation counsel, Vurpillat said that three corporation counsels, in official opinions written by him and approved by them, with Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, had held that Ickes had been wrongfully and unlawfully ousted from his position. No right to claim back salary could be established until Ickes had been adjudged the rightful holder of the job, Vurpillat said.

"The action in which I appeared in defense of the city was exclusively to determine the right of Mr. John Ickes to reinstatement to his position of chief clerk of special assessments in the board of local improvements," said Vurpillat's statement.

Vurpillat also declared that the writing of the later briefs in behalf of Ickes was never done in the office, on the time and at the sacrifice of the PWA.

The records of the case show that Ickes got a leave of absence of a year in 1926 after a quarrel with his chief, the late John J. Sloan, then president of the board of local improvements. Sloan's charges against Ickes were never published and subsequently were dropped. A year later Ickes tried to regain his job without success.

Draws $18,000 During Period.

During the period that he was not employed by the city Ickes was on the pay roll of the sanitary district at $300 a month, first as an investigator of lake levels, then as special investigator of the Illinois valley for the sanitary district, and lastly as assistant public relations agent, drawing total compensation from the district of $15,339. Then, for a short time, he was a deputy bailif of the Municipal court, receiving a total salary of $2,968.

In two years of the sanitary district "whoopee era," 1927 and 1928, Ickes received $11,501 in expense accounts. When the investigation of the district's affairs began in 1929 his expense accounts dropped to an aggregate of $1,199.

Then late in 1931 John Ickes brought his claim for reinstatement in the form of a petition to the courts for a writ of mandamus against the late Mayor Cermak and other officials. The petition was signed by "Scott, MacLeish & Falk and Harold L. Ickes of counsel."

In the petition John said that one reason given for keeping him out of office was political animosity against his brother Harold, "a leader of an opposing faction of the Republican party."

"Not Interested," Says PWA Chief.

Secretary Ickes was asked about the case during his recent visit to Chicago. He replied that he had not acted as an attorney for his brother and was not interested in the case in any way.

On Dec. 11, 1931, a general demurrer to the Ickes' petition was filed by the city, stating that the petition was "not sufficient in law for the petitioner to maintain his aforesaid action." It was signed on behalf of the city by Corporation Counsel Sexton and Francis J. Vurpillat as attorneys.

The demurrer was overruled by Circuit Judge Taylor on Jan. 12, 1932, and the mandamus writ was issued.

Vurpillat's connection "as a friend" for John Ickes came to light after he had been made a PWA attorney. The first Vurpillat brief, dated March 29, 1933, was headed "Brief in Support of Claim." It was transmitted to Ald. John S. Clark [Thirtieth], chairman of the council finance committee, by John Ickes.

The second brief, signed, like the first, by Vurpillat, was dated Sept. 10 and was headed as follows:

"Reply brief for claimant to the official opinion of the corporation counsel rendered to the finance committee of the city council upon the legality of the claim and each item thereof."

The record contains no mention of Vurpillat as "a friend" instead of counsel in connection with either brief.

A showing of bakery novelties, including a giant loaf of rye bread in the shape of an umbrella and new fangled doughnuts with holes large enough to be worn as bracelets, was held yesterday in the Hotel Sherman preliminary to the three day annual convention of the American Bakers' association opening on Monday. Miss Margaret Allison modeled a modern baker's costume and showed purse and bracelets made of bread dough.

POWER PROJECT STARTS DISPUTE ON WATER RIGHTS

Federal Development Plan in Wyoming Attacked.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today acknowledged that the $22,700,000 Casper-Alcova project in Wyoming had precipitated a controversy over water rights which "will require consideration."

In view of the internecine battle over the rights and priorities for this PWA power and irrigation scheme, Mr. Ickes was asked whether the allocation might be rescinded, as was done under similar circumstances in the case of the $19,000,000 Rio Verde project.

Arizona Project Canceled.

"No, we are not figuring on rescinding it," the secretary replied. He said actual construction work had not been started, but that a considerable amount of preliminary work had been done. This, he thought, "wouldn't run anything like a million dollars." The reclammation service said expenditures to date were $800,000.

Mr. Ickes recently canceled the $19,000,000 Rio Verde project in Arizona when engineers of the reclamation bureau reported that there would not be enough water for irrigation without robbing prior users and that there appeared to be no market for electric power. A similar situation has developed in Wyoming and the local newspapers are filled with militant protests against what they call a plan to rob the ranchers and irrigators of their means of subsistence.

"In Class by Itself."

Mr. Ickes, testifying before a house subcommittee on appropriations, said the Casper-Alcova project was "in a class by itself." He called it an alfalfa project, with "a little power" designed to give the stockmen a chance to raise enough feed to winter their cattle instead of driving them to Texas "every four or five years."

Engineers of the reclamation bureau reported that it would cost $344 an acre and yield a net return of $2 an acre a year. In other words, it would be "self-liquidating," without interest, in 187 years.

FRESH REPORTS SWELL DEATHS IN TYPHOON TO 72

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Reports tonight from provinces of Luzon Island swelled the unofficial total of dead in Tuesday's typhoon to seventy-two in addition to numerous missing. More than twenty persons, mostly public school teachers, are missing in Lamon bay, Tayabas province, said a dispatch to the Manila Tribune. The teachers had boarded a boat and were overtaken by the typhoon.

A small epidemic of respiratory diseases was reported to Gov. Gen. Murphy by hospitals.

The weather bureau meanwhile reported a new storm raging at sea east of the Philippines. It is expected to pass to the north, however.

TEN BOYS CALLED MOST PROMISING U. OF C. FRESHMEN

Robert L. Kyhl, 17 years old, 6815 Harper avenue, is the most promising student among the 750 freshmen at the University of Chicago, according to results of a scholastic aptitude examination made public yesterday. Kyhl, who is a graduate of Hyde Park High school, ranked first in the test.

Although a substantial proportion of the first year class is made up of women students, the ten most promising freshmen are men, according to the test. Besides Kyhl the first ten are:

Herbert Pomerance, 6648 South Albany avenue, Lindblom High school; James Bly of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert Rasmussen, 4316 North Sawyer avenue, Roosevelt High school; Frank F. Kahn, 5520 South Shore drive, Francis Parker school; Robert Brumbaugh, 5630 Kenwood avenue, University High school; Henry S. Kaplan, 653 Cornelia avenue, University High school; Frank F. Evans, 2506 East 78th street, Hirsch High school; Mark Ashin, 5478 Ellis avenue, Marshall High school, and Robert L. Jones, 635 Maple avenue, Downers Grove.

BUSINESS GROUPS ASK FIGHT TO END U. S. COMPETITION

Find Own Taxes Helping to Reduce Trade.

Government in any business, because of its peculiar advantages, paid for by public taxation, eventually means a monopoly in that line. This was the assertion yesterday of Bertram J. Cahn, chairman of committees formed by the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the Chicago Association of Commerce to combat the growing tendency of federal competition with private industry.

Mr. Cahn announced the adoption of a resolution by the manufacturers protesting against the inroads made in private fields.

"We know how inefficient and costly governmental business operations are," Mr. Cahn said, "and we know that when once started they create a monopoly, driving out private industry and leaving the taxpayer to assume the burden of inefficiency."

Lists "Government" Products.

Mr. Cahn listed the articles which relief offices are now manufacturing with the use of federal funds, besides the better known examples of mattresses and furniture, as sheets, pillow cases, towels, shirts, underwear, pajamas, nightgowns, children's clothing, overalls, and dresses and slips for women and girls. Plans for making shoes are under way, he said.

"This situation was created by the unemployment emergency which it was hoped to meet," Mr. Cahn declared. "As a matter of fact, the emergency instead of being alleviated is prolonged and magnified so that the difficulties instead of being lessened are being increased and busines srecovery is retarded.

"The time is here for making the facts and the effect of government's active participation in industry known to all. There should no longer be ignorance of a matter that so greatly affects the future welfare of the people.

Warns of Trend to Socialism.

"There are many who still believe in our present economic order [private initiative] and fully understand that profit is essential for the well being of industry. On the other hand, they are not alive to the fact tha the gradual entrance of government into business, producing the necessities of life, is none other than socialism and means the eventual destruction of our form of government.

"Do we want that kind of an economic order? Do we believe it will secure our objectives of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness?"

The recent widespread processing and canning of meats and vegetables by relief organizations financed by the government, as well as production of dairy and grain products, were cited by Mr. Cahn as indicating the danger of private business being "buried under a mound of burocracy."

The resolution made public by Mr. Cahn strikes at these encroachments of government in private fields as "a drag upon recovery." It urges that representatives of all business be called upon to join in putting an immediate end to tax supported industrial enterprises.

Asks Assurance on Competition.

The resolution asks that "the business man be promptly and definitly assured that the taxes he pays to support the government will not be used to compete with him." The necessity for relief for the unemployed is not in any way involved in the issue, it declares, and closes with the statement:

"Although the government disclaims any policy of entering the field of private business, nevertheless there are agencies of the federal government who manifestly are seeking the socialization of business."

3,000 HUNGARIAN MINERS LAUNCH ANOTHER STRIKE

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 18.—(AP)—As a mark of sympathy for their brother "death striking" miners and as evidence of their dissatisfaction with the settlement reached between their comrades and the mine owners, 3,000 coal miners remained away from the pits today.

The miners, whose sympathy strike began yesterday, did not participate in the "suicide strike" of 1,200 men who left the mines Tuesday after 110 hours self-confinement.

This time, however, the strike is on the surface and not underground.

TELLS OF SLAYING

MRS. MICHAEL G. WALSH.

Jay Breen, 38 years old, of 4525 Emerald avenue, was held to the grand jury on a charge of slaying Michael G. Walsh, 55 years old, of 5249 South Union avenue, by a coroner's jury yesterday.

Walsh, a foreman in the city water pipe extension bureau and a former deputy coroner, was shot and killed on Wednesday in the doorway of his home. Breen was captured a few minutes later in the basement of a nearby house.

No motive for the shooting was revealed at the inquest, although it was recalled that in 1920 a coroner's jury presided over by Walsh held Breen for the murder of Richard H. Schwanke, despite several pleas to Walsh by friends of Breen.

Breen was convicted and served thirteen years in prison. Police declared Breen's mind had become deranged by his long confinement.

Another conjecture involved the murder last New Year's day of Michael Regan, a nephew of Walsh. Police have been seeking Matthew Breen, a brother of Jay Breen, as being implicated in that crime, and the theory advanced was that Walsh might have been killed in an attempt to protect Matthew Breen.

SHERIF AND WIFE DIE IN ILLINOIS HIGHWAY CRASH

Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Sherif Allan Cole of Sangamon county and his wife died in a hospital here tonight of injuries received in an automobile crash near Jacksonville this evening. Cole was a Democratic candidate for the legislature in the 45th district.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole were driving to Jacksonville to attend a Democratic rally. They collided with a car driven by Robert Sheridan, formerly a resident of St. Paul, who was en route from Los Angeles to Detroit with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sheridan. All of the occupants of the Sheridan car were injured.

Cole was 60 years of age. Born in Portland, Me., he entered newspaper work early in life as a printer and later became a newspaper writer and publisher. He worked on New York Herald, Washington Star, and Pittsburgh Gazette-Times and for 20 years was connected with the St. Louis Times. He moved to Pleasant Plains in 1926 and purchased the Pleasant Plains Argus and New Berlin Bee.

COURT RECORDS SHOW POLICE GAIN IN WAR ON CRIME

The police under the policies of Mayor Kelly and Commissioner Allman are gaining in their war on crime, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court declared yesterday. He based his statement on figures shown in the September report of Municipal Court Clerk Joseph L. Gill.

Only 732 felony cases were filed in the court last month, as compared with 1,068 in September, 1933, the report shows. There were 2,808 misdemeanor cases, a reduction of 3,423. City ordinance violations numbered 11,191 last month, a drop of 1,529 under September, a year ago.

FIND 14 DAIRIES VIOLATING LAW IN CREAM SALES

Inspectors Get Samples from Wagons.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, reported further violations of the city milk ordinance yesterday when he disclosed that his investigators have found fourteen dairies selling cream with a high bacterial content. These relatively few violations were found by sampling cream sold by three-fourths of 132 milk companies.

The ordinance makes it illegal to sell in Chicago, between Oct. 1 and May 1, pasteurized cream containing more than 150,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. The limit from May 1 to Sept. 30 is 300,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

Dairies Ordered to Seek Cause.

In collecting the cream samples, Dr. Bundesen said, consideration was given to the volume of cream sold, more samples being taken from dairies delivering large quantities than were taken from concerns handling smaller volumes.

Several of the companies which the inspectors found selling stale cream and cream with high bacterial count were included in the list made public Wednesday by Dr. Bundesen when he disclosed that twelve dairies were selling milk containing an excessive number of bacteria. All of the dairies violating the milk ordinance by selling either milk or cream not up to legal standards were ordered to determine promptly the cause of the high bacterial contents of their products.

Reports on 25 Samples.

The following preliminary report table on twenty-five samples of cream, taken between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15, gives the names of the dairies, their addresses, the number of bacteria per cubic centimeter, the age of the cream, and where the samples were taken.

A new amendment to the city milk ordinance makes it unlawful to sell cream on any day beginning 18 hours after it has been pasteurized.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

River Almost Dusty.

October 18, 1934.

THE Fox river is on the "soy bean route" here at the experimental farm. The boys save time on their trips between the barn where the crop is stored and the 90 acre soy bean field on the north bank of the river by driving down to the wooded pasture, then through the river and up the north bank where the bean crop has to be loaded on the hayracks. By taking this direct route across the stream the boys save a lot of time because it is much farther to the field by way of the Plano bridge.

Fortunately the Fox river is low so that fording the stream with the big hayracks is no trick at all. Inasmuch as no rain has fallen in the valley for almost three weeks the flow of water in the stream is below normal for October.

* * *

I was in the woodland pasture yesterday when I saw a cloud of dust on top of the hills to the east.

Then around the turn on the hill came a hayrack with a pair of horses trotting along at a fast clip. Two other hayracks soon swung around the curve. The boys were coming down the soy bean route.

Herman was driving the first team. He was in a hurry because he wanted to finish hauling the soy bean crop from the 90 acre field that afternoon. After stopping for just a minute or two the three hayracks rattled away toward the river bank where they slid into the shallow current and then crossed the rocky river bed.

The boys are mighty glad to see the end of all work on that 90 acre field of soy beans. It has been a long job to cut, cure, and haul the tonnage from that field. Charley now is cutting another field of 35 acres of late soy beans. The actual cutting won't take long with a tractor roaring up and down the field. Possibly a day and a half.

Louis Thurow is about to take a census of his chickens and give the poultry yard a regular Sherlock Holmes inspection today. Night before last Sleezer and Johnson saw a big raccoon hustle from Louis' poultry yard across the oat field west of Louis' house and then go into the timber across the road on the double quick. Yesterday morning Thurow and Shadoan saw the raccoon in the same place.

This is the first raccoon seen on the experimental farm this season. Louis says he is not interested in coon records at all. What he wants is safety for his chickens, so he is going to count his poultry and then lay plans to keep Mr. Raccoon away from his chicken coops.

BULLET VICTIM IDENTIFIED IN TAVERN SHOOTING

A man near death in the Dr. Brand sanitarium at Woodstock with a bullet wound in his abdomen was identified yesterday as one of three robbers who invaded a tavern at 3714 South Halsted street last Sunday night and wounded a deputy sherif who was a patron there.

The bandit is Joseph Korab, alias Sullinski, 34 years old, of 1725 Harrison street. He was found to have served seven years in Joliet penitentiary for robbery and was paroled only last month.

Sergt. Thomas Cooper of the Deering street police noticed the police message sent from Woodstock and saw that the description of the wounded man tallied with that of the bandit sought for shooting Deputy Sherif Oliver McCormick.

He took Deputy Sherif Edward Nihill, who was with McCormick during the holdup, to Woodstock. Korab was wounded by shots from McCormick's gun. McCormick is in the Englewood hospital and his condition is said to be serious.

AIR MAIL SETUP IS ATTACKED BY DOE, McCRACKEN

Outline Their Opinions at Commission Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Two men closely identified with the air transport industry—Thomas B. Doe and William P. MacCracken Jr.—today aired their dissatisfaction with the present air mail setup.

Both appeared before President Roosevelt's policy-planning aviation commission.

Until the cancellation of air mail contracts, Doe was president of Eastern Air Transport, Inc. He attended the meeting of air lines executives under Postmaster General Brown that Postmaster General Farley termed a "spoils conference." Therefore, Doe is on the "black list" that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh charged was kept by the department.

Before Supreme Court.

MacCracken's sentence to 10 days imprisonment for contempt of the senate now is before the Supreme court because of his refusal to give air mail investigators his air mail clients' documents.

MacCracken was soft-spoken today, asserting merely that as a result of the Farley system of competitive bidding "great disparity has been reestablished" in payments to air mail contractors. But Doe was forthright.

"At the present rate all the lines will be in bankruptcy not later than June 30, 1935," he said.

He flushed when Commissioner Franklin K. Lane Jr. asked him his opinion of the so-called blacklist.

Refuses to Describe Feelings.

"Being one of them," he replied, "I think I won't say what I think about that. My feelings are such that I prefer not to discuss the subject for the record."

Emphasizing his belief that the public had lost faith in air transport in its present state, Doe insisted "the popular opinion that the so-called Wall street crowd is being hurt is not correct."

"Some lines have been operated with government support, largely for political reasons," he said. "Cutthroat competitive bidding never will develop this industry."

Makes Caustic Comment.

The postoffice department has pointed with pride to more mileage of air routes at least cost. Doe, saying the present setup called for 33,000,000 miles annually at a cost of 26 cents a mile, was caustic:

"The same amount of money spent intelligently on 10,000,000 miles of flying in development work would do infinitly more toward bringing this industry to the point of being self-supporting."

He added that a direct subsidy of $10,000,000 a year for five years would mean that "at the end of that time the lines would begin to return dividends on the investment in the form of taxes."

Install Tenth St. Viator College President Today

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will preside this afternoon at the installation of the Very Rev. Edward V. Cardinal as tenth president of St. Viator college at Bourbonnais, near Kankakee. Gov. Horner will deliver the inaugural address and receive the honorary degree of LL. D. Among those to be present are Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the University of Illinois, and Dr. Gordon Keith Chalmers, recently installed as president of Rockford college.

JAPAN'S CABINET FACES OUSTER IN MANCHUKUO ROW

Army Set to Use Force to Get Upper Hand.

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A determination by the Japanese army to dominate the Japanese empire's Manchurian policies, by force if necessary, confronted the three months old cabinet of Premier Keisuki Okada today with the danger of a downfall.

The empire's Manchurian policies are the machinery with which Japan controls the nominally independent nation of Manchukuo. A long drawn out disputs regarding the complex scheme of the reorganization of Japanese organs in Manchuria and the fundamental issue of the military versus civilians has reached a dangerous crisis with the army supposed to be preparing to suppress opposition forcibly there.

May Mean Army Premier.

The consensus of political writers is that if the dispute becomes worse or if there is bloodshed, Premier Okada must assume the responsibility and resign, in which event the succeeding cabinet probably would be dominated even more firmly by the army, with a military premier a possibility.

Censorship has veiled the situation in Manchuria, but reliable dispatches reaching Tokio, but not published here, indicate that the Japanese army in Manchuria is preparing to seize the communication system and establish a military rule at Kwantung. The civilian officials and police there are leading an opposition to the military.

The territory of Kwantung contains Dairen and Port Arthur. It is the territory over which Japan gained sovereignty as the result of the war with Russia in 1905.

New Scheme Adopted.

In mid-September, the Okada government, under the army's dictation, adopted a complicated reorganization scheme placing militarists in key positions in Japan's Manchurian organs, both in Tokio and Hsinking, the capital of Manchukuo, enabling the army to direct the Manchurian policy.

Opposition arose in an unexpected quarter—the officials of the police of the Kwantung government, who vigorously opposed the comparatively minor provision of making an army officer command the Japanese gendarmerie in Manchuria and likewise placing an army officer as chief of the civil police of Kwantung.

The month long agitation of the Kwantung opposition has gained the sympathy of influential civilian Japanese in Manchuria and the homeland, compelling the cabinet to review a decision made yesterday with Gen. Senjuro Hayashi, minister of war, dominating the cabinet session. The ministers ruled then that the government is already committed without the possibility of a change, to the army's scheme.

TRAIN WHISTLES TOO SOUR, EVEN FOR ENGINEERS

Meeting in secret session, with doors and windows closed against the honks and dissonances of Michigan avenue trafic, 12 engineers of the mechanical division of the American Railway association assembled in the Congress hotel yesterday to deliberate on modern locomotive whistles.

The whistles, it appears, roll their dour and strident notes through the very depths of the engines when the steam is released, and the engineers and the firemen are complaining.

"We can't have anything published on this," said the spokesman for the committee, "but we're planning to test locomotive whistles, and we're going to remove every single sour note."

"The public," someone suggested, "will be pleased."

"The public!" exclaimed the engineering spokesman. "It isn't the public. It's our engineers. They can't stand the noise of the whistles. And who ever heard of a locomotive without a whistle?"

Mayor Acts to Stop City Employes' Charity Racket

Mayor Kelly was in a physician's office yesterday when a telephone caller, representing himself as an employé of the city water department, solicited the doctor to contribute to a war veterans' charity. Acting on the incident, Mayor Kelly sent a letter to all city department heads asking their coöperation in stamping out what he termed "this form of racketeering," and threatening to discharge any city employé using his position as a means of getting donations.

IF YOU want to buy gasoline CHEAP, by all means get Phillips UNIQUE.

It is a good gas at a cut price . . . an excellent value because it more than meets U. S. Government specifications for Motor Grade gasoline. In every way it is equal or superior to other motor fuels sold at a similar cut price.

But if you want the Most Economical gasoline, we frankly do not recommend this cut-price grade. We sincerely say that you will save more money and get more pleasure out of motoring with Phillips 66 . . . the greater gasoline.

Phillips 66 Gasoline is our "pet." We pamper it. We put into it every bit of value possible with the most modern scientific equipment and methods. We spare no expense to make it really different.

It contains Lead Tetraethyl to give it the highest possible anti-knock at its price. Its high test rating (gravity) is always at the highest point possible under our process of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY, which matches Phillips 66 to your location and weather.

Because Phillips originated this pre-adjustment of gasoline to climate at the refinery, and has been doing it for a longer time; our facilities and experience in this respect are greater than those of other refiners. That's why Phillips 66 is the "100% custom-tailored gasoline."

It starts cold motors with split second speed. Needs less choke and hence delivers more miles per gallon. Reduces vibration and increases power. Cuts down noise and steps up speed. And it simply can't be beat for acceleration by any other gas even at a higher price.

These are the results you actually feel in your car, results that prove there is a difference. Get the money-saving facts for yourself by getting a trial tankful at any Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Buds to Enjoy Gay Week-end on November 9

Miss Doering, Miss Jeffery to Be Introduced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE second week-end in November will be a busy one for the debutantes, for there are several parties planned for them, most of them for those two attractive young cousins, Miss Nancy Doering and Miss Frances Jeffery. Miss Doering, youngest daughter of the Edmund J. Doerings, is to make her debut at a tea at home, 1344 Astor street, on Friday the 9th (instead of on Friday, Nov. 16, as previously planned), and that night after the tea Miss Jeffery and her aunt, Miss Frances Whedon, will give a supper-dance at the house they are occupying on State parkway this winter for Miss Doering and her assistants.

Saturday afternoon, the 10th, is the date chosen by Miss Whedon and Miss Jeffery for the latter's débūt tea, and that night Mr. and Mrs. Doering will give a dinner-dance at the Blackstone hotel for their daughter. Miss Whedon will give a ball for Miss Jeffery during the Christmas holidays.

Still another party that week-end for the cousins is a cocktail party that Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. will give Sunday afternoon, the 11th, at her Astor street home. Mrs. Thomasson is inviting about 100 young people to the party.

Another debutante party on Sunday, Nov. 11, will be a luncheon at the Casino that Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston will give for her niece, Miss Ethel Johnston. Among other affairs scheduled for that busy week-end are the wedding of Miss Nancy Morse and Lent Hooker in Lake Forest Saturday afternoon and the première of the Chicago Grand Opera company that night.

Nov. 16 Will Be Another Gay Day.

The next Friday, Nov. 16, will be a gay day for the debs, too, for Miss Margaret Talbot is making her debut that afternoon, and that night the Oakleigh Thornes and the young Potter Palmers are entertaining at a dinner-dance at the Racquet club for Ethel Johnston. Mrs. Thorne's and Mr. Palmer's sister, Pauline Palmer, will be there, although she isn't making her debut until next winter. There was talk of her coming out formally this season, but her parents decided she was too young, so she is staying at home, having a quiet but interesting winter and looking forward to a visit in the east later in the winter.

Miss Jeffery and her aunt will motor to New York Nov. 21 to be there until Dec. 5. Miss Jeffery will attend all the football games possible during the few days she is there, including the Yale-Harvard game, the Pennsylvania-Cornell game, and a game at Princeton. Miss Doering is going east, too, for a round of football games and parties, but she is leaving a few days earlier than her cousin.

Miss Hope Leonard left for New York yesterday to visit her father, Clifford M. Leonard, for a fortnight and to attend two games. Her mother, Mrs. David R. Forgan Jr., and her sister, Miss Fleury Leonard, who was one of the most popular of the debutantes of a season ago, are settled for the winter in an apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Elizabeth Bunting Bride on Saturday.

Not in some time has society received such a romantic surprise as it is experiencing at the announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Elizabeth van de Velde Bunting and Cecil Ivell Crouse. Theirs has been a whirlwind courtship, for they only met about six weeks ago, and as

MISS ANNE BYRON SMITH AND BRUCE.

Annual St. Luke's Style Show

It's pretty hard to get around on crutches when you're a little boy the age of Bruce, but when you often have such a pretty lady as Miss Anne Byron Smith to read to you or to teach you grand new games it helps a lot.

◆

Miss Smith is one of the dozen and a half young women who regularly work several days each week in the social service department of St. Luke's hospital, helping in various ways. They do clerical work, they amuse the children, they weigh babies, in fact they make themselves generally useful in any way in which they can assist the doctors and nurses.

The proceeds of the annual fashion show, which the woman's board stages, is given to the social service department, and without this money drastic reductions in this department necessarily would result. The show this year will be given next Tuesday afternoon and evening in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel. The price of a ticket to the afternoon showing, including tea, is $3.50, and that amount will keep a child in a ward for three days.

◆

The evening showing will be given at a dinner dance to which the admission price is $10 per couple. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. Charles F. Glore, 123 South La Salle street.

Among the other young women who are faithful in their work at the hospital are Miss Jean Schweppe and her cousin, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Dorothy Dewes, Miss Barbara Eldridge, Miss Eleanor McNally, Miss Honore White, Mrs. Gordon C. Jones, Mrs. Morgan Collins, Miss Betsy Needham, Miss Louise Forgan, Miss Peggy Wiley, Miss Barbara Graf, Miss Isabel Davis, Mrs. Thomas S. Edmonds, and Mrs. A. B. Smith.

Child Study Meeting.

Mrs. Herbert Undine Nelson, chairman of the North Shore Writers' guild, will preside at a tea at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the conference of the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education in the Carson Pirie Scott and Co. store.

New Symphony Season Opens on Joyful Note

First Concert Is Omen of Splendid Term.

Chicago Symphony orchestra in the first program of its forty-fourth season, at Orchestra hall, Thursday, Oct. 18.

Conductor, Federick Stock.

THE PROGRAM:

Suite No. 3, D Major..............Bach
Symphony No. 5, C Minor, Opus 67
..........................Beethoven
Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1, Opus 11
..............................Enesco
Moto Perpetuo, Opus 11..........Paganini
[Orchestra by Frederick Stock.]
[Played by all the violins.]
Suite from the Ballet "L'Oiseau de Feu"......................Strawinsky

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of Chicago's greatest glories, its symphony orchestra, is with us once again, not only continuing but revivified, full of renewed youth and spirit. The word youth is used advisedly, for the atmosphere last night was of exuberance, merely tamed and guided by discipline and musical sense. And Frederick Stock, who entered his 30th season as the orchestra's conductor, was the youngest of all of them.

Apparently the orchestra is about to have one of its finest seasons. Certainly it will from an artistic standpoint if it keeps up last night's pace. There is also reason to believe from last night's full house that it has staged a good deal of a financial comeback as well. Both of these will classify as good news to a large group of Chicagoans.

◆

The Bach Suite and the Beethoven Symphony in the first part of the program are among its most familiar numbers. Scarcely a year goes by when both are not played. Yet there is not a year within memory when they were played as they were last night. The dainty agility of the suite, the sturdy ruggedness of the symphony in its first and last movements, the supremely beautiful tone in both of them were only a part of the high art of this organization. One regrets only that all Chicago did not hear them.

Passing to the second part of the program, one found before long that there had been an error in forecasting the concert. The error lay in the statement that there would be no soloist. There was a soloist, a composite soloist made up of twenty-seven violinists; in other words, the entire first and second violinists of the orchestra. That soloist stood up and played Paganini's "Moto Perpetuo" as arranged by Mr. Stock during the summer just passed.

◆

It is going to be the most sure-fire popular hit that the orchestra has had in the last ten years. If it is not entirely the perpetual motion of its title, it is some three and one-half minutes of gay, glittering dash among incessant sixteenth notes, with an attractive tune and almost unbelievable virtuosity of performance.

There is a note at the foot of each program which reads, "Extract from house rules: Encores not permitted." But what were house rules in a case like this? The audience cheered the composite soloist and cheered Mr. Stock, then repeated the operation and kept on repeating until Mr. Stock signaled for a repetition.

◆

Then there was Enesco's Rumanian Rhapsody—it is a pity that some one does not deal as faithfully by American music—and Strawinsky's lovely "Fire Bird" music, the first by which

Shopper Finds Some Stunning Tunic Blouses

Ribbed Silk Model Wins Special Mention.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The rush for tunic blouses keeps a shopper busy snooping out new collections, but another has been discovered. And will you all have a grand time buying these numbers! There is a creamy white ribbed silk model that will make you go without lunches to own it—one of those blouses with a high neckline that streaks straight across in front and back. The back is buttoned down with big covered buttons. The sleeves are knockouts—wide, loose, and long. This can top a black velvet skirt or any other separate skirt with a proper smartness. The blouse comes in pale gold, pale green, and orange red.

Then there is a long, long tunic blouse in American Beauty red, of crêpe de chine, made with long, tight sleeves and a clever draped neckline that ought to be a huge success.

Soft gleaming white satin beauties are also plentiful, with either loose, long sleeves or the tightly fitted affairs.

◆

Dull white threaded with silver or pale gold patterns are perfect dress parade ideas, especially as the "tops" for slithering long and slit velvet skirts (also obtainable in the same shop).

And getting around we found a prize collection of separate skirts in every color, every mixture imaginable, from heathery looking country tweeds and brilliantly plaided and checked woolens for your pet sweaters to very interesting velvets—racks of the things, the best looking skirts we ever located. They're made slim and tailored, some with kick plaits where they will do the most good, some with yokes, and some wrap-around. If you've hunted for black velveteen skirts without any luck there are some here that will more than satisfy any longing for a perfect velveteen number.

◆

Fashion photograph . . . Three pieces of woolen tweed in a dark green, white flecked tone, that make a stunning new street or country costume. The short jacket buttons down the front to match the skirt and the long, loose topcoat is collared in light fluffy fur. Dark green accessories can be alternated with costume accents and hat of deep dark brown. To be found in a Chicago shop.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

WE hasten to report a little tale that concerns Countess Adamari Morelli of Florence, Italy, who is visiting in Wayne at her old home, the old Dunham castle. Count Morelli is with the countess, and a few days ago they were expected in town for tea at the home of a nephew of Countess Morelli's who had never seen her husband. The nephew and niece greeted the countess and the gentleman who entered the door with her with enthusiasm, and chatted a few moments before they introduced some other guests who were there. The niece added an urgent invitation.

Hospitality—Preference—Prognostication Checked.

"Now do come and spend the night any time you can," she said. "We have a room ready for you." And she smiled winningly at her aunt and the man beside her, without noticing their perplexed expressions. Then she turned to introduce a friend.

"Countess Morelli, this is Mrs. Blank," she said. "Count Morelli, Mrs. Blank."

The gentleman spoke up for the first time.

"Beg pardon, ma'am, but I'm just a sewing machine salesman," he said. "We just happened to arrive at the door at the same time."

* *

IT was just after the performance of "Faust" by the San Carlo Opera company, in which Janet Fairbank, as Siebel, in her debut in opera, gave a distinguished performance. As a mother and her small son left the Auditorium she asked him brightly:

"Well, sonny, how did you like the opera?"

"All right," said the boy, obviously feeling that was the answer expected of him. Then he added, after a moment's hesitation:

"But mama, I did like 'The Drunkard' better."

* *

STAGE hand's commentary. Lou Hemrich is property man aboard the show boat Dixiana where the old melodrama, "The Fatal Wedding," is the current attraction and in which no less than ten shootings occur nightly. The other day an acquaintance asked him how long he thought the show would run.

"She's good for another two weeks," replied Lou. "I bought a hundred and fifty blank cartridges again today."

* *

A FRIEND from New York brings the story of Judith Anderson, now starring in "Divided by Three," under the direction of Guthrie McClintic, and her luncheon at the Algonquin. She happened to be alone and Frank Case, famed owner of the Algonquin, sat down to chat with her. On the other side of the room he saw a man finish his lunch, pay his check, then move over to a table where a very pretty movie star was sitting. Mr. Case drew Miss Anderson's attention to it.

"There's something I've been noticing for a long time," he said. "Men come in here and eat lunch alone, then move to the table of an attractive girl. It seems to me that if a man enjoys the company of a pretty girl while she eats her luncheon, and has the pleasure of looking at her and chatting with her, the least he can do is to pay for her lunch. Don't you think so?"

Miss Anderson made no answer. She was finishing her luncheon and she called the head waiter:

"Georges," she said gently. "Mr. Case will take the check for my luncheon."

FOOTBALL AHEAD

The excitement of the game is upon us—heroes, cheers, goals, thrills, youth. To compete with so many distractions, a strategic young woman will plan her costume in those zestful new English tweeds or camel hairs. There's that imported tweed suit with a three-quarter length fitted coat and collar of beaver; a striking new note is a dressy sport coat with a detachable cape of voluptuous lynx and a large pillow muff to match; the new camel hair full length coats with lynx collars in dazzling shades of college pennants are ideal warmth for those wintry breezes. Flattering long haired furs are lavishly used in accenting the mode. To name a few from our new sportswear collection. From 29.75 to 225.

FALL APPETITES DOTE EAGERLY ON DOUGHNUTS

Cooking Editor Gives Novel Recipes.

BY MARY MEADE.

It seems that certain lads with heads for figures and eyes for doughnuts have gotten into a huddle this fall, as a result of which we discover two items of interest. First—Americans eat a million dozen doughnuts a day. And secondly—we just can't go on like this without a National Doughnut Month—not possibly. Recognizing this need the doughnut makers of the nation have voted to give us October as the month for eating doughnuts—fat ones, slim ones, chocolate and spicy ones—all sorts of doughnuts.

At which we grin to ourselves, for how could October be anything else but doughnut month? The smoke and tingle of fall has seen to that ever since little boys first filched hot crullers and twists from grandmother's kitchen. But it's no longer necessary to own a deep fat kettle to munch the best of doughnuts. Commercial doughnuteers are offering tempting products at every corner.

While most report that the greatest enthusiasm is for the plain, old fashioned, brown doughnut with the well known hole in its center, others aver that the puffy French ones should be the winners of the popularity contest.

This French doughnut, which many of you have been seeking lately, is no trick at all. Properly speaking, it's a fried cake, for it's not made in ring form.

French Fried Cakes.

[Beignets Soufflés.]

1 cup water
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ cup butter
1 cup sifted flour
5 eggs
Deep fat for frying.

Heat the water, butter, salt, and sugar to the boiling point. Turn the burner low and quickly mix in the flour, smoothing out lumps and stirring until the batter leaves the pan. Cool and then add the unbeaten eggs, one at a time, blending each carefully before adding another. Have the fat hot [380 degrees F.] and drop in the batter by teaspoonsful—about the size of a walnut. And then watch them puff! By the time they have become golden brown they will have blown themselves up to the size of an apple. Fry only about four at once, lest they crowd each other. Take them out with a whip or a slotted spoon, and drain. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve hot.

And along with doughnuts, what's more appropriate than caramel apples, lined in military formation on the platter, and assisted by an autumn punch? The apples have turned into brownies and taken unto themselves a chocolate flavor.

Chocolate Caramel Apples.

2 cups sugar
½ cup corn sirup
¾ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons butter
2½ one-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Measure all the ingredients except the vanilla into a saucepan, mix thoroughly, and cook until a little tested in cold water will form a firm ball [246 degrees F.]. Remove from the burner, add the vanilla, and let the mixture cool slightly. Stick skewers into clean, firm apples, dip in the caramel mixture, and whirl each one several times to smooth the surface. Place on waxed paper until cooled.

Autumn Punch.

Juice of 2 oranges
Juice of 2 lemons
1 quart cider
1 quart grape juice
1 cup sugar
2 quarts water
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind.
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Combine ingredients and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Pour into a punch bowl over a cake of ice and serve in punch glasses.

HEAVY FROSTS HURT PUMPKINS' OUTER TISSUE

The old saying of "the frost upon the pumpkin" is not so serious if the frost is light, but heavy frosts or freezes damage the outer tissue and these products cannot be stored successfully if injured.

Pumpkin and squash should be fully matured and carefully handled so that they are not bruised. Cut the vine from the stem, but do not pull or break the stem off. Then place such pumpkin, or squash, in the basement or some place where the air is fairly warm and dry.

Small squash may be placed in field crates or ventilated bushel baskets rather than placed on a shelf. Squash, green in color, perhaps will turn yellow by late spring, but as long as the fruit is sound the quality is still good.

HEINZ BREAKFAST WHEAT

A stout and heartening cereal for first cool days. A hot dish with a smoother, fuller, more delightful flavor. It provides "quick energy" because it's fine ground and easily digestible. And it has a special extra something that's mildly, gently regulative. Serve it tomorrow as a surprise treat. Hear the cheers.

HEINZ FIG PUDDING

A ready dessert for the meal that needs something extra grand by way of a finish. A fine, light, spongy pudding. Heat it, open it and serve it—that's all!

HEINZ FRESH CUCUMBER PICKLES

Cool, glistening discs of cucumber cooked to tenderness in a mild vinegar. These are the pickles everybody has loved since the days when grandmother used to make them at home.

HEINZ COOKED SPAGHETTI

This is our pinch-hitting hurry-up meal-in-a-tin for that frantic moment when you get home with only 20 minutes to prepare dinner. Delicately cooked strands of fine spaghetti immersed in a rich, delicious sauce—Italian style. Keep it on hand!

HEINZ VINEGARS

Four kinds, each aged, like old wine, in wood for many months, to render it clear of color, pungent of aroma, tangy of taste, so that it may glorify your glorious salads.

ARE you a good soup cook? Do you fully appreciate that getting a meal off to a good start means getting a meal across? Are you reverently mindful that making good soup is a waiting, watching business, a slow-played game of patience? Are you wise to the whys and wherefores of freshest vegetables, right meat cuts for stock, rich sweet cream for cream soups, and carefully proportioned seasonings?

Then you speak our language. We would like to be your friend. You know what we know, that broth-brewing is no fiddling triviality but a most exacting task.

We make 18 soups. We choose our ingredients with wary care, and we simmer slowly according to home-recipes. Yes, we seal them in tins, but you can see they are hardly what you'd call "canned soups".

We make these soups to save you the trouble. To that end we go right through with it, finish each soup, even taste it to be sure it's right, and give it to you all ready to heat and serve. (You need not bother to blend in a thing!)

If you have shunned canned soups we understand. But we believe ours are like yours, for, like you, we use sound home-recipes. And because we make each one in the season when its ingredients are at their prime, and because we go round the world to gather first-hand the finest, most enticing spices, we believe that our soups have a certain extra deliciousness.

That is why, when we ask you good soup cooks to try Heinz soups, we make this plain, simple guarantee*. So, please, with only home-recipes in mind will you try them? Today?

If you don't find Heinz soup the best you ever tasted, return the label to your Grocer and he will refund the purchase price.

Back from far Amboyna with a CARGO of HUMDINGERS

Round and round the world go our own appointed spice buyers. They stop at nothing till they find what's good and fine in spices for Heinz sauces.

Cloves, for example. Most cloves come from Zanzibar and Pemba, off the coast of Africa. Very good, too. But not good enough for Heinz fine sauces.

We searched the globe until we found Amboyna, sunny little island in the Dutch East Indies. Here grow cloves that are the finest in the world. Delicate and subtle is their flavor, they have precisely what it takes to make a sauce sublime. And, of course, they cost us much more.

But that is how we do about spices. Nutmeg, allspice, cinnamon—each must be the best, no matter where we have to go, no matter what we have to pay.

So, from our simmering condiment kettles, come keen and lively sauces to make your best home-cooking taste a little better still.

NOW YOU TAKE HEINZ KETCHUP—(Take it amply, take it often!) In it, vying for your favor, are these vivacious Heinz-imported spices and pedigreed Heinz tomatoes, fresh-picked and luscious. It is a dandy sauce for steaks, chops and hash and its flavor has made it the largest selling ketchup in the world.

HEINZ BEEFSTEAK SAUCE—Misnamed, we think sometimes, because it goes equally great with roast beef and with ham. Also goes great with men!

HEINZ WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE—Made to an English recipe. Adds zest to fish and meats. Excellent in gravies, too.

U. S. HAS PLENTY OF FOOD STORED FOR THE WINTER

No Danger of a Shortage, Survey Shows.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

A peek into the storage coolers of this country today would reveal that Americans have plenty put away for the winter. During the cold months there is little danger of a shortage of any of the old standbys such as meat, butter, cheese, eggs and poultry.

These hopeful signs are seen in a storage survey of the amounts of those perishable commodities in coolers on the first of this month. Frozen beef, frozen pork, cheese, and poultry are all being held in storage in greater quantities than a year ago, while all of these major foods in addition to lard, are in excess of the five year average except cured pork products, and butter and eggs. In the federal government's wholesale program of slaughtering more than 7,000,000 cattle, millions of pounds of beef are going into cans for the unemployed on relief, and the nation's winter meat supply thus is being further bolstered up.

Keep Market Clear.

In addition to this meat for relief purposes the canned supplies are being increased daily by commercial packers who are boning and canning large quantities of good quality carcasses. A market authority explained that this is being done in an attempt to keep the market clear of heavy receipts of cattle now coming to terminal markets. To some extent this helps to relieve the fear that a shortage of feed and meat animals this winter would lead to excessively high meat prices.

Another good sign for the consumer but bad for the dairy industry is the fact that for the first time in many years butter was put into storage in September.

Below are comparative figures of a dozen major food commodities in storage:

	1,000 Lbs. in Storage Oct. 1, '34.	1,000 Lbs. in Storage Oct. 1, '33.	Five Year Aver.
Frozen beef	75,698	35,261	30,554

Dry salt cured pork	27,811	67,545	57,002
Pickled pork in process	180,060	218,674	189,189
Cured pickled pork	155,159	156,889	132,219
Lard	127,847	192,061	109,087
Butter	124,814	174,713	126.877

Many Vegetable Bargains.

Indian summer weather, without a frost preceding, has kept wholesale and retail markets flooded with high quality vegetables grown in nearby counties and states. As a result typical bargains for today and tomorrow in the city and nearby suburbs include cabbage, celery, onions, radishes, and squash.

Leg of lamb, lamb loin chops, medium quality steaks, and chickens are still on the bargain counters in many retail markets.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

PEACH WALDORF SALAD.

3 fresh peaches
1 cup diced apples
1-3 cup chopped celery
Mayonnaise

Toss celery and apples with enough mayonnaise to moisten. Peel and halve the peaches. Place the peach halves, hollow side up, in lettuce cups. Drop a heaping tablespoonful of the Waldorf salad in the cavity of each peach so that it will fall daintily over one side. Garnish with a mint leaf.

SCIENCE OFFERS A WAY TO HALT MOLD ON GRAPES

Aids in Shipment to Market.

A cheap and effective method of retarding the development of mold on grapes, either in transit or storage, without injuring their taste or appearance has been developed by horticulturists. The new method consists in the use of ten grams of sodium acid sulphite or sodium metabisulphite placed in pads at the bottom of the ordinary grape "lugs" or mixed with the sawdust in which the fruit is packed.

These chemical compounds give off sulphur dioxide slowly, providing an extended fumigation with extremely low concentrations of the gas, which holds the fruit satisfactorily at storage or shipping temperatures for from two to five months.

The use of sulphur dioxide to retard mold growth on grapes is not new. But this method is—and more effective. It was tried out commercially for the first time in California last year. This season it is being used in the export of one of the tender varieties of grapes to the orient and it may thus be the means for opening up an important new outlet for considerable quantities of the more perishable varieties of California grapes.

When properly treated by this method the presence of sulphur dioxide in the grape tissues cannot be detected by taste and hardly by even the most refined chemical analysis. The method therefore raises no public health question and promises to be beneficial to the grape industry.

SHAPE OF RICE GRAINS IS SAVED BY NEW PROCESS

Rice grains that keep their shape in spite of cooking are the result of studies carried on by scientists. The new process consists of simply soaking and parboiling the rough rice. This gelatinizes the starchy kernel, which when dried again is much more resistent to breaking in milling and holds its shape when used in rice recipes or in soups. An application has been made for a public service patent on the process, which would make it free to any miller.

Food manufacturers have been importing from one million to two million pounds of special rice each year because of its resistent qualities, but with the new treatment American grown rice is expected to stand up as well as any other.

Old Dutch is grand to get things bright
In little time, with labor slight;
Costs less to use
And that's good news
Because it's made with seismotite.

And that's more truth than poetry. Old Dutch actually goes further and lasts longer, saves work and money, polishes as it cleans, and cleans quicker without scratching.

The reason for the superiority of Old Dutch is that pure seismotite is among its valuable ingredients . . . a scratchless cleaning and polishing material of volcanic origin that is absolutely different in its cleaning action than anything else and therefore in the results it gives. Brighten up your home with Old Dutch and learn for yourself why it's the largest selling cleanser in the world.

CRISP WAFFLES IDEAL WINTER NIGHT'S REPAST

Good Iron Is Necessary for Best Results.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

With the approach of fall and winter evenings that often put a keen edge upon the appetite, the big question regarding late refreshments usually is "What will be served?" And the answer may be, "Why not crisp, golden brown waffles!"

There are several small points to remember in making the perfect waffle that effects its crispness. First, the waffle iron must be hot—sizzling hot. Second, too much batter shouldn't be poured into the iron, for a thick waffle is never crisp; and the third point to remember is, never pile waffles on a plate while they are hot, for they will surely lose their crispness from absorption of moisture from steam.

Three Other Points.

Three other points that are necessary are, a good waffle iron. Hardly any one ever uses the old cast iron type of iron any more, the one that sits about a foot high on the gas flame. They still are found in the department stores, and although ugly to look at, they surely turn out waffles done to the queen's taste. The new style waffle irons are a pleasure to use; besides being smart with their attractive shiny surface, ebony handles, and little red stop light that tells when to put a waffle in the iron, and when to take it out.

Much care must be taken to grease the iron correctly, and there are small brushes on the market made just for greasing pastry pans and waffle irons. Have iron very hot before proceeding with grease brush, as every part of iron must be reached or the waffle will stick.

Another point is to use a pitcher to make the batter in, and use for pouring. This is a more satisfactory method than measuring with a spoon. When waffle iron is heated thoroughly on both sides reduce the heat, then open the iron and grease. Pour about a cooking spoon full of batter into each compartment of the iron. Turn immediately after filling. If the iron has been heated just right the waffle will bake to an even brown in about two minutes.

And Some Recipes.

Now that the ways and wherefores of these luscious waffles have been attended to, why not a few recipes? For a good batter is most necessary to complete the picture. A very good recipe for waffles was given to us by a Norwegian cook, who knew how to make the perfect waffle, and this is her method: Break two eggs in the pitcher, and beat until light. Add two cups of sour cream. If the cream is too sour, it may be necessary to add a small teaspoon of baking soda, at the rate of half teaspoon to a cup of cream. Next stir two tablespoons of sugar, pinch of salt, and two cups of flour sifted together. The batter should be of the consistency of thick cream. No extra shortening is required, as the cream takes care of that.

Another popular recipe is made with one and three-fourths cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, two eggs, beaten separately; one and one-fourth cups milk, and four tablespoons shortening. Sift and mix dry ingredients, mix milk and egg yolk. Blend the two mixtures together and stir until batter is smooth. Fold in carefully the stiffly beaten egg whites.

For those who like the flavor of good old yellow cornmeal they might try waffles with this cereal included in the recipe. Cook half cup of cornmeal in two cups of boiling water for twenty minutes. Then add one and a half cups of milk and three cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one level teaspoon salt sifted together. Add beaten yolk of two eggs and two tablespoons melted butter. Just before baking, fold in the beaten yolks of two eggs. Serve with honey, preserves, or maple sirup.

Fourth Tribune Cookery School Opens November 6

BY MARY MEADE.

Here is the news all of you women have been anxious to hear. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE announces its fourth School of Cookery. As in the past, the sessions will be held on the three sides of the city as follows: South side at the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons, Nov. 6, 7, 8, and 9; West side at Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Crawford avenue, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons, Nov. 13, 14, 15, and 16, and North side at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23.

Mrs. Chitwood In Charge.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famed culinary expert, in coöperation with your cooking editor, will conduct the school sessions, which will be interspersed by entertainment featuring stars of the stage, screen and radio. Over a hundred thousand Chicago women have heard Mrs. Chitwood give her instructive and interesting talks and have benefited by her artful and scientific culinary demonstrations. Phil Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE, who has directed the entertainment program for three years again will be master of ceremonies.

One of the most popular features of previous schools—the gift of valuable food baskets, kitchen equipment and household articles—will be repeated this fall with a grand prize awarded on the final day of each week.

Entertainment at 12:30.

The entertainment program will open promptly each afternoon at 12:30 o'clock and Mrs. Chitwood will take the stage at 1:30. She will lecture until 3 o'clock and resume the stage after a half hour intermission. For the convenience of the women all the schools will be closed at 4:30.

In addition to the appearance of theatrical stars, feature writers of THE TRIBUNE, both men and women, will be introduced. Mrs. Chitwood arrived in Chicago a few days ago and is busily preparing new recipes for the delight of Chicago tables.

MRS. HOOVER IS UNRECOGNIZED IN HOUR ART TOUR

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former President, paid a visit to A Century of Progress art exhibit at the Chicago Art institute yesterday. She spent more than an hour in the galleries before she was recognized by a guard.

Officials of the institute said Mrs. Hoover, in company with her secretary, paid the usual 25 cents admission to the Fair exhibit and passed unnoticed to the galleries. When she was recognized word of her presence in the institute spread to the basement, where the Conference of Club Presidents was holding a regular meeting. Mrs. Hoover was asked to speak to the group and she accepted, spending several minutes on the rostrum.

After her extemporaneous talk Mrs. Hoover hurried from the institute and rode away in a taxicab. She did not disclose her plans. Last year Mrs. Hoover visited the institute twice to view the first A Century of Progress exhibit.

ROAST SHOULDER OF LAMB IS BEST BUY OF WEEK-END

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago today issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Roast shoulder of lamb is recommended to the housewives of Chicago as the most economical meat buy in Chicago retail meat stores over the coming week-end.

"Round steak and various cuts of fresh pork also are selling at attractive price levels."

BUNDESEN ASKS ALL TO SUPPORT COMMUNITY FUND

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, yesterday urged Chicagoans to contribute to the 1934 Community fund, which is seeking $3,000,000 to aid 130 private charities.

"We need but to gaze for a moment on that pathetic drawing of the tattered boy on crutches on the Community fund campaign poster, to realize the need of united support for Chicago's charities and social agencies," Dr. Bundesen said.

"Every person who can afford to do so—and that means almost every one fortunate enough to be employed—should give to this fund. Thus he will help insure the maintenance of the vital social agencies and relieve the distress of suffering among the aged and infirm, crippled and homeless, the orphan and undernourished child."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Carrots were known to possess properties of peculiar benefit more than 200 years ago. These properties have since been attributed to the presence of vitamin A.

BEST FLAVORED JELLY IS MADE OF SOUND FRUIT

The finest flavor in jelly is obtained only from sound fruit of a variety which has a rich flavor, and which is made into jelly as soon as possible after picking, according to experts of the Missouri college of agriculture. If the fruit has a mild taste the flavor may be improved by adding lemon juice, or the juice of fruits of a more spicy flavor such as rhubarb, gooseberry, currants, green apples, or underripe grapes. These should be added in the proportion of about one-third of such juice to two-thirds of a mild-flavored juice.

Household Hints

A bread wrapping machine is now used by a company in California to wrap cartons of eggs in waxed paper. The paper is sealed by heat to make it resistant to moisture and air. Candling tests show that these wrapped eggs keep better than unwrapped eggs.

SHE TELLS HER SISTER: "I just can't understand, Sis, why any woman would ever serve those mayonnaise substitutes on her salads!

"After all, real mayonnaise—Hellmann's—costs only a trifle more . . . and it certainly makes salads taste worlds better!

"And that is easy to understand, too! You see, Hellmann's is made from only the very choicest ingredients—the finest salad oils, imported spices, eggs and a special blend of three selected vinegars. All blended to a famous French recipe and double-whipped for marvelous velvety-smoothness.

"And it is rushed to grocers every few days so that every jar of Hellmann's comes to us deliciously fresh—always!

"That is why I wouldn't even think of using anything but Hellmann's Mayonnaise! George Wilton has a passion for flying

GEORGE WILTON has a passion for flying. And Wilma Wilton, for a time, had a passion for floating. That is—let us explain—for floating from one brand of coffee to another. "Just for a change," she explained to George.

But at last he said, "The only result I can find in changing is continued dissatisfaction. Let's land on something really good, Wilma. Hills Bros. Coffee, for example, like the McBrides have. Let's use Hills Bros. Coffee from now on and have constant, unvarying coffee-delight plus the real economy that comes from a coffee with greater richness and strength!"

Try Hills Bros. today and you'll surely find—just as the Wiltons did—that here is coffee with true economy and extraordinary quality.

CHILDREN MAKE OWN FOOD CHOICE AND DO GOOD JOB

Fruit Is the Favorite with Most of Them.

Ames, Ia., Oct. 18.—Turn 3 to 5 year old Willie loose to choose his own dinner from a supply of wholesome foods, and he'll do a pretty good job of menu selection. In addition he is likely to do a better job of eating it when every mouthful is supervised by an adult.

That is, if he is similar to a group of nursery school children at Iowa State college, who were allowed to select, from a large supply of food, what and how much they wanted to eat, and to eat it without any adult supervision.

Increase Consumption, too.

The experiment, which was recently completed by Anafred Stephenson, graduate student in the child development department here, showed that the children ate as much or more food by this method as they did when eating by the conventional method under supervision.

Bananas were popular with the children. They were first choice at each meal more often than any other food. Then, in order of decreasing rank, came apples, raw carrots, meat, bread, peas, tomatoes and eggs. The food least often selected first was lettuce. Next in order were cooked cabbage, turnips, cooked carrots, cauliflower and raw cabbage.

Fruit a Favorite.

Fruit in general was a favorite food. In fact, over 50 per cent of the total amount of food selected was fruit. Milk, with one-fourth the total amount, came next. Meat, fish and eggs supplied about one-tenth of the total amount, with vegetables rating a low of about 8 per cent of the amount.

This varies from the precentages often recommended by child nutrition specialists, who give vegetables first place with about 40 per cent, milk next with about 30 per cent, and fruit third with only 15 per cent.

Tribune Recipes

TAFFY APPLES.

1 cup sugar
¼ cup white corn sirup
¾ cup water
6 medium sized red apples
15 red cinnamon candies
6 wooden skewers

Wash and dry the apples and insert the skewers. Mix the sugar, sirup, and water, and cook until the sugar is dissolved. Add the cinnamon candy and continue cooking until a little of the mixture dropped in cold water forms a hard piece that will crack easily. Place the pan of sirup in a pan of hot water and keep the water boiling. Dip each apple into the sirup quickly, remove it, and whirl the apple until the sirup covers it smoothly. Stand the apples on waxed paper so they do not touch each other. They should be eaten the day they are made.

CHICKEN MACARONI AU GRATIN.

½ pound macaroni
2 quarts boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups milk or chicken broth
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons butter
2 cups diced cooked chicken
¾ cup grated American cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook the macaroni in the boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Prepare a white sauce of the milk or stock, flour, and butter. Add the sauce to the macaroni and chicken. Pour half the mixture into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Repeat. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the cheese is melted.

MOCK DUCK.

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups mashed potato
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 beaten egg
1 small onion, chopped
2 teaspoons butter
½ teaspoon salt

Mix the ground meat with one-half teaspoon salt and flatten into an oblong cake. Mix the remaining ingredients, spread over the meat, and fold the meat together over the stuffing. Place a few thin strips of bacon or salt pork over the top and bake one hour in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

STUFFED FIG SALAD.

15 canned figs
5 ounces Roquefort cheese
¼ cup chopped nut meats
5 slices pineapple
¼ cup chopped celery
5 tablespoons cream
4 tablespoons mayonnaise

Soften the cheese and combine with the cream, nuts, celery, and mayonnaise. Drain the figs, cut a large gash in the top of each, and stuff with the first mixture. Arrange three figs on each slice of pineapple which has been placed on lettuce leaves. Serve with salad dressing.

Deep-Brown Beans
COOKED A NEW EXCLUSIVE WAY
* * *
RICHER FLAVOR CLEAR THROUGH!

● No one ever made you such an offer before—beans you could try with a double-your-money-back guarantee.

Here's why we can make it now. Deep-Brown Beans are the result of years of experimenting. Getting the idea for a wholly new way of cooking beans, Libby chefs worked over it tirelessly. Perfected it. Created new and finer sauces. Then we asked in hundreds of people to taste these new beans.

We know what they said. We are certain of what you'll say. That's why we offer you double your money back if you don't think Deep-Brown Beans the best you ever tasted!

Compare these beans with any you can buy, with any you can prepare at home. Instantly you'll see the difference. Richer color in Deep-Brown Beans. Richer color all the way through. Each bean browned to the center!

Compare them for flavor. These are extra quality beans that Libby pays a premium to get; they're hand-picked as carefully as you would do it . . . and then cooked perfectly. Note the even texture: not a bean overdone; not a one underdone; each bean tender and firm, and mealy inside like a well-baked potato. And the sauces for Deep-Brown Beans are new and richer, marvelously good!

New enjoyment in your favorite style

Maybe you like your beans with pork and tomato sauce. Maybe you prefer them with pork and molasses. Or you'd rather have them without meat, Vegetarian Style. Or big red kidney beans with pork. Libby's Beans, cooked the Deep-Brown way, are offered in all four of these styles. And in large and small cans for your convenience.

Don't wait another day to try them. Whichever of the four styles you choose, we know you're going to like Libby's Deep-Brown Beans better than any you ever tasted. We're so certain that we're making the double-your-money-back offer below! Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

* HERE'S THE OFFER!

This double-your-money-back offer is not limited to Chicago; it is made to any purchaser of these new beans.

Buy a can of Libby's new Deep-Brown Beans, your favorite style. Taste them. If you don't think they are the best you ever ate, tell us why, sending the label with, written on it, your name and address, your grocer's name and address and the price you paid. We will send you twice that amount! Libby, McNeill & Libby, Dept. TC-26, Chicago.

● A marvelous tomato sauce for Libby's Deep-Brown Beans, Tomato Sauce Style. Rich and zestful, spiced just enough to bring out the full delicious tomato taste. And extra richness from the pork. You're going to like this sauce

● With molasses sauce! Even New England cooks say the sauce on Libby's Deep-Brown Beans is exactly right . . . rich and savory sweet —no scrimping on pork or fine molasses

VEGETARIANS! Deep-Brown Beans also come in tomato sauce without meat; have a wonderfully rich, nut-like flavor

KIDNEY BEANS, TOO! Libby has cooked big red kidney beans the Deep-Brown way. They're rich with a special Libby sauce and plenty of pork

SPEEDY ACTION ON OUTER DRIVE BRIDGE URGED

Civic Groups Hear Plea for Randolph Terminal.

Completion of the outer drive bridge and the proposed Randolph street unified railway terminal, to improve the city's downtown lake front area, was urged yesterday at a luncheon meeting sponsored by the North Central association at the Medinah club of Chicago.

Representatives of women's clubs, property owners, manufacturers, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and other civic groups unanimously adopted a resolution presented by William Dewey, president of the North Shore Hotel association, asking Mayor Kelly to speed up the outer bridge development.

Funds Cut Off by Ickes.

Work on the project was halted when Secretary of the Interior Ickes abruptly withdrew a federal allocation of $6,877,000, declaring that the Lincoln park board was unable to furnish adequate security for its share of the loan.

Mr. Dewey's resolution said failure to complete the bridge has caused great loss of business to north side property owners, inconvenience to the public and trafic congestion costing thousands of dollars.

The resolution also declared that inasmuch as the state Supreme court has sustained the validity of the consolidated Chicago park board, and the latter has the power to issue bonds, there should be no further delay.

Warns of Federal Plan.

Edward J. Noonan, consulting engineer for the city council railway terminal committee, spoke on behalf of the Randolph street terminal plan.

Mr. Noonan warned that the Chicago railroad coördinator, part of the national program created by congress to reduce railroad operating costs, is working on a plan to eliminate one or two of the present passenger stations and concentrate trafic in those which would remain.

"We must prevent this," he declared. "In this manner they would perpetuate a condition which we're trying to prevent."

DRIVER KILLED AS TRAIN HITS MOTOR TRUCK

Joseph Olinski, 40 years old, 642 Elston avenue, a driver for the Boyda Dairy company, 4224 Chicago avenue, was killed yesterday when his truck was struck by a Chicago and North Western railroad suburban train at the Nagle avenue crossing. This death and one other yesterday brought to 970 the Cook county motor toll for 1934. The other victim:

John Wharton, 27 years old, colored, 3125 South Park way, died in the County hospital of injuries incurred a week ago when he was struck by an automobile at 31st street and Calumet avenue.

Mrs. Alice Ferguson, 32 years old, 2353 Wilson avenue, was critically injured when the car in which she was riding turned over yesterday near Mishawaka, Ind.

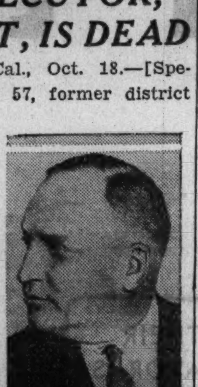
ASA KEYES, 57, EX-PROSECUTOR, CONVICT, IS DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.—Asa Keyes, 57, former district attorney of Los Angeles, and storm center of legal and political battles which ended with his serving a term in San Quentin penitentiary, died here today following a two day illness. He was stricken with a heart attack yesterday.



ASA KEYES.

Keyes was convicted of accepting a bribe to go easy on the prosecution in the Julian Petroleum company $50,000,000 stock steal, in 1929, but returned from the state penitentiary after two and a half years to win a new place in Los Angeles business and professional life. At time of his death a hearing for his readmission to the state bar was pending.

Keyes became district attorney in 1923, after a record of belligerent efficiency in prosecuting prominent crooks and criminals.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—It was revealed today that Mechanic Henry W. Johnson, who lost his life yesterday when the plane carrying the films of the shooting of King Ferdinand of Jugo-Slavia fell into the sea, missed rescue by less than a yard. Johnson and Pilot Marion Gravenberg scrambled out of the cockpit and the former grabbed an air cushion. Later as the plane was breaking up Gravenberg seized a rudder and Johnson floated to within a yard of him, calling for rescue.

Gravenberg, who landed today, said he told Johnson to grab his foot. Johnson tried, but failed, and the next time Gravenberg saw him Johnson had drifted 200 yards away. Another view showed only the air cushion bobbing on the waves.

Five of the six on the big Sikorsky, which met the ship carrying the films in an effort to speed them to shore, were rescued. They arrived here today.

Col. G. W. Johns Is Dead; Formerly Fairfield Banker

Fairfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Col. George W. Johns, 85, civil war veteran, banker, and Republican politician, died at his home here last night after a long illness. Years ago he was candidate for Illinois attorney general. His funeral will be held Friday.

FREE STATE JAILS FARMERS IN LAND ANNUITY FIGHT

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Oct. 18.—The Free State government is taking determined action against farmers and Blue Shirts alleged to be engaged in the campaign against payment of land annuities and in organized sabotage to prevent the holding of sales of cattle seized from farmers in default.

For the past four days the police have been making wholesale arrests all over east Cork where resistance against the annuity payments is strongest. In Counties Waterford and Kilkenny more than forty young Blue Shirts were arrested today. Thirty-seven East Cork farmers, arrested earlier in the week, were removed yesterday to Mount Joy prison in Dublin.

Following that action a widespread campaign of destruction was carried out in East Cork last night. This morning virtually every road in the area had been rendered impassable by felled trees. The railroad between Middleton and Youghal had been torn up, while telegraph and telephone wires had been cut extensively.

Dr. Frederich Richter, 82, Noted Lutheran Figure, Dies

Clinton, Ia., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Rev. Frederich Richter, 82, an international figure in Lutheran church circles, died here today after a long illness. Dr. Richter served as president of the Iowa Lutheran synod for 22 years and also edited several church publications. He was president of Wartburg college here from 1894 to 1900.

Arm Cut in Controversy Over Loud Radio; He Dies

Andrew Koopman, 41 years old, 3929 North Spaulding avenue, died yesterday at the Belmont hospital of a severed artery in his right arm suffered Sunday night during a controversy over the loud playing of a radio at a party in his home. The Rev. Erich Forstner, 45 years old, pastor of a church at Troy and Grace streets, who lives in the same apartment building, had gone to the Koopman apartment to protest. In the dispute that followed Koopman thrust his right arm through a glass door.

C. B. Jacobs, Metallurgist, Dies of Pneumonia at 64

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charles B. Jacobs, 64, metallurgist and inventor, who worked with the late Charles P. Steinmetz and other noted scientists, died of pneumonia tonight in the Waterbury hospital. Jacobs, who invented "evadura" and "alundum" metal, and for his work received the John Scott medal in 1914 from the Franklin institute of Philadelphia, was a graduate of Lehigh university.

Pioneer of St. Joseph, Mich., Is Taken by Death at 86

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Patrick Gobiel, believed to be the oldest native born resident of St. Joseph, is dead at his farm home at the age of 86. He was born when St. Joseph was but a hamlet in 1848, and his name was in the honored list of pioneers in the St. Joseph centennial records of last summer's 100th celebration of the city.

News of the Radio Stations

Regular broadcasts of proceedings in Trafic court are to be inaugurated over WBBM-CBS from 3 to 3:30 o'clock today with Mayor Kelly and Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court participating in the opening ceremonies. Beginning tomorrow, the broadcasts will be heard for fifteen minutes on weekday mornings except Wednesdays. They are being initiated as part of the safety campaign now in progress in Chicago, Chief Justice Sonsteby announced.

Today's broadcast as well as those to follow will originate in the Trafic court at 11th and State streets, Judge John Gutknecht presiding. The regular routine of the court will be followed. Whatever case or cases happen to be called at the broadcast hour will be tried before the microphone.

Somewhat similar broadcasts have been put on in Milwaukee, Kansas City, Indianapolis, and Denver with favorable results reported. In Denver, as we recall, the broadcasts have been commercially sponsored. And some objections developed to them for that reason.

"The Gumps," famous TRIBUNE comic strip, will come to life in a new radio series over CBS beginning Monday, Nov. 5. They will be heard five mornings a week at 11:15 o'clock with WBBM as the local outlet. Created by Sidney Smith, Andy and Min have been popular for more than 15 years and are at present syndicated to more than 300 newspapers. The program will originate in New York and will be sponsored.

Earl Burtnett and his orchestra will return to W-G-N tomorrow evening when they open the formal season at the Drake hotel. With Burtnett will be Ruth Lee, torch singer; Stanley Hickman, tenor, and Red Hodgson, novelty singer. Beginning next week Burtnett's music, as well as that of Ted Weems, will be fed to stations of the newly organized Mutual Broadcasting system.

Frank Buck's dramatized jungle stories will go off the air on Nov. 16. Buck was brought in last July to pinch hit for Amos 'n' Andy; was liked so well that he was kept on after they returned in September. He has been occupying the spot of the Goldbergs who were dropped by the sponsor last June. Buck will not be replaced with any other show, the sponsor stated yesterday.

Engineers sitting at the control boards at CBS would have welcomed Frank Buck yesterday when a live lion walked in on them, emitting ferocious growls and showing its teeth. The men stood their ground, however, since the lion was only three months old and on a leash, accompanied by Herb Green, local announcer.

Though there's been no announcement forthcoming, it is understood that Frank McIntyre, stage veteran, has been engaged to take the place of Charles Winninger as Capt. Henry on the Show Boat hour when he leaves the first of the month to return to the stage.

Anne Seymour, the star of NBC's "Grand Hotel," has announced a scholarship in drama for blind actors, offered in the belief that talent may be found among the sightless that may be adapted to radio. Auditions will be held at NBC in the Merchandise Mart at 9:30 a. m. next Thursday. The scholarship is for a full year at the Goodman Drama school.

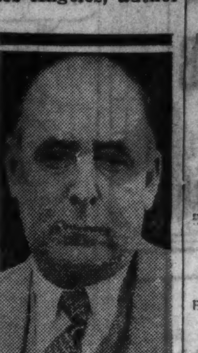
HAL G. EVARTS, 47, AUTHOR, DIES ON SHIP OFF BRAZIL

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Hal G. Evarts, 47, of Los Angeles, author of many short stories and novels, died at 4 a. m. today of a heart attack aboard the S. S. Malolo as the ship neared Rio de Janeiro. Evarts had come to South America on a recuperative trip following a series of severe cardiac attacks.



HAL G. EVARTS.

Evarts was returning to the United States aboard the Malolo which also was carrying American pilgrims returning from the Eucharistic congress at Buenos Aires.

Evarts was interested in outdoor life and his books on animal life are widely read. He was a surveyor in the Indian territory, a rancher, trapper, and licensed guide. His books included "The Shaggy Legion," "The Cross Pull," "The Passing of the Old West," and "The Painted Stallion."

DISTRICT LOSES PATENT SUIT ON SEWAGE PLANT

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday ruled in favor of the Activated Sludge, Inc., in the suit charging patent infringement by the sanitary district of Chicago and involving $140,000,000 worth of property in the city's sewage disposal plant. The judge, however, refused to enjoin the sanitary district from further use of the sewage disposal method on the ground that such a move would endanger public health.

The decision followed the recent ruling of the United States Supreme court in a similar suit brought by the Activated Sludge, Inc., against the city of Milwaukee. The high court ruled that Milwaukee had violated patent rights on a rapid oxidation process for sewage disposal.

Months of hearing before a master in chancery will be necessary to determine the amount of damages due the company from the sanitary district, it was said yesterday. In the Milwaukee case the Activated Sludge company offered to settle the case for 3 per cent of the value of the $9,000,000 city disposal plant.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to W. L. Stevens, Dentist

Dr. William L. Stevens, 60 years old, a dentist with offices at 147 North Western avenue, collapsed and died yesterday in a washroom in the offices of the S. S. White Dental Supply company, 55 East Washington street. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. Their marriage is one in name only in order to fight against their common enemy, Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the country and owner of Circle 3 T ranch. He has been trying to force Mary to marry him and has been stealing cattle from her Lazy B ranch. Mary is captured and taken to Circle 3 T ranch. Slim Calhoun, a good looking young outlaw in Radbourne's employ, has a run in with Jerry Haskell, Chet's foreman, and leaves Circle 3 T ranch and joins Cole. Cole forces Chet Radbourne to surrender Mary and puts her under the protection of the Peters family in Jonesboro. Radbourne captures Rusty Hunter, one of Cole's trusted men, and a young boy named Morse. After giving Art Simmons a note to take to Mary in case anything happens to him, Cole captures Radbourne and forces him to make his men surrender Rusty. Then Cole and his men and Radbourne, their prisoner, await the return of Jerry Haskell. They defend the house against Haskell until he fires it, and forces them to make a rush for the horse corral. Gray Shirt, as they call the hired killer, Faust, gets Simmons to give Cole's note to Mary. Mary sends Sherif Magruder to the rescue. In her anxiety for her husband's safety she rides after them alone. Besieged in the horse corral, Cole offers to settle the matter by a duel between Haskell and himself. Haskell is forced by his men to agree, but instead he leaps on his horse and flees. Haskell meets Mary and, to avenge himself against Cole, trys to make her go with him. She escapes but not before he whips her with his quirt. A camp busybody gives the story away to Cole.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

A QUESTION OF HONOR.

The busybody wished he had kept his mouth shut. Apparently Sanborn did not know the story.

"I dunno. There was some talk. Probably nothing to it."

"What talk?"

"I kinda gathered—"

At that the gossip stuck. He did not know how much or how little to tell.

"Who from?"

"Well, Mrs. Sanborn—she said—"

"Just what did she say?"

The man tried to back out from responsibility. "Why don't you go ask her, Cole?"

"I'm asking you."

The cold steely eyes of Sanborn would not release his reluctant informant. Having begun, the fellow had to go through.

"Jerry he started to take Mrs. Sanborn with him. We heard her calling for help and he lit out."

"Anything more?"

"I thought you knew all about it. He—quirted her." The words seemed to be dragged out of the man. He knew he had been a well-intentioned fool and interfered with the business of other people. Mary had begged him and the others who had found her not to tell what she had confided in the first shock of relief, but he had not supposed Cole was not to be in the secret.

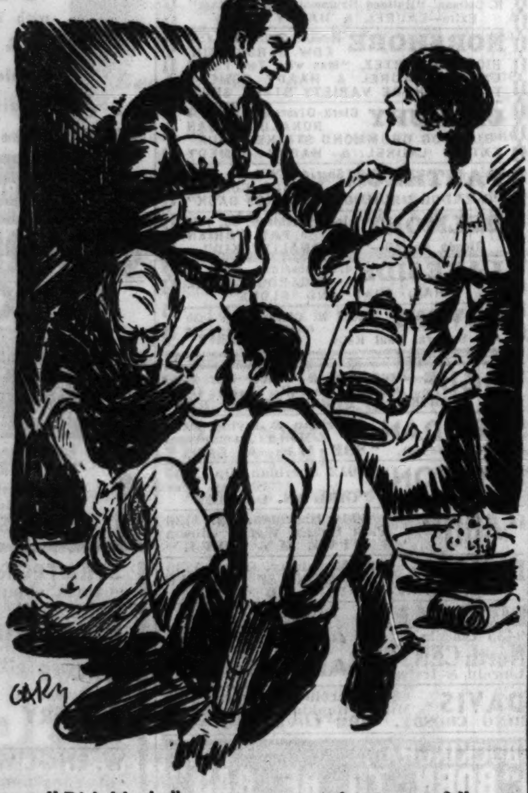
The face of Sanborn was white and set. "Quirted her," he repeated. "Did Mrs. Sanborn say so?"

"She was crying, and—she let it out, then asked us not to tell. Course I thought——"

What he thought was of no importance to Cole. Abruptly Sanborn turned away and strode into the bunkhouse. He stood above Mary, where she was assisting Dr. Burns with a bandage.

"Soon as you're through I want to see you," Cole said, his voice rough and low.

She looked up, surprised. In his manner was something ominous. His stern eyes were like live coals. Not five minutes ago she had left him, a lover gay and cheerful, his strength irradiated and softened, his harshness melted. What had made this change in him? Did he think she had been forward — unwomanly? Perhaps. Men felt that way about women. Her sex must simper and decoy, deny and allure. She had told him the truth simply. Was that an offense against decorum?



"Did Haskell . . . use a quirt to you?"

Mary finished with the bandage, then rose and walked beside him from the room. Outside, he flung a question at her.

"Did Haskell—use a quirt to you?"

He gulped the last words out, as if he found it hard to say them.

"O Cole, does that matter now?"

She caught one of his hands in hers. It was very important that she get him to see this as she did. "That is part of our bad dream that's past," she continued. "It goes with all the rest of it—with your wound—with all the bloodshed. You and I have blotted all that out."

He would not meet her pleading little smile. "It's true, then."

"If you have got to know about it, I lashed him first with the quirt—across the face."

"Why did you do that?"

"I think he was a little mad," she explained. "He wanted me to go with him. His eyes glared and his face was distorted. When he caught hold of my bridle rein and wouldn't let go I became panicky and struck him with the quirt. After he caught me he still acted like a madman. Cole, I want you to forget it. After all, I hit him first. He is out of our lives. Forever. We'll never see him again. There is so much we must forget, and that is just a little part of it."

"No," he said hoarsely. "In this country a man can't treat a woman in that way and get away with it. What kind of a husband would I be if I sat down and didn't call him to account?"

"Something beautiful has come into our lives, Cole," she said. "I didn't expect it. You weren't anything to me except a bad man strong enough to fight my battles. Then I found I was wrong. You weren't bad at all. You were brave and strong, and you were generous to those trying to destroy you. Even then I didn't want to love you, but I was swept from my feet. I couldn't help it. And since, when I haven't been afraid of you, I've been the happiest woman in the world. Do you want to wipe all that out, by killing this man who means nothing at all to us?"

"When he did what he did he knew I would have to hunt him down," he said doggedly.

"No, Cole. No—no—no!" The protest burst vehemently from her. "We can't start killing all over again. Think of tonight, of all the bloodshed, of those men lying cold and still in the stable. I was thanking God we had come to the end of it. And you say you are going to begin again. If you love me—"

Her plea broke down on that sobbing note. Cole did not answer at once. He was distressed and troubled. What she had said was all true. He longed to do as she wished. But all his life training, the code of the frontier, rose up in him protestant against letting Haskell escape punishment for what he had done. With characteristic swiftness he made up his mind.

"I won't kill him," he promised. "I'll drag him back with a rope around his neck. Magruder can have him. There is plenty of evidence he led the K. & J. express robbers. He'll hang for that job."

"You talk as if bullets couldn't kill you," she cried. "He is a desperate man, and he will shoot you down. It's the sherif's business to get him, not yours."

"It's my business, after what he did to you. But you don't need to be afraid. He won't hurt me."

"How do you know he won't? Don't go, Cole, please."

He took her hands and looked down into her troubled face. "I have to go, dearest," he said gently. "It's my job. I can't shirk it. I'm sorry. I wish I didn't have to do it."

All the sternness had gone from his face. A few minutes ago he had been hard as iron. What alchemy was there in her presence that so softened and changed him? He could not understand or explain it.

She clung to him passionately. How could she let him go back into danger so soon?

Cole held her in his arms and kissed her. "It won't be long, sweetheart," he promised. "I'll be back—for good this time."

With that promise she had to be content.

As Cole walked to the stable he caught sight of Slim Calhoun and Gray Shirt moving down the road. He hailed them.

"Where you headed for, boys? If you'll wait I will ride with you," Cole called to them.

They did not wait. Sanborn was surprised at that.

As Cole plodded through the chaparral he put himself for the twentieth time in the place of Jerry Haskell. Given the same circumstances, with the temperament of the ex-foreman of the Circle 3 T, what would he do? The pride of Haskell had been given a terrific blow. Before the men who counted most with him he had shown the white feather. To meet anybody he knew would be a humiliation almost beyond endurance. He would get out of the country as soon as he could. That meant he would make for the nearest railroad point.

There was one possible flaw in this reasoning. Haskell would not leave behind him the money gained from the express car robbery. Did he have the loot on his person in the form of bills? Or was it buried at some convenient place? If the money was cached, he would have to recover it before he crossed the desert and made for Sundown, the nearest railroad station. Knowing Haskell, Cole was of the opinion that the man carried his plunder always in a belt around his waist. For if suspicion should be directed his way he might have to leave on the jump.

Straggly Ends of Hair Show Indifference

Untidy Coiffure Gives an Aged Appearance.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

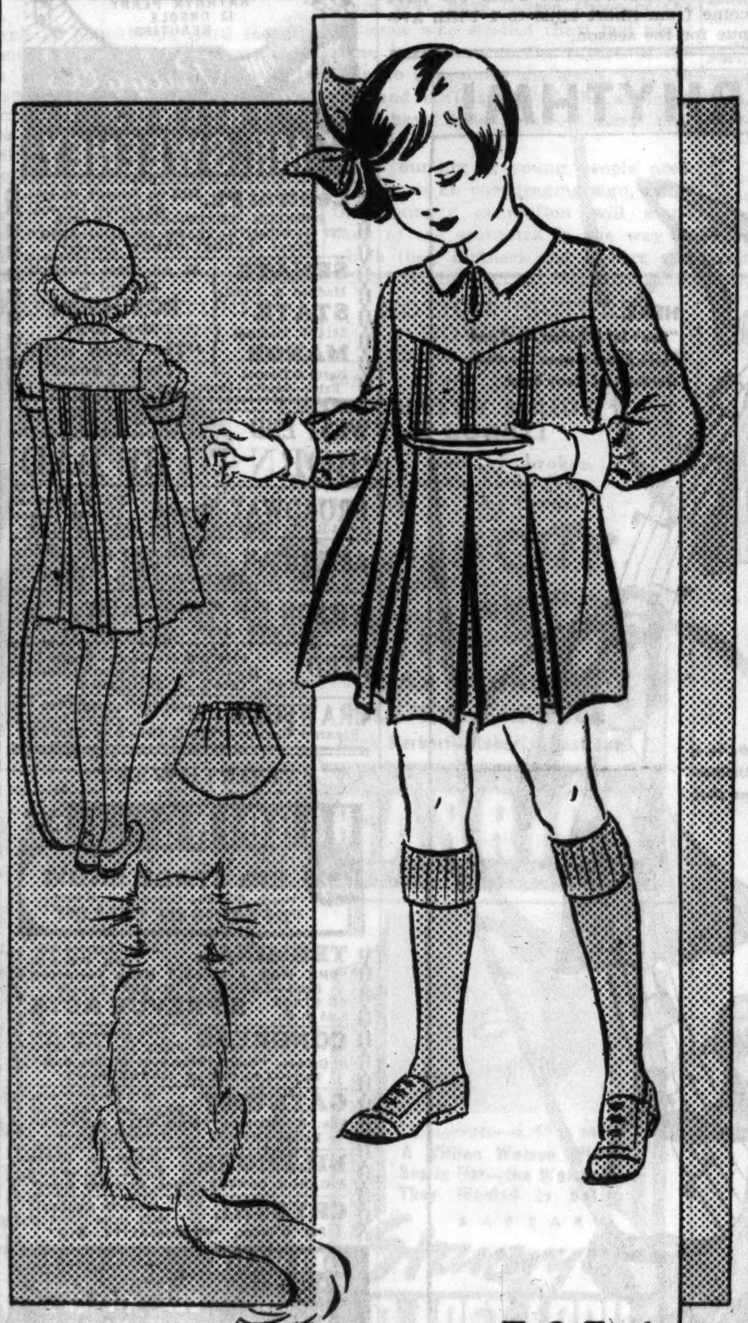
A famous beautician says that a woman is middle aged, no matter what her years, whose hair is allowed to straggle down in back and sides.

That ought to send us scuttling off to the hairdresser pronto! Not so?

It isn't that many women, whose years are on the sunny side of middle age, are guilty of stray wisps and stringy ends. It is merely that it is a middle aged characteristic to disregard these untidy ends. Many, many women of middle age and more challenge the truth of the charge with their always beautifully groomed hair. Nevertheless, the older woman is seen often enough with the untidy locks to give some truth to the accusation. Sometimes, true, it is a matter of money. The woman can't afford the hairdresser's attention. But many times it is simply the indifference that settles when one feels her gay young days are pleasant memories.

However, it is more than that these days. Women simply are expected to look well. There does not seem to be indulgence even where it is known that finances forbid professional aid, for the reason that one can do a great deal herself toward the required personal upkeep, even to disposing of the raggedy hairs. One can get curlers in the five and ten that will cleverly dispose of the straggly hairs. Or, one can train the curling iron to look after them. It's more in the will to keep oneself up than in the means, really, in so many branches of personal care.

Dress and Panties to Match



CHILD'S DRESS.

This charming dress is smart, but simply made, and there are French panties accompanying it. These are usually made of the dress material. A red and white check, with navy blue lawn collar and cuffs, surely will please any little girl. Finely striped buttercup percale, the stripes being in cocoa brown, with brown organdie collar and cuffs, is an equally pretty combination.

The pattern, No. 3054, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years.

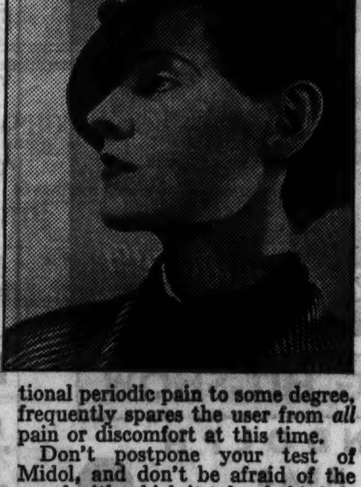
MIDOL



"Anything that will relieve pains as severe as I used to have every month ought to help anybody. I don't see how anyone who is a real sufferer can go along without trying Midol. I have convinced at least a dozen girls and made them try it, and every one of them is grateful, I know."

That is how many users feel about this medicine. They are glad they found it, glad to tell others. Midol always relieves any functional periodic pain to some degree, frequently spares the user from all pain or discomfort at this time.

Don't postpone your test of Midol, and don't be afraid of the speed with which it takes hold; it is not a narcotic. Midol is as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. All drug-stores have these tablets; just ask for Midol—today, so that you will be prepared.

Declares Children, 3 to 5, Often Speak in Literary Manner

Small children often speak in the language of literature, and their conversation often reveals them as poets, Dr. Hughes Mearns, author of several novels and chairman of the department of creative education at New York university, said yesterday at the child study conference being held by the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education at the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. store.

"In children between three and five years I have sometimes found a rhythm and a gift for poetic expression to rival the Psalms of David," Dr. Mearns said. "Talk of children at times has an art value, but demands of convention curb children and they lose the beauty of expression."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We find, as we skip our way through a cosmetic laden world, that it would hardly be possible to own too many atomizers.

We've got an incomparable perfume that we must guard from predatory hands; that's carefully poured away in one of those invaluable ones with a lock in it. It doesn't evaporate, which is a boon to our modest budget, and when we do want to spray ourselves for great occasions or to banish the blues our precious scent is available in the most economical—and effective—amounts.

For colognes there are bigger atomizers that serve you well. An awful lot is lost by swooshing colognes around with the palm of the hand, you know; you're apt to get more on the bedroom floor than you do on your skin.

For brilliantine and the heavier hair oils so many dry haired women have to use as a dressing the atomizer is the ideal applicator. With those lotions it's better to err on the side of moderation because a little does more good than too much and judicious spraying seems to turn the trick.

You can take our word for it that atomizers are important beauty accessories. If owning one or two has seemed like an extravagance that's one notion you can put out of your pretty head. You can spend just about what you choose.

The inexpensive ones are good practical possessions in that they spray perfumes or colognes or what have you in a fashion that achieves the best effect. Those with slightly higher price tags have a decorative as well as a utilitarian appeal. Many of them are exquisite in color and in line. Some are beautiful bottles carefully designed to harmonize with boudoir decorations of period motif.

You can have them fancy if you like or you can have them sweet and simple. But own a couple you must if you're a fine fragrance fan.

Incident May Be Big Event to Small Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We were about to have tea the other afternoon — not one of those sumptuous, luxurious, sociable teas that you linger over, but a businesslike, thin-bread-and-butter tea in the middle of a busy afternoon. A "small one"—not our own—was underfoot.

"I like bread and butter. I like afternoon tea," said the longing eyes long before the words came out.

"Well, run and ask your mother if you can," we felt was the best answer.

The small one must have gone immediately into "high," because in an incredibly short time he was back with a breathless, "All right, I can."

We set a small table with milk and four little squares of whole wheat bread and butter and drew up a little chair, then sat down with our own casual tea tray. Naturally our own tea was an almost unnoticeable incident in the day—but not so with the small one seated at his little feast.

This to him was An Event.

Earnestly he began, chewing slowly and savoring each morsel. The glass of milk was sipped steadily as his eyes roved about the room.

"I put my nose into my glass when I drink," he announced, as he put it down. Then he beamed.

"We're having a Tea Party. I like tea parties."

More absorption in the "absorption" of the bread and butter. Silence. Then,

"It's good. This is a Tea Party, isn't it? I like this littul tayboo and chair."

More eating. Finished. A sigh of repletion. Another look around.

"Let's have a tea party again. I like this littul glass. We had a tea party, didn't we?"

In such moments of leisure and observation, doesn't it come over you how different a child's set of values is from ours—and how different the young child's set of values is from the older child's?

The things that are big to us are little to them—and the things that are little to us are big to them. The big things are beyond their horizon and comprehension—the little things, close and of everyday, are the great events marching one after the other through their long, happy, timeless days. It helps a lot to realize this.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

Bridge Refuses to Fall During Big Film Scene

Child Gets Cement Gun, Adds to Woes.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The trouble on the "Helldorado" set, when the breakaway bridge wouldn't break away while the mechanical department's sixteen tons of water was being dumped to swirl around it, was as nothing the following day when 6 year old "Lucky" Hurlic, little colored actor, got the prop man's "cobweb gun."

A "cobweb" gun in a spray gun filled with very thick, springy and fast hardening liquid cement. "Lucky" squirted it over the sound cameras, the canvas seat chairs, the stairs, most of the movable props, and his own clothes and hair. It took hours to get things back in readiness to continue shooting and the treatment that was necessary to get the cement out of little Lucky's hair taught him to be wary of things on the set.

◆

The climactic scene of "Helldorado" was when a canyon torrent formed by the simultaneous emptying of four huge overhead tanks specially constructed by the Fox engineering department was to roar down a canyon and crumble the bridge which was the only approach into a gold mining ghost town. Four lines of hose, fifty feet in the air and stretched from one side of the top of the studio's natural gully to the other brink, providded continuous rainfall during the big scene while lightning flashes and thunder were created by turning on an electric spark over gas escaping from drums.

When the big moment came for the bridge to crash, nothing happened and 100 guests who had been waiting around until 1 a. m. to see it cave into the torrent, walked away disappointed toward the studio café where warm drinks were available. A few minutes after every onlooker had gone the bridge did crash but cameramen, accustomed to the perversity of things around a film studio, were all ready and recorded the big moment.

The doorman at Russian Eagle café is Andre Tolstoy. He really has the right to call himself Count Tolstoy, members of the local Russian colony say, because he is a nephew of the author, Leo Tolstoy. The doorman-count has the right to wear the imperial cross of St. George, conferred on him in the old days.

◆

Peggy Fears, now playing the French actress in "Lottery Lover" at Fox, is reported to have an income of $13,000 a month from A. C. Blumenthal, her estranged husband.

After many postponements due to financing and story release dickering Clyde Elliott, who directed and photographed "Bring 'Em Back Alive" and "Devil Tiger" is all ready with Gordon Rigby, the author, to set out for bandit ridden Mongolia to make "China Roars" with a native cast.

Gene Markey is learning to accompany stepdaughter, Diana Fox, on the piano with his guitar. Little Diana is Joan Bennett's child by her first marriage. . . . Lou Tellegen's first talking motion picture appearance is in a current subordinate part in "Call to Arms" at Columbia.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained a small company at dinner tonight. Mrs. Roosevelt received Miss Madeleine Slade, daughter of Admiral Sir Edwin Slade of the British navy, who is a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi. She presented a strange picture in the historic old mansion, wearing the sari headcloth which she wove during her imprisonment in Bombay three years ago, and the sandals and tunic typical of India.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A MOST REMARKABLE HAND FOR BIDDING.

Recently some of us went on a visit to Jacksonville, which is at present the bridge center of the south. In a pair tournament in which we played there were about twenty-five tables, and the following hand was bid in almost as many different ways.

NORTH	EAST
♠ J 9 x	♠ Q 10 8 x x
♥ A x x x	♥ 10 x
♦ A Q 9 8 7	♦ x x
♣ x	♣ x x x x
WEST	SOUTH
♠ x x	♠ A K x
♥ J x x	♥ K Q 9 x
♦ J x x x	♦ K 10
♣ A Q x x	♣ K J 10 x

North was dealer, all were vulnerable.

When North Opened the Bidding.

When North opened with a diamond—a ghastly bid, but some still do it—they either got a thoroughly deserved low score or an undeserved top. Some that opened with a diamond played the hand in five—almost the worst score. Others ended with South playing the hand in three no trumps. West is now careful to make a neutral major suit opening lead and only four no trumps can be made. One pair got to six no trumps doubled, and were down two—bottom score. Four pairs got to six diamonds. Two were not doubled and went down a trick, as they played the diamonds to break and lost a diamond and a club. Two were doubled by West and tied for top score, as the double enabled them to make the slam. Plainly, West expected to make a diamond trick and at least one club. Since he would not double six diamonds unless ready also to double six no trumps, he is almost marked with ace-queen of clubs. Declarer was thus forced to make the right plays—to run the ten of diamonds through against the jack, and then to play high clubs twice through West, thus setting up a third club on which to discard the losing spade from North's hand. A lucky but really unmerited top score thanks to the double.

When North Passed.

About two-thirds of the players rightly passed the North hand; South bid a no trump and nearly all the North players now bid two [even three] diamonds. They did not then get beyond three no trumps, but the harm was done and West had been warned not to lead diamonds, so only four no trumps were made. I believe that six no trumps was reached by at least one of the players when North's response was three diamonds. Having only one ace, South should slow up, especially when the partner has shown diamonds and he has only K 10 in that suit. However, some players do not go into these details, but bid boldly on what seem to be big hands. This was indeed a big hand, but only if bid carefully.

The Sims Players.

The Sims players did not all tie for top—in fact, none of them got a top because they were not doubled in their slam. Nevertheless, the system proved itself on this hand. North naturally passed and South bid a no trump. North having passed a "near bid" and holding two and a half primary tricks and also a good five-card suit as a reserve playing factor, decided to "take the strain off his partner" and promptly bid three no trumps. I think this is the right response in this position. At this stage in the bidding, I am sorry to say that several South players passed rather hurriedly; relieved at being apparently relieved of any further bidding duty, and seeing only one ace in their hands they passed. Then again, it may be that they had not paid much attention to Conquering Contract.

The Perfect Bidding.

Three South players had been following these articles very keenly and had taught themselves to wait and visualize with big hands when there was no sign-off bidding by the partner. They recognized a possible slam development here.

Having four kings themselves, they saw that North could hardly have justification for his response without two aces and at least one queen, perhaps two. So why not feel out a slam try? Surely four no trumps could not be in serious danger on this bidding, if partner must now sign off. Reasoning thus, they bid four hearts, the key bid. North was now able to see that the right denomination had been found. His singleton, the fine diamond suit on which to discard black losers, the opening lead coming up to the strong hand. The stage was set. Six hearts was his response.

Only because the bid was so right that it was not doubled did these fine bidders fail to receive top scores. As you see, six hearts is a safe contract, though South must play the hand carefully, especially if diamonds are not the opening lead. He must, after a spade or trump lead, manage his reentries so as trump a club and a diamond, discarding a spade and a club on the diamonds, and letting West in with the club before playing more than one round of trumps. After a diamond lead, however, the play is simple.

Americans Take Lead Over British in Bridge Tourney

LONDON, Oct. 19 [Friday].—(AP)—The American bridge team started a brilliant offensive early today in its fight to retain possession of the Schwab trophy, and at the end of the fourth day of play was leading the British challengers by 990 points. At the conclusion of 240 hands of a 300 board match the standings were: United States, 74,050; England, 73,060. As play was resumed after dinner last night competition became a fight of player against player, both sides forgetting about their systems for a time.

Devil's Puzzle.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Devil's Puzzle" is an intriguing pieced block both in name and design. It is composed entirely of pieced blocks which are set together without intervening strips and forms an endless pattern. It was designed as you might not suspect, by a pious old soul who lived in Pennsylvania. Flame blue, and orange combined with white comprise the color scheme followed in this block.

It's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

Russian Born Artist Wins Carnegie Award in International Show

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A 28 year old Russian born American, Peter Blume of Gaylordsville, Conn., was awarded first prize tonight at the Carnegie institute's art international for his "South of Scranton," a meticulous picturization adapted from the Pennsylvania anthracite mines.

Second prize was awarded to a German artist, Karl Hofer, now a resident of Switzerland, for his "pastoral," and third went to Sidney Laufman, an American landscape painter of New York City, for his painting, "Spring Landscape."

The prize winning works were selected by a jury of three from 356 paintings submitted by 296 of the leading artists of Europe and America. Blume received a cash award of $1,500, Hofer $1,000, and Laufman $500.

Laymen considered that Blume's "South of Scranton" resembled a futuristic "machine age" expression. It shows coal cars coming from a mine pit and other trains moving to a factory. There is a street in the center, with houses to the right, and on a building in the foreground a small cannon is mounted on a tall turret. About the turret men clad in shorts are skipping in a circle. One almost seems to be leaping from the roof of the building. There were widely varied interpretations among laymen of what it depicted.

Its creator is the youngest artist every to receive the first award. Blume came to America at the age of 5 and was educated in Brooklyn schools. He studied commercial art at night and held his first one man show in 1930.

Buds to Enjoy Gay Week-end on November 9

Miss Doering, Miss Jeffery to Be Introduced.

soon as the young attorney won "Bunny's" yes, they persuaded her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanhope Bunting, to let them be married at once.

The service will be read at high noon tomorrow in the chapel of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest by the rector, the Rev. Herbert E. Prince. Only the immediate families will attend the ceremony, and the breakfast that will follow at Nirvana, the Bunting residence on Ravine road in Lake Bluff.

The bride's younger brother, Van Asmus Bunting, who attends the University of North Carolina, and the bridegroom's father, William Henry Crouse of Germantown, Pa., are not coming for the wedding owing to the suddenness of the plans.

Miss Bunting was graduated from the Holton Arms school in Washington in 1932 and made her debut the following November. She is a member of the Junior league, and is specially active in hocky on the north shore, as well as being an expert horseback rider. Mr. Crouse, who came to Chicago the year in which she made her debut, was graduated from Princeton in 1921 and then taught Latin at the Haverford Boys' academy until he took up the study of law at the University of Pennsylvania.

Upon finishing his course there in 1927 he practiced law in New York until he came to Chicago. He and his bride will leave for a month's wedding trip immediately after the wedding and upon their return they will find an apartment in Chicago in which to reside.

Bertha Cantacuzene Will Wed Banker.

Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, great granddaughter of President Grant, is engaged to marry Donald MacKintosh, assistant cashier of the bank in Sarasota, Fla., in which her father, Prince, Michael Cantacuzene, is an official. The wedding is to take place next March. Princess Bertha is the daughter of Prince Michael and Princess Julia Cantacuzene, who was Julia Dent Grant.

Princess Bertha obtained a divorce early this year from Bruce Smith of Louisville, Ky.

Charlotte Hughes' Wedding Dec. 15.

Miss Charlotte Elton Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Hughes, will be married to Lawrence Ford Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Bateman, at 4:30 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 15 at the Hughes' home in Barrington. Bishop Charles Edward Woodcock of Louisville, the bride-to-be's grandfather, will read the ceremony. Miss Kean Hughes, a debutante of last year, will be her sister's only attendant, and F. Donald Bateman will serve his brother as best man.

A reception will follow the ceremony. Mr. Bateman and his bride will make their home in Barrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell are arriving on Oct. 27 for a ten days' visit with their relatives, the William H. Mitchells, the John J. Mitchells, and the John I. Shaws. Their prime reason for coming to Chicago at this time is to be present at an exhibition of Clarence Mitchell's photographic studies at A Century of Progress on Oct. 29 and 30.

Benefit Show at Lake Forest.

Most of the Lake Forest socialites and many from town will attend the performance of Diana Wynyard in "One More River" tonight at the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest, which is being sponsored by the Lake Forest-Lake Bluff branch of the Infant Welfare society to benefit the Armitage Avenue station which it supports.

Mrs. Edward K. Welles, president of the center, assisted by Mrs. Knight C. Cowles and Mrs. H. Foster Straw, is in charge of the benefit. They and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, publicity chairman, are among those who are giving dinners tonight before the show.

Several Lake Foresters and north shore residents who would otherwise attend this performance of "One More River" will instead drive to Glencoe to see the opening performance of the Threshold Players, "Petticoat Influence," to be given tonight in the auditorium of the Central school.

Fashion Show at Oak Park.

One of the largest charity parties of the season in Oak Park will be given this afternoon when the Oak Park junior board of the Northwestern Settlement gives its annual fashion show and tea.

The show, which will begin at 2 o'clock, will be at the Carleton hotel. Mrs. Thomas J. Lawless Jr. and Mrs. Irvin Houck are co-chairmen of the affair.

Frank L. Kluckhohn, until recently stationed in Madrid as correspondent for a New York newspaper, will be the speaker today at the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations luncheon at the Palmer house. He will discuss the situation confronting Spain.

Another important luncheon scheduled for this noon is one which will follow the annual meeting of the New Orient Society of America, at 12:30 at the Arts club.

New Symphony Season Opens on Joyful Note

this composer became known, and perhaps the last by which he will be remembered.

So the storm of applause that greeted Mr. Stock when he first appeared on the platform was an omen of a propitious evening, and one can easily believe of a propitious season.

SOCIETY PRESENT

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The financial statements of the Orchestral association, published on yellow sheets in the middle of the program, may have caused those of the audience who studied them last night some anxiety as to the future of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, but the size and enthusiasm of the audience must have done much to allay that anxiety.

The number of young people present, too, is an encouraging sign, for if the younger generation will stand back of the orchestra in the way in which their mothers and fathers and grandparents have done there surely will be no need "to borrow to pay current expenses before the end of the season," as the financial statement says will have to be done unless income through sale of season tickets, or other sources, can be sufficiently increased.

◆

"Little" dresses are chosen by the smartest women for concert wear, and last night some stunning ones were in evidence. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed wore one of the loveliest, a beige one, with a tiny cape of brown coque feathers. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter was another who was very chic last night, swathed in black velvet and furs and with a tiny black velvet band in her curled and banged hair.

Fur coats, by the way, were seen for the first time this season, and those who wore them looked far more comfortable as they waited for their cars after the concert than did their less warmly coated sisters.

Mrs. John B. Morse, a recent bride, was among those who wore street costumes. She was all in brown, and she and her husband seemed to be enjoying the music immensely. Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid, a debutante of the season, was escorted by Ralph Chatillon.

The Carpenters, the Charles H. Swifts, Mrs. Frederick Stock and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe, Mrs. Philo A. Otis, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, the John Paul Wellings, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz, Mrs. William H. Hubbard, Mrs. Frank Meadowcroft, Miss Helen Gilbert, the Charles H. Hamills, Mrs. William F. Peterson, and the John A. Holabirds were among those who sat on the main floor.

Show Works of Sculptor, Two Painters

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An interesting exhibition opened yesterday in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, with the showing of sculpture by John David Brcin and paintings by Marie Blanke and Julius Moessel.

A sculptor labors under difficulties usually when it comes to an exhibit of his work in a gallery, for the majority of his projects are cast in too large a mold to fit within the limits of four walls. Mr. Brcin has cleverly surmounted the difficulty by showing photographs of his more imposing work, the bas-reliefs for the Joslyn memorial in Omaha, Neb.

◆

Mr. Brcin depicts in these the pageant of civilization as it made its slow way across the continent of North America. He has carved Indians and pioneers, the first settlers, and the later trading posts. His work is forceful and vigorous; it possesses a rhythmic swing and a virile beauty. The building the reliefs decorate is in pink and the effect, particularly when the building is swept by rain, is peculiarly beautiful.

Aside from the Joslyn memorial work, the sculptor offers a charming bust portrait of a child, "Jean"; another charming bust of a girl, "Caroline," and a lovely figure of a woman, "Distaff Memories." His "Mounted Sioux" is most effective and the "Lincoln" is impressive.

◆

Julius Moessel shares the gallery with Mr. Brcin. His paintings make a stunning contrast with and background for the sculpture. Mr. Moessel paints decorative and imaginative pictures, rich in color, gorgeous in design.

He has added horror to the list of possibilities and gives us "Midnight," when the graves yawn and spew forth the dead in winding sheets or rattling bones, a grisly sight, and "Bad Conscience," another frightening conception in which a black figure slinks past grinning tombstones cut in the shape of men.

◆

Marie Blanke brings back the sunshine with her delightful group of flower paintings and landscapes from Galena and Ephraim. She shows Galena, the Illinois town where Gen. Grant lived, as a most enchanting town of steep streets, climbing stairs, and myriad trees. Ephraim, Wis., is portrayed, too, as a fascinating spot of quaint houses built near a blue lake. Miss Blanke is to be congratulated on the excellence of her show.

The exhibition will continue into November and is worth seeing.

MINNESOTA BLOCKS PITT'S WAY TO U. S. TITLE

COCHRANE WINS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD

Gehringer Second in A. L. Poll.

Former Winners

PLAYERS who have received recognition as the most valuable in the American league from 1922 to 1934, inclusive, follow:

1922—George Sisler, St. Louis.
1923—Babe Ruth, New York.
1924—Walter Johnson, Washington.
1925—Roger Peckingpaugh, Washington.
1926—George Burns, Cleveland.
1927—Lou Gehrig, New York.
1928—Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia.
1929—Lew Fonseca, Cleveland.
1930—Joe Cronin, Washington.
1931—Lefty Grove, Philadelphia.
1932—Jimmie Foxx, Philadelphia.
1933—Jimmie Foxx, Philadelphia.
1934—Mickey Cochrane, Detroit.

Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, yesterday was named the most valuable player to his team in the American league. An eight-man committee representing the Baseball Writers' Association of America, voted this honor to Cochrane in recognition of his achievement of leading the Tigers from the second division to the championship during his first season as manager. He had earned this award once before—in 1928 when he played with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Cochrane, who is the Tiger catcher, polled 67 out of a possible 80 votes. Charley Gehringer, the Detroit second baseman, received 65. Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, New York Yankee pitcher, polled 60 votes and Schoolboy Rowe, the Tigers' best pitcher, received 59.

Cochrane First on Six Ballots.

Cochrane was named first in six of the eight ballots cast, Gehringer on one and Rowe on another. Thus all eight places, counting ten votes each, went to Detroit players.

Nineteen players, including stars on every club except the Senators, received votes. Jimmie Foxx, home run slugger of the Athletics and winner of the award last year, was tenth with 11 votes.

The baseball writers' committee, which named the players, consisted of John Malaney, Boston Post; Wayne K. Otto, Chicago Herald-Examiner; Stuart Bell, Cleveland Press; Bud Shaver, Detroit Times; James Dawson, New York Times; Ivan Peterman, Philadelphia Bulletin; James Gould, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; and John Keller, Washington Star. H. G. Salsinger, sports editor of the Detroit News, was the nonvoting chairman.

Cochrane a Good Leader.

Cochrane, the only catcher to receive the most valuable player award in the American league, proved to be one of the most dynamic leaders in baseball history as he led the Tigers to the threshold of a world's championship. During the pennant drive he handled the pitchers with superb skill, working in 121 games. He batted .321 and fielded .988, making only eight errors all season. Although painfully spiked in the sixth game of the world series against the Cardinals, he insisted on leaving his hospital bed and playing the final game until all hope of victory had vanished.

The Detroit club, which purchased him from Philadelphia last December for a reported sum of $100,000, found him such a great investment that it awarded him a $10,000 bonus Wednesday.

The result of the voting follows:

Gordon S. Cochrane, Detroit	67
Charles Gehringer, Detroit	65
Vernon Gomez, New York	60
Lynwood Rowe, Detroit	59
Lou Gehrig, New York	54
Henry Greenberg, Detroit	29
Hal Trosky, Cleveland	18
Wesley Ferrell, Boston	16
Marvin Owen, Detroit	13
James E. Foxx, Philadelphia	11
Al Simmons, Chicago	9
William Werber, Boston	8
Roy Johnson, Boston	8
Leon Goslin, Detroit	6
Sam West, St. Louis	5
Mel Harder, Cleveland	4
Frank Higgins, Philadelphia	3
Earl Averill, Cleveland	3
Bill Knickerbocker, Cleveland	2

COACHES TRY TO STOP LETDOWN AT NOTRE DAME

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18.—Elmer Layden, the sleek appearing young fellow who coaches the Notre Dame football team, is busy pawing through medical books to learn what there is to learn about a malady commonly known as sleeping sickness. Elmer suspects, also fears, that the disease has spread among the vast number of athletes enrolled on the 1934 varsity squad. And it's a poor time for anything like that, what with Carnegie Tech's Tartans, who constitute a good old fashioned Notre Dame nemesis, due to show up here Saturday.

The symptoms of what appear to be an inclination toward the sleeping malady appeared after the neat whipping administered to Noble Kizer's Purdue troops last Saturday. The so-called fighting Irish evidently figure that on the strength of last week's victory they could claim the championship of Indiana and are content to rest on their laurels. But Layden has his eye on bigger prey and to this end spent this afternoon advising his youngsters that they had better start moving.

Still Much to Learn.

Besides the inclination of the athletes to take things too easy, Layden is thoroughly awake to the fact that his eleven still has things to learn about the fundamentals of the game. He insists they are still weak on blocking and tackling, so much so that they are a long way from being a great Notre Dame team or even an average team. But he thinks they are going to improve with each appearance. Some of the improvement, he thinks, will result from making a few alterations in what is now regarded as the regular lineup.

Even if the present Notre Dame outfit did rate in the great class and there were no indications of leisure among the athletes, there still would be ample room to fret about what might happen here in the stadium Saturday. Nobody has forgotten what Carnegie did in 1926. The late Knute Rockne, who was coach at the time, showed he held no fear of the Skibos by placing the Notre Dame team in the care of his assistant, Hunk Anderson, and himself going to Chicago to scout the Army in its battle with the Navy. While Rockne was busy elsewhere the fighting Irish went to Pittsburgh and were flattened by a 19 to 0 blow to the chin. Until then Notre Dame has won 8 straight.

Harpster Now the Coach.

By way of making amends for what he regarded as his own personal mistake, Rockne scheduled the Tartans again in 1928, but the scheme didn't work out properly. Notre Dame was not particularly strong that fall and Carnegie was the reverse. The Irish beat a pretty fair country team in the Army by 12 to 6 and came home for its meeting the following Saturday with Carnegie. In rain and mud Notre

PRINCETON CARDS PENN FOR FIRST TIME SINCE 1894

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Varsity football relations with Pennsylvania, fourth oldest of Princeton's football rivalries, will be renewed between the Quakers and Tigers Oct. 17, 1936, after a lapse since 1894.

The announcement was made in a joint statement issued tonight by Dean E. Leroy Mercer of the Pennsylvania department of physical education, and Prof. Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the Princeton council of athletics.

Chabot and Blackhawks Split Over $500, He Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18.—Lorne Chabot, the National Hocky league's first holdout, revealed today that the Chicago Blackhawks offered him $500 less than the salary he asked. Chabot, former goalkeeper for the Montreal Canadiens, said he didn't think he could reach an agreement and return to the Hawks, now practicing at Urbana, Ill.

CHICAGO HAS NO FEAR OF THOSE INDIANA TRICKS

When Coach Bo McMillin sends the Indiana team onto Stagg field tomorrow to give Chicago its first peep at the famous five man back field the Maroons aren't going to be misled by any shunting about of the Hoosier forwards and backs. The local boys have been assured by their coaches that when the McMillin legerdemain is finished and the ball is snapped, all they will face is a conventional single—or double—wingback lineup.

However, to be sure that said conventional lineup will not be enough in itself to bowl the Maroons around the green, Coach Clark Shaughnessy yesterday gave the squad another afternoon of defense. It was the third day of defensive operations this week, which adds up to nearly the amount of time devoted to resistance tactics during the previous month.

Expect Pass Barrage.

One advantage of the five man back field, Maroon coaches concede, is that it is likely to make pass defense harder, as the shuffling of eligible receivers may be confusing. And the coaches expect plenty of passing on the part of the Hoosiers.

Coach Shaughnessy continued to work with reserve material. The Chicago team has been exceptionally fortunate in the matter of injuries this year, but Shaughnessy does not want to be caught flat-footed with one or more regulars out of the play. Ell Patterson, captain and center, who was hurt in the Michigan game, returned to active duty yesterday, and probably will start tomorrow.

Bartlett Needs Fast Footing.

The drizzle which fell during the afternoon was the first rain in 18 days, during which the team took full advantage of the fine weather. The workout was conducted out of doors, but the days of indoor rehersals seem imminent.

Rain tomorrow apparently would not work to the advantage of either team. One reason for the sensational yardage made by Ned Bartlett in the last two Maroon games became apparent yesterday when it was disclosed that he is not a ten-second man. In high school he ran the 100 yards in 9.9 more than a few times, and has been clocked at 9.8.

INDIANA LEAVES TODAY.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Bo McMillin checked over his Indiana university football squad today and pronounced its blocking, among other things, far below standard.

Lacking smoothness and balance the players were drilled on individual blocking. Passing and punting also occupied the Hoosiers' attentions. The workout was concluded with practice on timing plays. Roy Eads, reserve half back, was unable to drill today because of a leg injury, but Ray Fox, injured quarter back, reported for work.

The squad will leave tomorrow afternoon for Chicago after a light drill in the stadium.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE: I'm a University of Chicago alumnus, one of those who after many lean years are now rarin' Maroons. Well, I hope we'll not become as obnoxious as a class as were Michigan, Purdue, Northwestern, and Illinois partisans in their heyday. But I suppose we'll be worse, if our success continues, because it's been so long since we had a chance to chortle.

Seriously, however, visions of a title are pretty far-fetched, although nothing is impossible in football. I don't expect a championship this year, and none of us really should. Chicago has what would be termed a "suicide" schedule even for an eleven with many replacements. Maroons have yet to meet Indiana, Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota, and Illinois, besides Missouri, which is outside the Big Ten. Four of those five are now rated as upper bracket conference elevens.

Replacements are Chicago's danger. It is a relatively small squad compared to its rivals. Injuries to any of the stars would play havoc. That's the reason I wish to sound a note of warning to fellow alumni.

Proud Maroon.

May I take the liberty of disagreeing with those baseball writers who labeled Hank Greenberg the "goat of the recent world series." After all, Hank batted .321 for the series and drove in seven runs—more than any other player on either team. What do you expect of one player?

Jerry.

Detroit in losing its final game to St. Louis, 11 to 0, ran true to form, as Tigers have been shut out in the last game of every world series in which they participated. Record:

1907—Lost to Cubs, 2 to 0, winning one and losing four.
1908—Lost to Cubs, 2 to 0, winning one and losing four.
1909—Lost to Pirates, 8 to 0, winning three and losing four.
1934—Lost to Cardinals, 11 to 0, winning three and losing four.

That Midas with a magic touch,
Goes by this way—
And turns those maple trees to gold.
They glitter in the sunlight
And their leaves lie scattered—
Yellow and gleaming on the grass.
The while with simpler beauty
Wild asters make a blur of purple
Along the country roadsides,
And smoke from smoldering bonfires
Ascends into the quiet air—
And mingles with the autumn haze
That lies on field and hill.

CHARLEY SEAVER TO RECOVER AND PLAY GOLF AGAIN

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The golfing future of Charles Seaver, former American Walker cup team player who suffered infection in his right foot, is safe, physicians said here today.

Dr. Clarence Moore said that by the amputation of a toe the infection definitly had been stopped and Seaver's condition had passed the crisis.

Seaver, former Stanford university player and one time California amateur champion, was injured while working with an oil well rigging crew in the Kern county field near Bakersfield. A drill table being hoisted from a well struck his foot.

INGRAM CHARGES LACK OF LOYALTY AT CALIFORNIA

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—"Disgraceful lack of loyalty and petty, malicious influences," Head Football Coach William A. Ingram declared today, "have made good football teams at the University of California impossible during the last nine years." Ingram's charges were made in an address before a club meeting.

"I have been aware of the existence of these petty, malicious influences during my four years as coach, but have hesitated to reveal them because of my desire to avoid any statement that might be taken as an excuse for my showing," he said.

"It may surprise you to know this is the first year since I took over the job I have had absolute loyalty on the football squad."

GOPHERS REACH PANTHER CAMP THIS MORNING

Seek to Repeat 7-3 Victory of 1933.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—Pittsburgh's football team has defeated Minnesota every day this week. Wherever football fans gather the Panthers have been conceded victory notwithstanding the grudging admission that the verdict will not be returned until Saturday afternoon in Pitt's hilltop stadium.

Southern California cast the deciding vote, unwittingly, when the Trojans lost last Saturday to Pittsburgh, 20 to 6. On the basis of this conquest, and forgetting that Southern California isn't exactly the same team which for three years dominated the nation's gridirons [Washington State, 19; Southern California, 0], Pittsburgh is counting on running over the Gophers.

Aim for National Title.

Dr. Jock Sutherland, veteran coach of Pittsburgh, always reticent, does not concede victory to his team. Nor have his players conceded victory to themselves. But the feeling of confidence and belief that Pitt is certainly on the way to a national championship, held by nearly every one else in this city, must have had some effect on the Panthers.

These vehement partisans even disparage Minnesota's victory over Pitt last fall, a 7 to 3 triumph which undoubtedly eliminated the Panthers from selection as eastern representative in the Tournament of Roses. Overconfidence may have cost Pittsburgh last year's game, for in yardage from scrimmage, first downs, and every other form of measurement except in points, Pitt was superior.

Pitt may have had a better team than the Gophers last fall. But Minnesota won. Pitt may have a superior team this fall. Its record, so far, is perfect. But Pitt still has to prove its superiority.

Think Pitt Held Back.

Pitt's convincing victory over Southern California is prime reason for this unthinking overconfidence on the part of students and citizenry. Moreover, many believe that Pitt was content to hold back after gaining a 20 to 6 lead and that a larger margin might have been achieved.

Obviously this has nothing to do with Saturday's game. Minnesota's undefeated team, a team that is stronger than last year's, will arrive in the morning with the desire to prove that it, not Pittsburgh, will win national recognition. The advance guard from Minneapolis composed of newspaper reporters and headed by Les Etter, the university's publicity director, is just as confident of victory as any of the local rooters.

New Gophers Are Good.

Today Etter, pending the arrival of the team, Bernie Bierman, coach, and Frank McCormick, athletic director, willingly pointed out that Minnesota not only has a veteran team, but that sophomore material has proved superior in at least three positions to the men who last year went through the season undefeated although they could do no better than tie in four games.

Arthur Clarkson, at right half; Vernon Oech [pronounced Eck], left guard, and Edwin Widseth, a 225 pound red head at left tackle, are the sophomores who have displaced 1933 regulars. Dale Rennebohm, a junior, who was understudy to Roy Oen, last year's captain and only graduate on the varsity eleven, completes the list of new men.

Don't Forget Kostka!

Then there's Stan Kostka, a 210 pound full back, who played at Oregon

MEETING THE FOLKS WHO MAKE SPORTS PAGE HEADLINES

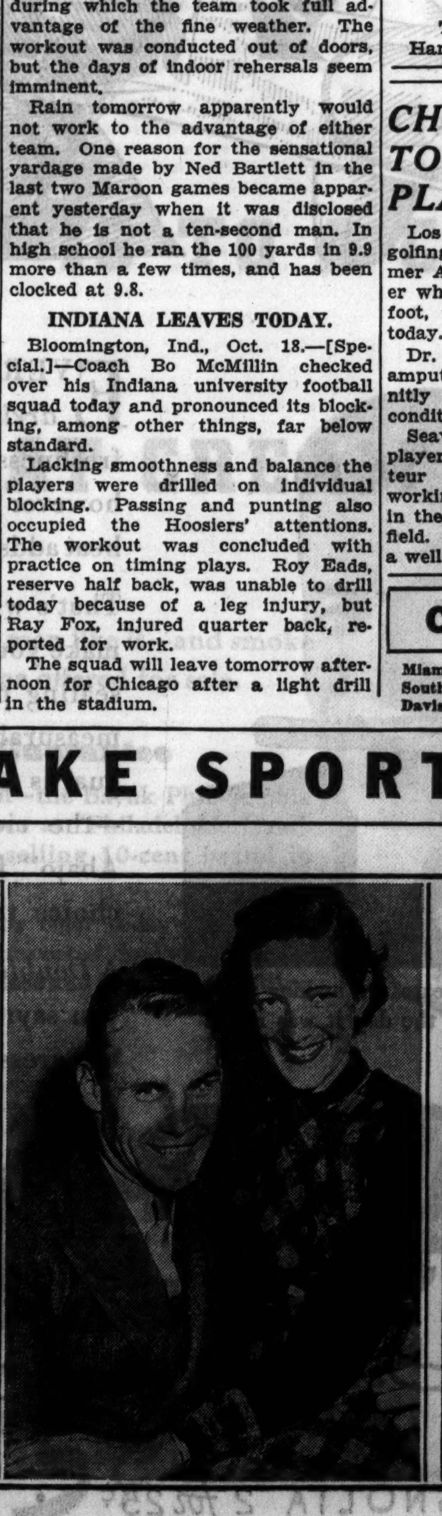
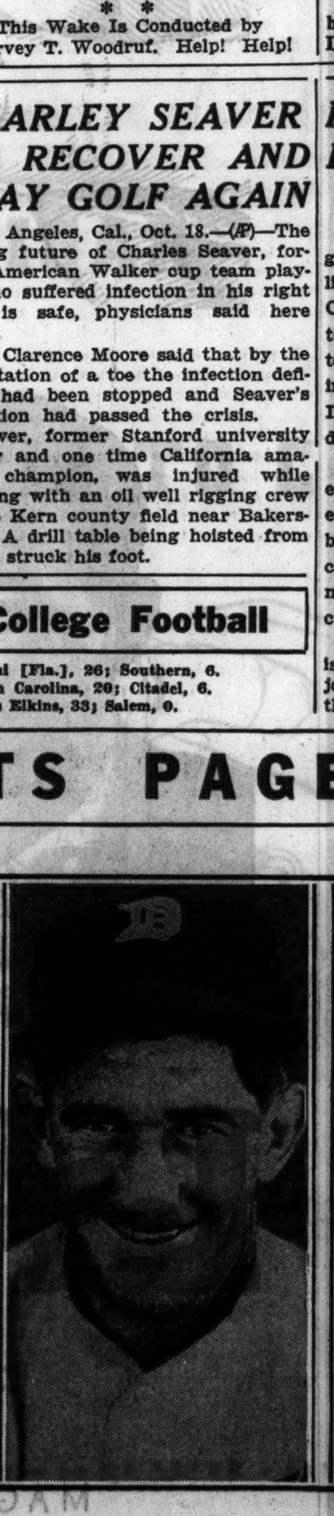
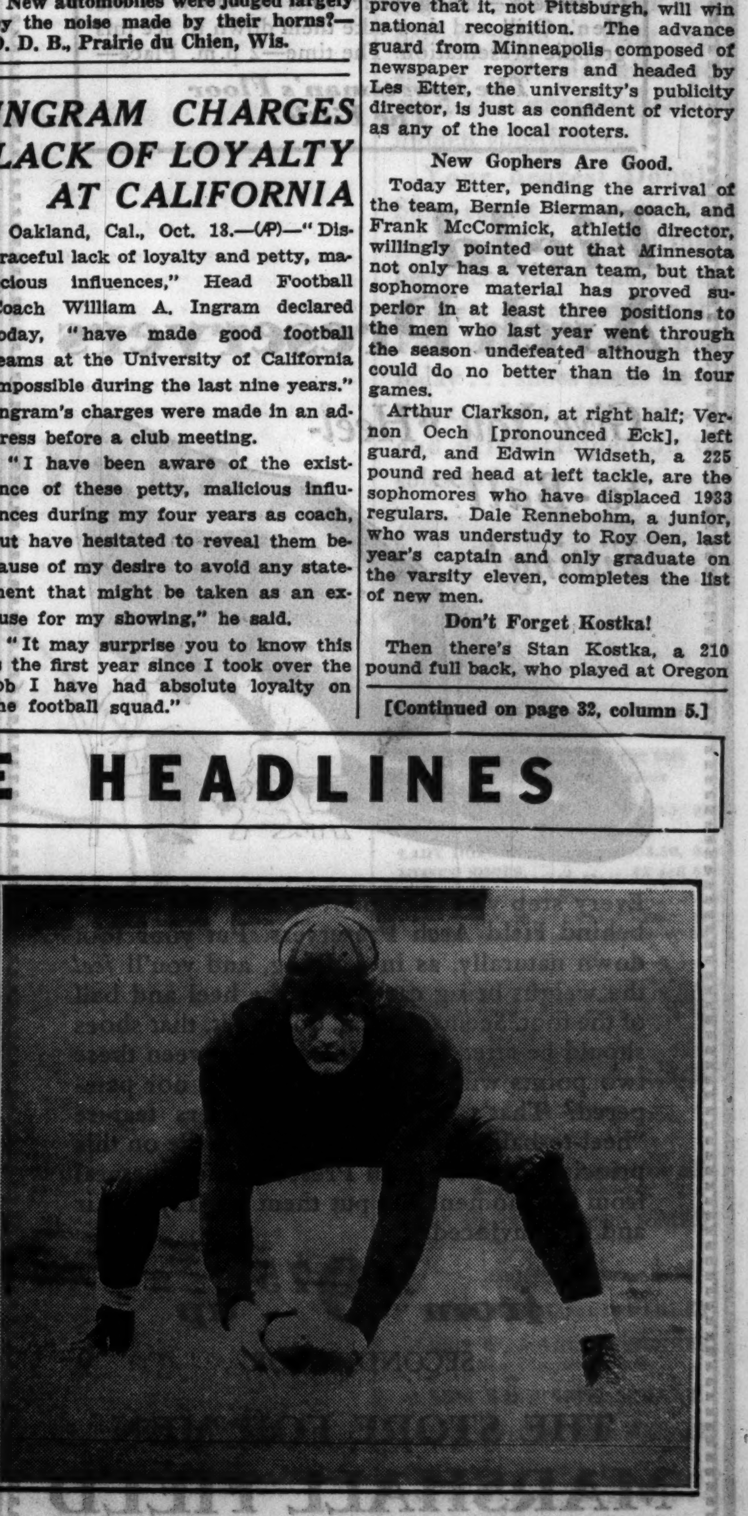
Coach Edwin Kubale (back row, left) and the Centre college football team arrive at Union station yesterday on way to Milwaukee to play Marquette tonight. Among players in the picture are L. Hamilton, R. Sullivan, E. Hendron, W. Moreman, T. Meadows, C. Gains, P. Lowe, E. Eichols, Larry Moore, and English Sullivan. Centre has won two, lost one. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



Bill Karr, Bears' end, and his bride, who was Jeanne Fleming of Ravenswood, W. Va., in their apartment at 420 Surf street. They were married yesterday.



Mickey Cochrane, manager of Detroit Tigers, voted most valuable American league player, with 67 points.



Nick Deanovich, veteran University of Wisconsin center, appears to be all set for the Badgers' opening Big Ten game of the season against Purdue tomorrow at Lafayette. It will be Homecoming for the Boilermakers, usually a lucky day.

N. U. SEARCH FOR GOOD BLOCKERS BRINGS RESULTS

Varsity Men Demoted to Second, Third Teams.

The hard work to which Northwestern's football squad was subjected upon its return from California continued yesterday. In fact the pressure was applied a little stronger as new players were tried out in various key positions. A number of players heretofore regarded as regulars have been demoted to the second and third teams where they are being forced to battle their way back into favor again.

In addition to a long siege of blocking and tackling yesterday's workout consisted of a heavy scrimmage between the first and second teams.

The progress made since the return from the trip west will be put to a test tomorrow afternoon in a regulation game with the freshmen. An admission of 25 cents will be charged, the proceeds of which will be used to send the band to Ann Arbor for the Michigan game.

You Wouldn't Recognize Team.

The Wildcat eleven is vastly different from the one that started the season. Ends are playing guard, half backs are performing at tackle, and vice versa. All this shifting has one objective, and that is to get the best blockers on the squad in spots where they will be the most valuable.

The Wildcats have finally come to the realization that such ball carriers as Cruice and Swisher will get nowhere until they receive adequate support in the form of blocking. Several players have already responded to the new emphasis upon better blocking and tackling. Ed Whalen, veteran guard, who has been slow in rounding into top form this season, finally convinced the coaches yesterday that he is going to be first choice for some position in the line. He may wind up at tackle before the Ohio game.

Schwartz May Get In.

Bob Schwartz, who used to run for touchdowns at Oak Park High school, is being given consideration for the blocking quarter back position. Cruice and Swisher are still firmly established. Eino Hayskar, driving sophomore back, who was making a strong bid for a job, tore a ligament in his leg yesterday and will be incapacitated for two weeks.

Joe Chambers, ponderous tackle, was added to the injured list yesterday when an X-ray revealed that he has a chipped bone in his right shoulder. The injury was received in the Iowa game and at first was diagnosed as a torn muscle. He will be out of action for a week.

Kipke Polishes Rough Spots in Michigan Team

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke sought today to polish a few rough spots in preparation for Michigan's battle with Georgia Tech Saturday. Willard Hildebrand and Mike Savage, from the injured list, were in the line, it being evident that Kipke will use them if his team is to defeat Tech.

Employing Savage and Patanelli at ends, Viergever and Austin at tackles, Hildebrand and Borgmann at guards, Ford at center, and Jennings, Regeczi, Aug, and Sweet in the back field, Kipke sent the regulars through a long scrimmage session.

Regeczi, Oliver, and Sweet were given punting practice and Sweet, generally regarded as the third kicker, turned in the best job of the day. Handling of punts was only fair, with Jennings and Regeczi doing the best job.

BUCKEYES LOSE TWO.

Columbus, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Ohio State's back field was further depleted this afternoon when Dick Heekin, right half back, and Jack Bettridge, second string full back, were forced from practice with a knee and groin injury, respectively.

Heekin, who has played throughout the year, will be hard to replace for Saturday's game with Colgate because of his ability to pass, receive passes, and carry the ball.

Frank Fisch, second string quarter back, was in Heekin's place today. Four regular back field men are out with injuries. Jack Smith and Franklin Boucher have been absent since the Illinois game.

The squad was driven through a long drill on offense today. Antenucci was in most of the time at right half, while Wetzel, Kabealo, and McAfee were taking turns at full back. McAfee's southpaw passing formed the foundation for several new plays.

Punters Take Lessons.

More attention was also paid to the punting, with Merle Wendt coming in for another long session of individual instruction. He gets good distance.

Following the offensive work, the team lined up against a squad of freshmen using Colgate plays and showed decided improvement.

CUMMINGS REPORTS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Bart Cummings, varsity letter man for two seasons, who has been ineligible this fall, reported to the Illinois squad today with the news that he had weathered his academic difficulties and was available.

Cummings, a regular tackle last season, was told by Coach Zuppke to learn the signals for right end. Another prospective end is Francis Cantwell, a sophomore from Depue, who is being looked over as potential reserve material.

Cantwell is a six footer who has been attracting the attention of coaches, although not heralded at the beginning of the season.

Michigan tactics interpreted by the freshmen occupied the attention of the regulars today.

BEARS PREPARE FOR CINCINNATI; CARDS BUSY, TOO

Schissler Expects Hard Game at Green Bay.

Chicago's two professional football teams face contrasting assignments Sunday but the coaches of both are determined to be prepared for any emergency. The Cardinals, who invade Green Bay, expect one of their hardest battles of the year, while the Bears meet Cincinnati, last place club in the National league, at Wrigley field. It will be ladies' day.

The Cardinals have engaged in daily scrimmages all week, except for Monday, which was given over to reflection on the defeat at the hands of the Bears Sunday. Coach Paul Schissler said last night he is confident the offense, which made few gains against the Bear line, will show vast improvement at Green Bay.

Bears Hold Light Drill.

Cincinnati has yet to win a game this year in the league, but the Bears haven't forgotten when they invaded Philadelphia last Nov. 12 as topheavy favorites and considered themselves lucky to get away with a 3 to 3 tie.

Coach Halas ordered the Bears to report for a light drill yesterday afternoon, despite the fact they played a game with the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Wednesday night.

Johnny Sisk was the only Bear to suffer more than the usual bruising. In stopping Hinkle, he suffered a twisted knee and limped from the field with help. However, it is expected he will be ready to play Sunday.

Former Bears to Play.

Two former Bears are included on the visiting roster. C. O. Tackwell, end, put in several seasons with the Chicago team and Ed Aspatore, a Marquette alumnus, was with the Bears during the early part of the season. Aspatore is a first class back and was sent to Cincinnati because there was no room for him on the 22 man roster of the Bears.

Jim Mooney, former Loyola academy and Georgetown university player, also will be with Cincinnati. Mooney probably rates as the best punter in the league. His long distance booting has been an outstanding feature in all of his team's games.

EX-AUBURN STAR UNDER PROBATION ON FRAUD CHARGE

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Willis [Firpo] Phipps, former Auburn football star, was under two years probation today following a hearing in the United States District court on an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud. Jointly indicted with Phipps was Noland Stone, also of Mobile.

The charges grew out of a bureau founded by the two to furnish college students with employment at the World's Fair in Chicago.

Hundreds Turned Away at Party for Joe Medwick

Carteret, N. J., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Joe Medwick, left fielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, enjoyed a homecoming party tonight when 500 persons crowded the auditorium of the Carteret High school to attend a dinner given in his honor. The gathering amounted to only half the number that sought admission to the school and several hundred were turned away for lack of room.

McMILLEN AND COLEMAN CLASH AT LOYOLA GYM

Krone and Grapplers Go Collegiate Tonight.

Heavyweight wrestlers invade the precincts of higher education tonight when Promoter Doc Krone presents a show at Loyola university gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue, with Jim McMillen meeting Abie Coleman in the one and one-half hour time limit feature match.

McMillen will enter the ring at 218 pounds, while Coleman will be six pounds lighter. McMillen also has a height advantage over Coleman, who is only 5 feet 2 inches tall.

Hewitt vs. Grubmier.

In the semi-windup Krone was forced to make a last minute change when Dr. Karl Sarpolis wired that he would be unable to appear. In his place Whitey Hewitt, Pennsylvania railroad fireman who stands 6 feet 2 inches, will take on George Grubmier of Harlan, Ia., in a 30 minute bout.

Karl Davis of Columbus, O., will meet Orville Brown, Kansas cowboy, in another 30 minute match. Davis weighs 212 pounds and his opponent 210.

Numa Seeks No. 38.

Jack Smith of Chicago will face George Tragos. The 20 minute opener will find Hans Bauer, 204 pound German, trying to keep Leo Numa, Pacific coast lion tamer, from scoring his 38th consecutive victory.

Pahl Defeats Chinski in Covenant Club Bout

Al Pahl, Minneapolis, Minn., junior welterweight, last night defeated Eddie Chinski, Kankakee, Ill., in the five round main bout at the Covenant club. Harry Booker beat Willie Ross; Augie Mandel knocked out Joey Bozak, and Sammy Scoglio stopped Pat Kennedy in preliminary battles.

GAMES TODAY.

Libertyville at Arlington Heights.
Barrington at Bensenville.

Lane Tech will observe Dad's day tomorrow afternoon when it meets Roosevelt at the new Lane field. Dale Frodin, center, and Al Miller, half back, will be unable to play because of injuries suffered in Lane's intersectional game at New Rochelle, N. Y., last Saturday.

The schedule in the Suburban league will be featured by the annual battle between Oak Park and Evanston tomorrow at Evanston. Proviso of Maywood will oppose Deerfield in the other league contest at Highland Park.

Ray Geimer, regular Loyola academy tackle, has been lost to the squad for the rest of the season because of a wrenched knee. Loyola takes on DePaul Sunday afternoon in their 12th annual game at Loyola stadium.

An intramural tennis tournament is being conducted at Lane Tech under the direction of Carl Barnickol. When the meet is concluded Barnickol will hold a basketball tournament and a swimming meet.

Pete Gurskis, Tilden Tech right guard, will return to the lineup tomorrow afternoon when the squad meets Englewood at Normal Park. Gurskis was on the sick list for two weeks, suffering from blood poisoning.

Two games will be played in the Northwest conference today. Libertyville faces Arlington Heights and Barrington will travel to Bensenville. Leyden will play Warren on the latter's field tomorrow afternoon.

South Carolina Football Team Beats Citadel, 20-6

Orangeburg, S. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—South Carolina's football team today defeated Citadel, 20 to 6. The game featured the annual fair week here.

COACHES TRY TO STOP LETDOWN AT NOTRE DAME

Carnegie Game Nears, but Irish Ease Up.

Dame skidded into a 27 to 7 defeat, the first a visiting team had registered on the local gridiron in 23 years. Among the players in the Carnegie lineup that unhappy afternoon was Quarter Back Howard Harpster. He now is the Carnegie coach.

Carnegie last fall again exercised its privileges of being the No. 1 Notre Dame tormentor. It whipped the locals by 7 to 0. That proved the starter of Notre Dame's 1933 collapse. The Irish lost four of their next five games, much of this misery now being attributed to the early panic caused by the Tartans. Notre Dame didn't get back on its football feet until the final quarter of the final game of the season. Then the Irish rose up and staged a grand climax that sent the Army cadets to defeat by 13 to 12.

Bulletins Confuse Irish.

Another thing that is causing consternation over Carnegie is the daily arrival of bulletins from the Tartans' camp. With every bulletin there is a change in the prospective Saturday lineup of the latter. The latest is that Coach Harpster has altered three of the four back field positions, not to mention a couple of line jobs. This is very confusing for Layden who suspects the changes might indicate that Harpster is just beginning to learn that he has strength overlooked when the Tartans were spanked by Michigan State last Saturday.

LOYOLA FACES NOTRE DAME.

Give You "Heel-to-Ball" Fitting!

Every step you take proves one of the facts behind Field Arch Preservers. Put your foot down naturally, as in walking, and you'll feel the weight being carried by the heel and ball of the foot. Seems natural, doesn't it, that shoes should be fitted so that the arch between these two points will neither be cramped nor pampered? That's why Arch Preservers feature "heel-to-ball" fitting! The shoe is made on this principle, so that Arch Preservers feel natural from the moment you put them on. Try a pair and be convinced!

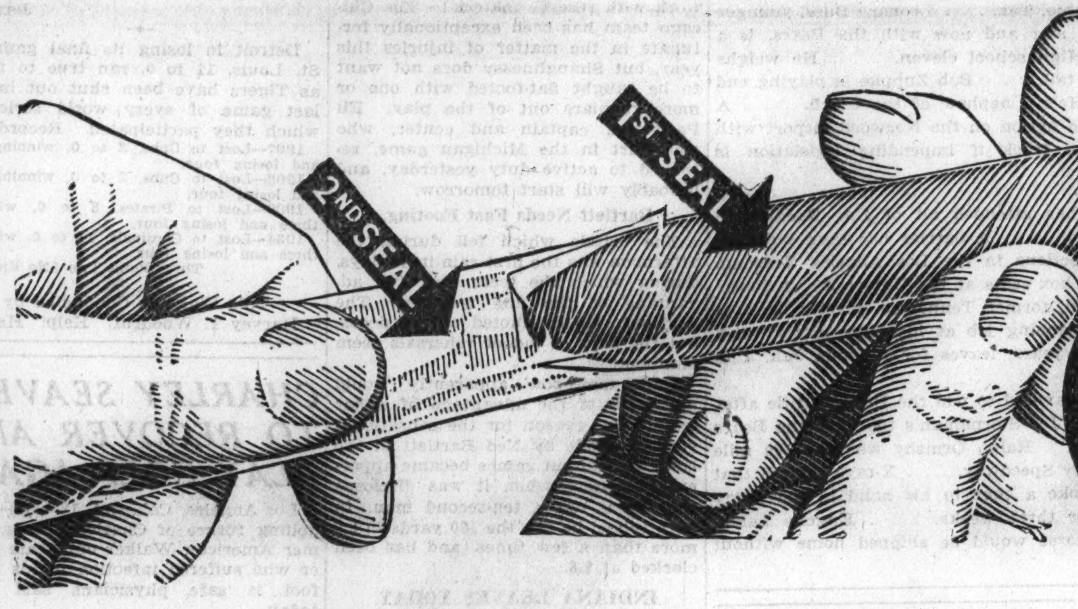
DRYNESS RUINS CIGARS



Now DOUBLE-SEALED to make you DOUBLE-SURE it's FRESH

EVERY DAY, from the minute it is made, drying-action is at work on a cigar, spoiling freshness, flavor and aroma. And, in chilly weather, however modern the dealer's protection, artificial heat adds an extra-drying influence that ruins cigars.

That's why we now DOUBLE-SEAL La Palina—to make you DOUBLE-SURE it's FRESH. The double-sealing protects and preserves this freshness immeasurably longer than ordinary wrapping. It guards the flavor of La Palina's famous blend—the richest Havana money can buy ("Vuelta Abajo" from Pinar del Rio in Cuba) with other choice tropical island-grown leaves.

VITALIS and the 60-Second Workout

Keep your HAIR at its best!

Healthy, Well-Groomed Hair Always Commands Attention

THE 60-SECOND WORKOUT

50 SECONDS TO MASSAGE.. Rub Vitalis briskly into your scalp. It wakes up—hair has a chance.

10 SECONDS TO BRUSH.. Comb your hair. It looks rich, lustrous. No "patent-leather" look.

HANDSOME HAIR is always the target of admiring eyes. Socially and in business it's a valuable plus to every man. Yet too many men are careless about their hair—never seem to sense the fact that it needs and deserves special attention.

Tight scalp is often the trouble—tight, dry scalp that shuts off nourishing oils and leaves the hair lifeless and dull. It needs Vitalis—Vitalis and the invigorating and stimulating effect of the famous 60-Second Workout.

Vitalis and the 60-Second Workout quickens circulation in the scalp—restores the flow of nourishing oils—leaves your hair alive and lustrous and easy to comb. Loose dandruff goes and the threat of falling hair. And yet there's no trace of that "patent-leather" look.

Give your hair a chance. Start your first 60-Second Workout today and keep it up regularly. Get a bottle from your druggist.

CHARTS, GRAPHS AT PURDUE SHOW A SURE VICTORY

Wisconsin Can't Win—if You Use Right Figures.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—The boys in the smoke shops and the beer stubes are offering even money on Saturday's football contest between Purdue and Wisconsin, with the hot sports of town and campus making the gambling market rather active considering that very little cash has been sent here from Madison. Several satchels of Badger currency are expected to arrive at this Wabash river port tomorrow, but there are no advance bulletins on Madison wagering quotations.

Purdue being one of the nation's leading technical universities, much of the campus reasoning here is done by graphs and formulas, or, as you might say in sport jargon, the boys follow their past performances chart with great avidity.

They Pick Their Figures.

They are not always consistent in the selection of their statistical data, the present instance furnishing a case in point. The charts on the Rice and Notre Dame stingings somehow have been misplaced, but there is much poring over the scores of past homecoming games, the affair with Wisconsin being the 1934 Boilermaker homecoming, thus making past reunion statistics very significant to the scientific Purdue partisans who have a trace of superstition in their makeups.

Ross Ade stadium, football home of the Boilermakers, was dedicated in the fall of 1924 and disciples of the Old Gold and Black point to the fact that in that span the 13 to 9 licking dealt out by Northwestern in 1925 is the only instance in which Purdue grads came to the stadium for relaxation and boyish heel kicking at homecoming and were forced to go back to their respective habitats talking to themselves.

Here Are Past Performances.

All Purdue homecomers have available the following record to convince them that precedent demands they have a good time here Saturday:

1933—Purdue, 17; Carnegie Tech, 7.
1932—Purdue, 7; Wisconsin, 6.
1931—Purdue, 22; Iowa, 0.
1930—Purdue, 7; Wisconsin, 6.
1929—Purdue, 7; Iowa, 0.
1928—Purdue, 19; Wisconsin, 19.
1927—Purdue, 18; Northwestern, 6.
1926—Purdue, 0; Wisconsin, 0.
1925—Northwestern, 13; Purdue, 9.
1924—Purdue, 26; Indiana, 7.

Coach Noble Kizer, a practical man, is among those not placing much stock in the power of homecoming precedent. In this evening's practice, as well as the one yesterday, Mr. Kizer emphasized blocking above all other phases of the game, blocking designed especially to function with the goal line imminent. The Boilermakers' football teacher has been irked by the fact that in two games played thus far have netted 300 yards from running plays from scrimmage, but only one touchdown. Mr. Kizer likes to see his boys run in the middle of the field, or in their own defensive zone, but after all it seems a little silly if they run every place but over the enemy goal line.

Ted Fehring Injured.

Perhaps because there was evidence in the Purdue-Notre Dame game that some of the green Purdue tacklers thought opposition ball carriers were down if they were tagged real sharply, Coach Kizer has refused to go easy on the scrimmage technique in preparing for the Badger conflict. Unfortunately this zeal has brought added woe to the squad, already severely beset with injuries.

The latest victim of these spirited scrimmages is Ted F. Fehring, veteran right tackle, who has been laid low with a twisted knee.

This casualty forced Kizer again to shift his linesmen. In order to fill the breach Capt. Carl Heldt, normally the left tackle, has been shifted to right tackle, and Forrest Burmeister, a sophomore who has been understudying Heldt, has been moved up to left tackle in the regular line.

Experienced Men at Ends.

The Boilermakers, however, are expected to start with experienced wingmen at both ends for the first time this season. Frank Haas, lanky pass catcher, appears to have fully recovered from an early season shoulder injury, and is slated for the left wing assignment, while Frank [Butch] Loebs, a junior, will continue at right end.

Carl Dahlbeck is expected to handle the left guard situation while Wayne Sandefur appears a fixture at right guard. The center post is a tossup, Ed Skoronski, with a crick in his back, insists that he will be in there but the coaches have other ideas about his physical condition, and George Bell, a chunky sophomore who played the greater part of the last half against Notre Dame, will likely get the starting summons.

Carter to Steady Youngsters.

Jim Carter is expected to be the steadying influence in a youngster ball carrying quartet that will have John Drake and Wayne Gift, both sophomores, at full back and quarter back, respectively, and Leon Dailey, a good punter, at right half back. To back up this group, Kizer is grooming a set of speedsters that includes Vernon Craig and Charles Wright, half backs; Lowell Decker, full back, and either Don Toriello or Fred Stalcul, quarter backs.

BADGERS LEAVE TODAY.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Badgers ended practice this afternoon for the Purdue game at Lafayette Saturday with a signal drill. The team will leave Madison tomorrow at 5 p. m. and spend the night in Chicago.

George Dehnert, who came up from a reserve full back position to first string quarter back this week, ran the team this afternoon and probably will start with Half Backs Tommy Fontaine and Karl Schuelke, and Full Back Eddie Jankowski.

Bernstein and Vlk to Meet at Cicero Tonight

Eddie Vlk, who deserted Seattle, Wash., to make his home in Cicero, his birthplace, will be in quest of his third victory in as many Chicago appearances in an eight round bout against Toots Bernstein, rugged Milwaukee, Wis., welterweight, at Cicero stadium, 20th street and 52d avenue, tonight. Bus Breese, Manhattan, Kas., 135 pound boxer, will test Scotty Scotten of Indianapolis, Ind., in the latter's local debut in another match at eight rounds. The other contest at this distance will involve Battling Mike Gizzy and Tommy Corbett, who has been substituted for Nick Michaelson. Hugh Allen and Bill Reardon, Chicago lightweights, will meet in one of two four round affrays.

Promoter Maurice Rivkin yesterday completed his card scheduled at Marigold Gardens Monday. Mickey Beal, promising north side bantamweight, and Sammy Mosco, of Omaha, Neb., collide for eight rounds in the topline bout. The six round semi-final matches Sherald Kennard with Nestor Bruggman at 147 pounds. Other bouts:

Joe Roman vs. Jimmy Richards, 130.
Jack Lazar vs. Louis Nasef, 138.
Sammy Scoglio vs. Willie Dudlak, 124.

Jack Gibbons, St. Paul 160 pound sharp shooter, and Mickey Misko of Saginaw, Mich., were signed yesterday to clash in a six round supporting match at Midway arena Monday. Mickey's brother, Frank Misko, and Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., are booked to fight the eight round main event. George Van Der Hayden, South Bend will oppose Johnny Fitzpatrick, Woodlawn junior lightweight, for five rounds. Jack Mooney has been paired with Les Schultz in a middleweight engagement at four rounds.

Hayden [Young] Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., arrived yesterday to open workouts for a 10 round scrap against Frank Battaglia on the Frank Sagilio-Davey Day card at Chicago Stadium Nov. 2. Stuhley, who defeated Vince Dundee when the latter was champion to score his most notable accomplishment, was forced to refuse an offer to box Tait Littman at Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 29, to accept the tussle with Battaglia.

Woods and Waters

By Bob Becker

Chicago duck hunters who have no club affiliations in the Illinois river duck country and are puzzled about where to go to lease a blind and decoys, may consult a fairly complete list of places to hunt by calling at THE TRIBUNE public service office, 1 South Dearborn street. The list has been compiled by this department. It is the fifth annual compilation of this kind, and lists possible waterfowl hunting spots from as far north in the Illinois river valley as Hennepin and Bureau down to Beardstown, Ill., in the lower Illinois valley.

Inasmuch as thousands of Illinois duck hunters do not own marshes or belong to clubs a business known as "day shooting" has developed in the Illinois river valley. With Chicago, a large metropolitan area, so close to the waterfowl country, it is natural that the demand for a place to hunt ducks for a day or two has been large.

To meet this demand there followed commercialization of waterfowl hunting. It is not only existent here in the Illinois duck and goose country, but all over the United States. Along the east coast there are scores of owners and lessees of marshes catering to the day hunters. Down south along the Louisiana coast, where we have hunted on several occasions, we found the same situation. The quail country of the south also has places where one can rent dogs and a guide for a certain fee.

Here in Illinois the day hunting business reached its peak before the depression got under way. The cost of renting a blind with decoys plus board and lodging soared. Now costs have been leveled off considerably, although there are places along the river which still are asking as much as $15 per day per man for shooting privileges. However, as the list just compiled indicates, it is possible to get into a pretty good marsh, occupy a good blind with decoys for about $7.50 per day per man, exclusive of board and lodging. However, a majority of the hunting places catering to free lance shooters charge about $12 per day.

We want to warn all hunters considering a trip to a day shooting place along the Illinois to get a spot lined up before they go down the river. It is not going to be easy to obtain a good blind on a Saturday or Sunday unless one makes a reservation ahead. In former years one might just hop into a car in the middle of the week, start for the duck shooting country, and find a blind. This year all hunting is confined to Saturdays and Sundays, which will make the duck marshes congested.

Levine, Hawks' New Goalie, Has Tough Half Hour

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Porky Levine arrived at the Blackhawk camp today, and in a makeshift outfit, without benefit of his own pads or skates and about 10 pounds overweight, Levine took his position in front of the goal. In half an hour he obtained an idea of what to expect from sharpshooters of the National Hocky league if he makes the grade and beats Joe Starke out for the Blackhawks' goal tending job.

Tomorrow the paraphernalia, which Levine used when he was the outstanding goalie of the American association, will be on hand and for the first time this season Manager Clem Loughlin will be in a position to pick two full teams to oppose each other.

The Hawks still are without the services of Doc Romnes, Taffy Abel, and Paul Thompson, all of whom are listed as holdouts.

ENTRIES CLOSE TOMORROW FOR C. Y. O. BOXING

Entries in the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament will close tomorrow night, Packey McFarland, tournament director, announced yesterday.

Entries received in Monday morning's mail will be accepted, although the C. Y. O. boxing committee urges all entrants to bring in their applications personally tomorrow. The C. Y. O. center will be open until 10 o'clock tomorrow night to register contestants.

Yesterday afternoon the entry list numbered 1,650. Officials predict a total of approximately 2,000 boys by next Monday night, when the west section preliminaries get under way at the West Side Community center. Last year 1,904 boys registered.

The west section was still leading the other two sections yesterday, although the south section, with 575 entries, was close behind.

St. Viator and Valparaiso to Meet Tonight

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—With Gov. Henry Horner as the principal guest, St. Viator college football team, beaten in its only start this season by Carbondale Teachers, will meet Valparaiso university here tomorrow night in the St. Viator homecoming game.

Illness weakened the Viator squad when it met the Teachers, and although some regulars still are incapacitated, Coach Ray Murphy hopes to send a strong eleven against the Uhlans from Indiana. Murphy, however, believes Valparaiso is three touchdowns better than Viator.

Gov. Horner will arrive here in the morning and will be taken immediately to the Viator campus, where he will receive an honorary degree at the inauguration of the Rev. E. V. Cardinal as president of St. Viator late in the afternoon. More than 3,000 are expected to attend the homecoming game.

McKENDREE VS. MACOMB.

Lebanon, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—McKendree is expecting its hardest Little 19 game of the season at Macomb Saturday. Macomb Teachers have won two league games, beating Knox, 10 to 0, and Illinois college, 7 to 0.

Nine veterans will be in the McKendree lineup. Paul Mauck and Jim Sampson, ends may share the posts with Charley Berendt, a new man. The starting tackles will be Wallace Blackburn and Bill Eaton; Ray Musgrove and Howard Larsh will be at the guard berths. Capt. Ken Wilson and Ervin Aufderheide, half backs; Clair Norris, full back, and John Rauth, who has been shifted from guard to quarter back, also will start.

BRADLEY TO USE PASSES.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach A. J. Robertson of Bradley Tech is trying to perfect an aerial attack for the Monmouth game Saturday. Monmouth has one of the strongest lines in the history of the school.

The same back field which ran over Ripon, 32 to 0, last Saturday, will be used by Robertson for the Bradley homecoming contest.

Two Bradley regulars, Florus Black, former Bowen [Chicago] star, and Berny Huddleston, are on the sidelines with injuries.

Freddie Miller Wins from Jimmy Walsh

LIVERPOOL, England, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Freddie Miller, recognized by the National Boxing association as featherweight champion, tonight defeated Jimmy Walsh, Chester, in a 12 round bout which saw Miller the master throughout. The weight was 130 pounds, eight over the class limit, so Miller's title was not at stake.

Iowa Eleven to Leave Today for Iowa State

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem today became more lenient with the approach of the Iowa State game, letting the University of Iowa football squad off with dummy scrimmage and lessons in forward pass defense. It was the first day this week the Hawkeyes have escaped a hard scrimmage.

Only two regulars on the injured list of six definitly are out of the Iowa State game, although the other cripples may be withheld until needed. Herman Schneidman, half back, and Capt. Russ Fisher, quarter back, are veterans who will remain on the side lines. Fred Radloff, tackle, and Bill Secl, guard, took their first workouts with the team this week, indicating that they will be ready for Saturday's contest.

Kelley, McDowell May Start.

Coach Solem may make several replacements in the forward wall in an attempt to improve the defense. Jim Kelley, tackle, and Floyd McDowell, guard, may be given their first chance to start.

The squad will leave here by bus at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, after taking a final workout. The players will spend Friday night at Boone, Ia., 18 miles from the state college. Those making the trip are:

Ends—Don Simmons, John England, Gordon Matson, Corney Walker, John Truner, Frank Jakoubec, Bernie Page, and John Lindenmeyer.

Guards — Floyd McDowell, Marvin Kuhn Clarence Dee, Dan Emich, Jack Gallagher, Bill Secl, Don Nelson, Gail Lundberg, and Frank O'Leary.

Tackles—Rudolph Leytze, Leo Cain, Jerry Foster, Ray Momsen, Jim Kelley, Marvin McAllister, Lloyd Hoffman, Fred Radloff.

Centers—Merrill Robb, Jack Shea, Harold Weber, Ted Osmaloski, and Marion Harris.

Backs—Donald Johnson, George Teyro, Dick Crayne, Joe Richards, Lawrence Haltom, Paul Akins, Bon Moore, Bill Ash, John Hild, Sheldon Gordinier, John Terhune, Dwight Hoover and Oze Simmons.

IOWA STATE IS READY.

Ames, Ia., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Iowa State football squad watched the freshmen run Iowa plays today, then closed its practice for the Iowa game here Saturday with a light workout. Tomorrow the Cyclones will go into hiding until shortly before game time. With every man in perfect condition, Coach George Veenker will start the same lineup that trounced Missouri, 13 to 0, last week.

IT'S THE PELICAN BY FOUR LENGTHS AS RECORD FALLS

Stake Sprinter Has Easy Time at Sportsman's.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Pelican, at one time in his racing career rated among the fleetest sprinters in the country—he raced for Joseph E. Widener then—galloped the fastest five furlongs ever run at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon and won the Union Park handicap by a wide margin of four lengths.

Carrying the feather impost of 105 pounds the big son of Haste-Catalpa—those are real blue blood lines—ran his seven rivals dizzy and never at any time from start to finish did he leave the result in doubt.

In his spectacular dash he smothered such noted speed horses as Carisbrooke, Supreme Sweet, Diaquri, Scout Chief, and Levaal.

Turns Don't Bother Him.

While he had shown a tendency to run out on the sharp hairpin turns of the Sportsman's Park track in his first start here The Pelican did not take a false step in this race. He skimmed the rail so closely that at no stage of the journey did he appear to be more than four or five inches away from tumbling over into the infield.

Jocky R. Haber was in the saddle and all he had to do was let The Pelican run. He dashed over the five furlongs in 1:00 3-5. This was a fifth of a second faster than the track record, held by Sun Dora. Jocky Dupre challenged desperately on Carisbrooke on the last turn and in the stretch but The Pelican moved on away every time Carisbrooke showed a lick of speed.

The players fancied Supreme Sweet and made her the favorite. Her speed never brought her near The Pelican, which paid off in the mutuels at $10.96 to win, $5.30 to place, and $2.84 to show. Carisbrooke was at $5.54 to place and $3.74 to show. Supreme Sweet's show price was $2.66.

A spill—the third in four days—came in the running of the five furlong fourth race.

The battle brought an unexpected victory by Dundreary, a 2 year old son of Dunlin-Simmy, which paid $113.26 for a $2 ticket. He beat the favorite, Brilliant Dee, by a neck. Hot Flash, another long shot, finished third.

Jocky Martin Injured.

Rounding the last turn Dogentine, a first time starter from the barn of Mrs. W. J. Davis of Chicago, moved up toward the leaders. Just as he started his rally Red's Sister bolted to the outside fence and carried Dogentine with her.

In the mixup which followed Dogentine went down and Jocky R. Martin was spilled into the dirt. Going down he scraped the fence and was badly cut about the forehead. He was taken to the Berwyn hospital for examination. Reports were that he had suffered a concussion. Martin formerly was under contract to the big Audley farm stable of Virginia but lately has been riding as a free lance.

One of the big betting cleanups of the meeting was made on Sweet Chariot when the 4 year old son of Black Servant-Songbird was so much the best that he raced wide on every turn, then was able to beat Tennywood and Indianole by a length.

Backers Get $6.58.

His backing developed so suddenly that he dropped from 8 to 1 to 11 to 5 during the spectacular plunge. He finally paid off at $6.58. It was his first start since last June when he was racing at Washington Park. His racing effort indicated he had been brought up to a winning gallop by a very careful prep.

HAMAS' MANAGER HOWLS, BUT HE'LL BOX LASKY AGAIN

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Charlie Harvey, manager of Steve Hamas, now says he's ready to sign for Hamas to fight Art Lasky again. "But it's an outrage," shouted Charlie today. "Every one is against us. We are being forced into a rematch with Lasky. The boxing commission is going in for matchmaking. The game has gone to the dogs."

Harvey was trussed up in bed. He had just lost a decision to a bathtub. Total damage—two cracked ribs, a general shaking up, and no bath.

Hamas was put on the spot when the state athletic commission indicated that it wouldn't sanction a bout between Hamas and Max Baer until Steve had proved his superiority over the other contenders.

Packey Rodak, Brother of Leo, Loses to Bill Weis

A capacity crowd saw Packey Rodak, brother of Leo, featherweight contender, lose a three round decision to Bill Weis in the main bout of the amateur boxing show sponsored by Henry G. Hart at C. Y. O. center last night. Other results:

Bill Fitzgerald beat George Sluka [3].
Ed Milscki and Jack Lampkins drew [3].
Pete Misiag and Pat Berns drew [3].
Tony Catalino beat Jerry Lucas [3].
Bill Bittner beat Joe Bittner [3].
Joe Costello and Al Wistort drew [3].

Peters Rides 3 Winners at Narragansett

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Maurice [Moose] Peters, the season's leading jocky, took practically all there was to win at Narragansett Park today. He won the day's two big races and also captured another event for a riding triple.

After winning the opening event on P. M. Pike's Brown Wisdom Peters came back on A. A. Baroni's Morning Mail in the fourth. He topped off his day's performance by winning the featured fifth race on Jesting.

The four year old filly, another Pike entrant, raced to her fourth straight triumph in the six furlong sprint, leading Mrs. T. J. Debord's Golden Fate by nearly two lengths. The favorite, Arden farms' Quel Jeu, was third. Jesting led from the start and paid $6.90 for $2 in the mutuels.

Laurel's track record for six furlongs was lowered for the second time in as many days as Ral Parr's Star Porter dashed the sprint distance in 1:10 4-5. Evergold set the mark at 1:11 yesterday. Star Porter got up in the last stride to beat Kawagoe by a nose.

Jocky Earl Porter and Trainer Hirsch Jacobs divided honors at Empire City, with most results coming from the performance of Henry Lingelbach's Balios in the Woodlawn purse, the featured six furlong dash.

Porter, after scoring in the first and the third event, completed his triple by booting home Balios at 4 to 1. Jacobs saddled Balios for his 115th winner of the year, leaving him one short of his 1933 total.

Turk Oaas, 1912 Guard, Is Notre Dame Club Guest

Turk Oaas, guard on the Notre Dame football team in 1912, will be the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Notre Dame club of Chicago in the Ivory room at Mandel Brothers this afternoon. Oaas is general superintendent of the Anaconda Copper company in Butte, Mont.

PITT FANS THINK MINNESOTA GAME IS ALREADY WON

But 1933 Records Give Gophers Hope.

in 1932 and who will share the duties of line smasher with Sheldon Beise Saturday. Kostka already has scored six touchdowns this year, two of them in Minnesota's 19 to 0 triumph over Nebraska. And that victory, again quoting the confident Mr. Etter, might have been by a larger score. Kostka ran 46 yards for one score against Nebraska and credit is generously given to his team mates who blocked out a clear path to the goal.

Pitt certainly has heard of Kostka for its scouts have been in Minneapolis as many times as Gopher observers, including Coach Bierman, have been in Pittsburgh this fall.

Lund Heavy Duty Back.

But if Pitt's scouts have slighted Kostka, they haven't failed to notice Capt. Francis [Pug] Lund. Last year Lund, by his consistent punting, stood the Panthers at bay and protected Minnesota's touchdown. Lund, heavy duty member of the back field, played 460 minutes of the 480 minute schedule; gained 682 yards as compared to 639 yards gained by all opposing backs.

Minnesota is not at all superstitious. The squad, which arrives at 9:30 tomorrow morning, will go to Shady Side academy, a boys' preparatory school, some 15 miles from Pitt's stadium. Contrary to custom, the Gophers will not come into town tomorrow for a rehersal on the playing field.

No visiting team which has been quartered at Shady Side ever has beaten Pitt. Army, Stanford, Navy, and Southern California have fallen under this jinx, if such it be. The Trojans last week attempted to evade the issue by packing its equipment on Friday evening and moving to Webster hall, a Pitt dormitory, on the excuse that the academy beds were not conducive to rest. Coach Bierman, hearing that Howard Jones had moved his Trojans, visited Shady Side and gave approval to the school as headquarters for Minnesota.

Expect 50,000 at Game.

A crowd of at least 50,000 will see Saturday's game. With favorable weather, attendance may be larger. The stadium, without the extra bleacher seats, can accommodate 65,000. Unfortunately for the coffers of both rivals, top price for the intersectional game is only $2.75 as compared to $3.85 for last week's game with Southern California. However, there'll be a profit.

Profit or no profit, Minnesota will settle its share of the receipts on Pittsburgh for a victory.

36 GOPHERS MAKE TRIP.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A squad of 36 Minnesota players set off from Minneapolis today for Pittsburgh, where on Saturday the Gophers will defend the prestige of the middle west aganist the Pitt Panthers, one of the best football teams in the east. Three coaches, Bernie Bierman, Dr. George Hauser, and Bert Baston accompanied the team, along with Athletic Director Frank McCormick and the usual trainers and managers.

The Gophers were given the most tumultuous send off in local sports history. At the stadium the team was presented with 40 rabbits' feet.

Bierman said only: "I pick Pittsburgh to win Saturday's game, but I am convinced that our boys will make a great ball game of it."

Time, :23 2-5, :48 4-5, 1:02 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sweet Chariot, $6.58 straight, $4.28 place, $4.02 show; Tennywood, $8.82 place, $7.24 show; Indianole, $6.08 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:34½. At post 2 minutes.

SWEET CHARIOT, much the best, overcame sharp interference at the first turn, recovered quickly, gained rapidly thereafter, drew out to win with speed to spare. TENNYWOOD, a strong factor throughout, raced SLEIVE'S PRIDE into defeat, then held on gamely in the drive. INDIANOLE raced evenly in a good performance.

THIRD RACE—Five furlongs, out of chute. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

McLaughlin. Went to post at 3:32. At post 5½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; second and third same.

DUNDREARY improved his position gradually, responded gamely to strong pressure, wore down the leaders and won in the closing stages. BRILLIANT DEE, in close pursuit until leaving the backstretch, when he was forced to take up sharply to avoid a spill, gained fast after recovering and closed gamely. HOT FLASH closed a gap in a good performance.

FIFTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 2-5, :47 2-5, 1:00 3-5 [new track record]. Two dollar mutuels paid: The Pelican, $10.96 straight, $5.30 place, $2.84 show; Carisbrooke, $5.54 place, $3.74 show; Supreme Sweet, $2.66 show. Winner trained by J. Oros. Went to post at 4:02. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

THE PELICAN, racing improved under different handling, went to the front at the first turn, continued gamely and won with speed to spare. CARISBROOKE gained steadily, offered a mild bid, but was no match for the winner. SUPREME SWEET quit.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Time, :24 1-5, :49 1-5, 1:16 2-5, 1:44 2-5, 1:49. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sweet Man, $5.52 straight, $3.60 place, $4.18 show; Ervast, $4.36 place, $4.14 show; Hamilton, $14.18 show. Winner trained by W. Johnson. Went to post at 4:26½. At post 8 minutes. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

SWEET MAN, cleverly handled, was reserved off the early pace, moved up with a rush when urged, disposed of ERVAST, then drew out to win cantering. Latter, suddenly improved, took command early, continued gamely for three-quarters, but was no match for the winner when challenged. HAMILTON, among the contention throughout, held on with good courage under strong pressure.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Time, :24 1-5, :48 2-5, 1:16 4-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:49. Two dollar mutuels paid: Para Four, $3.26 straight, $2.80 place, $2.50 show; Comstockery, $8.84 place, $4.10 show; Maechute, $3.34 show. Winner trained by D. Womeldorff. Went to post at 5:00. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; place same.

PARA FOUR, much the best, suffered sharp interference after the break, when BETON came over sharply causing several inside horses to take up. Recovering gradually she made up ground, then closed resolutely to wear down COMSTOCKERY. Latter, a keen contender after a half, held on gamely after submitting. MAECHUTE also suffered in the early interference and went well when clear.

U. S. LAUNCHES ISSUE OF SILVER CERTIFICATES

Won't 'Cash In' on Paper Profit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Issuance of silver certificates against the silver acquired through the government's world purchase program was begun on Tuesday, the treasury announced today.

At the same time the treasury tacitly pledged itself not to cash in on the paper profit resulting from its silver currency program for the "indefinite present." Silver profits, like those resulting from gold revaluation, are to be set up for the time being as a "nest egg" for future use, it was explained.

Issues $3,700,000.

About $3,700,000 of silver certificates based on the metal bought under the silver purchase act of 1934 were issued on Tuesday, the treasury disclosed. For the time being silver certificates will be issued only up to the total cost of the silver bought.

A paper profit is accruing to the treasury on the transaction, however, and this item is being listed as "seigniorage." The profit results from the fact that, although silver was bought for prices ranging from 35 to 55 cents an ounce, it has a fictitious monetary value of $1.29. Receipts from this source will be listed separately from the treasury's working cash balance obtained from taxes or borrowings and will be reported daily.

Seigniorage $3,171,296.

Seigniorage on silver today was listed at $3,171,296. At the same time the treasury reported 88 million dollars of silver bullion in its possession against which it has yet to issue paper money.

Inflationary possibilities in the silver program are concentrated in the possibility that the treasury may cash in the paper profit resulting from the discrepancy between cost value and monetary value of silver. Silver is now selling at 55 cents an ounce, but the treasury can write it up to $1.29, making a 74 cent profit on each ounce.

For the time being, treasury aids said today, the government is eschewing this inflationary move. Many observers today saw, however, the strong possibility that the silver dollar will be revalued like the gold dollar and the whole paper profit cashed in by the treasury.

Reports that the treasury was making heavy use of its two billion dollar equalization fund in its silver buying and other deals were answered with the announcement that the fund is 90 per cent intact.

Chinese Currencies Fall.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Chinese currencies continued their swift decline today in response to the action of the Chinese government in placing a prohibitive tax on exports of silver from that country. Shanghai dollars fell 2 cents to 32½ cents and Hongkong dollars were off 1 3-16 cents to 39⅞ cents.

As had been the case on Wednesday, the market for bar silver also felt the effect of China's action. In New York the price was down 1⅛ cents an ounce to 53¼ cents, while in London quotations fell ⅛ pence to 23¾ pence an ounce.

China's efforts to cut herself off from the influence of the United States treasury's operations in the world silver market has opened up new currency complications. Japan, fearing the effects upon her trade of a renewed fall in the value of Chinese money has taken steps to reduce the value of the yen. It is expected that Great Britain will not look with complacence on a further devaluation of the yen.

Indicates Purchase of U. S. Gold.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Minister of Finance H. H. Kung today said it was "highly possible" that China would buy gold from the United States. He made the statement as the government took steps to stabilize the Chinese dollar, fluctuating wildly these last four days.

The wild fluctuations on the Shanghai market followed the outward flow imposition of an import tax of 10 per cent intended to halt the outward flow of silver, on which China's currency is based.

Kung announced plans to set up in the next day or so an "equalization committee" composed of four or five government officials and bankers which would consider measures to keep the Chinese dollar stable.

What the nature of the new committee's functions would be Kung declined to say, but he did assert that the government was not seeking to exploit foreign exchanges or remittances.

Chicago Yellow Cab Votes Usual 25 Cent Dividend

Directors of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., yesterday declared a regular dividend of 25 cents a share, payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 20. It was also announced that net earnings for the third quarter, ended Sept. 30, amounted to $100,191, compared with $232,604 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Bankers Find Home Repair Plan Shunned

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Federal Housing administration's drive to expand bank credit is rapidly proving to be another dud, as far as the metropolitan banks are concerned. Instead of the big volume of loans promised by its sponsors in Washington there has been a weak trickle too small to pay for the effort.

Again the difficulty is the reluctance on the part of potential borrowers. The big banks have made a strenuous effort to make the drive a success for two reasons. First, they have been anxious to demonstrate their desire to coöperate with the administration; and, second, the interest return of 9.72 per cent on such loans was attractive.

The banks have been urging customers to take out the home modernization loans covered by the law creating the Federal Housing administration. They have set up special stafs to solicit and service such loans. But the demand hasn't materialized.

"We have tried hard to push out these modernization loans," the head of one loop bank said yesterday, "but the results have been practically zero. The total amount of loans that we have made to date doesn't even equal the overhead cost of the department set up to make them."

Other loop banks reported similar experience. Although originally not equipped to handle small loans of that type, they have gone to considerable expense to establish special stafs to solicit and service them, but the business hasn't come in.

Bankers view the poor response of the public toward the FHA drive as just another proof of their contention that credit is sluggish, not because bankers won't lend but because borrowers won't borrow. Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation recently confirmed these contentions.

Because the volume of commercial bank loans failed to expand, the New Dealers put through legislation authorizing the making of direct loans to industry by the federal reserve banks and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The volume of such loans has been insignificant. Now comes the FHA with similar experience.

Florida Now Capitalizes on California's Woe.

From Florida come reports that the people of that state are capitalizing on California's woe.

With Democratic Candidate Upton Sinclair basing his gubernatorial campaign in California on promises to end poverty by soaking the property owners, Floridans are proudly pointing to the encouragement they have long offered individuals of means.

For years Florida has drawn people from Wisconsin and other states where taxes—especially inheritance taxes—were especially heavy. Northerners, thus attracted by lenient state laws, have established their official residences in Florida, spending part of each year in that state and adding to its wealth and prosperity.

Florida's big competitor for the lucrative winter resort business has always been California. Now that California threatens to "crack down" on its kulaks the boys from the south are not slow to point out the superior advantages of residence in their state.

U. S. Secrecy Over Bond Dealings Affects Prices.

Secretary Morgenthau's decision to hide the treasury's operations in the government market by ceasing the publication of weekly figures showing the amount of its own bonds bought back by the treasury has added to the uncertainty concerning bond prices.

"Too much attention," was the reason given by Secretary Morgenthau to reporters. "Not worth it," he added.

If the secretary believed that less attention would be paid to the treasury's rigging of the market for its own bonds merely because these operations were censored, he was mistaken. Denied the figures, traders in government bonds now focus their attention on rumors. Whenever there is a movement one way or the other in the government bond market there are rumors about supposed operations of the treasury.

DOLLAR ADVANCES ON GOLD MONEYS; POUND ALSO GAINS

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The dollar was stronger against foreign gold and silver currencies today, although easier against the British pound and allied units.

As the French franc lost 1½ points to close at 6.64¼ cents, the value of the dollar in terms of the franc rose to 58.98 cents from 58.85 cents yesterday. The pound gained ⅝ cent to finish at $4.94, after closing in London at $4.94¾, up 5-16 cent.

Canadian dollars rose 9⅜ points to $1.0206¼. The German mark lost 8 points to close at 40.6 cents; the Italian lira 1 point to 8.64 cents; the Swiss franc 6 points to 32.88 cents, and the Dutch florin 15 points to 68.3 cents.

Gold in London dropped 6 pence to 142 shillings 1 penny a fine ounce, or equivalent to $35.04 based on the opening of sterling at $4.93¼. Bars valued at $2,895,377 changed hands.

Roosevelt, Aids Confer on Way to Fight Hot Oil

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Government officials conferred today with President Roosevelt on means to control "hot oil" shipments from the uncontroled east Texas oil fields, while oil companies sought to end price-cutting on the Atlantic seaboard.

The President talked with Attorney General Cummings, Secretary Ickes and Harold M. Stephens, assistant attorney general, after which this statement was made jointly:

"We were conferring with the President and are at work consolidating our minds for action in connection with the east Texas oil situation."

Try to Reach Accord.

The executives of gasoline and oil companies will confer with officials of the petroleum administrative board the rest of the week in an effort to reach an agreement to end the price war along the seaboard, Ickes said.

John W. Frey, chief of the board's marketing division, will conduct the conversations. H. A. Crouthamel, president of the Independent Gasoline Dealers' Association of Maryland, will confer with him Saturday. Other appointments were not announced. It is understood that Secretary Ickes would only fix prices as a last resort, but that he is prepared to go to this length if necessary.

War Spreads in East.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Gasoline price reductions, which have been taking place daily for a week in parts of New Jersey, today spread to Pennsylvania and Delaware, where the Atlantic Refining company cut the price to 11½ cents a gallon, exclusive of taxes. This represents a cut of one cent a gallon in some areas, including Philadelphia. Preceding the cut by Atlantic Refining, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company had reduced gasoline prices 1 cent a gallon at Philadelphia and 1½ cents a gallon at Pittsburgh.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey also made a further cut of 1 cent a gallon in service station prices of gasoline at Camden, N. J., and northern New Jersey. At Camden, the new price now is 4 cents a gallon, excluding taxes, for the major companies, and 3½ cents for the independent distributors.

LITTLE CHANGE HERE

The gasoline price struggle in Chicago was little changed yesterday. The only action was a half cent reduction in the price of ethyl gasoline by the major companies at the tank wagons to bring the price on a parity with service station charges. The price is now 14.8 cents a gallon at both service station and tank wagon.

Spokesmen for the major companies stated they had "nothing to say" yesterday although there were reports on Wednesday that new reductions might be forthcoming on Friday.

L. M. Foster, president of the Chicago Individual Branded Petroleum association, asserted that his organization had no new statements to make and in the meantime the majority of its members are maintaining prices at a level with those now ruling at the service stations of the major companies.

TREASURY REAPS HARVEST IN BACK TAX COLLECTION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The treasury's campaign against delinquent taxpayers was reported by officials today to be yielding a harvest which will prove more than sufficient to pay for a year's enforcement of the internal revenue laws.

From Jan. 1 to the end of August back tax collections totaled $116,914,734 compared with $87,714,000 in the same period of last year, and $124,800,000 for all of 1933.

The increase of approximately $29,000,000 for the eight months, treasury officials said, would come within a million dollars of paying a year's cost of all income tax collections. By Dec. 30, they said, such receipts would be far above the year's administrative bill.

Court Grants Continuance in Marks Bankruptcy Case

A general continuance in the bankruptcy hearings of J. L. Marks & Co., bankrupt partial payment brokerage house that was captained by Julius L. Marks, who has been indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud, was granted yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Judge Barnes ordered Referee in Bankruptcy Edmund D. Adcock to start hearing creditors' claims against the company.

STOCK CONTROL BOARD TO OPEN BRANCHES IN CHICAGO, OTHER CITIES

The securities and exchange commission, which assumed control of the nation's markets on Monday, plans to open branch offices in Chicago and several other cities. Boston and San Francisco have been mentioned as possible locations for offices.

No definite plans have been made, it was said, but SEC officials wish to decentralize control after the first few months of organization work.

Decentralization would make it easier to send investigators into various parts of the country on field work. Chicago and probably one or two other cities would serve as bases for such operations in the middle west.

At the same time it was learned that the commission probably will ask for an appropriation of $2,000,000 in the next budget to provide for expenses which are estimated to run far more than was assumed earlier.

The vast amount of work involved in ruling the nation's trading in securities has led to steps to boost the commission personnel to more than 800 persons as compared with the first estimate of 300.

If the increased office force and spending materialize as expected, this New Deal agency will be far from self-supporting. Based on a turnover of 300 million shares of stock at $25 a share and bond sales of 3½ million at 90 per cent of par, revenues would amount to only $500,000—only a fourth of the present estimated annual expense.

BANKRUPTCY ACT REORGANIZATION IS ORDERED HERE

The first plan of reorganization under section 77b of the modified bankruptcy act to be approved in this jurisdiction was ordered yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Burns & Grassie, haberdashers, with stores at 436 West Madison street, 126 West Monroe street, and 84 East Jackson boulevard, one of the first to request reorganization, obtained the court approval of their plan of reorganization. The concern filed its petition last June, shortly after the modified act had been passed by congress, scheduling asets of $46,454 and liabilities of $31,259.

The plan submitted yesterday calls for an extension of five years in the payment of $27,680 in outstanding debts. Payments are to be made in approximately twenty instalments and are to start Oct. 31. On Nov. 12 all parties were ordered to appear before Judge Barnes for a final decree discharging the company from bankruptcy. The law firm which represented the concern was allowed fees of $800.

GEN. ELECTRIC 9 MONTH PROFIT SHOWS UPTURN

The General Electric company yesterday reported that net profit for the nine months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $13,645,551 after charges, equal after dividends on the special stock to 41 cents a share on the common shares. This compares with $8,817,891 or 24 cents a common share in the corresponding period last year.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30 net profit totaled $4,182,460, or 12 cents a common share, against $4,897,363 or 15 cents a share in the corresponding quarter of 1933.

Orders received during the first nine months of the year amounted to $132,613,543, compared with $104,785,000 a year ago. Sales billed during the period were $121,735,122, against $97,426,146 in the corresponding period of last year.

Private Engineering Awards Exceed Average

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Engineering awards this week totaled $25,187,000, of which $3,424,000 represented federal work, $15,979,000 state and municipal, and $5,784,000 private, according to reports to Engineering News-Record. The private volume exceeded the average October week a year ago and is substantially higher than the previous four week average.

RFC Loan May Leave Little for Depositors

Abandonment of efforts to obtain a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the closed West Side Trust and Savings bank appeared as a possibility last night because the net available for dividends to depositors may be negligible.

According to Receiver William L. O'Connell, the RFC already has approved an advance of $1,650,000, but it was learned last night that depositors might be left with as little as $225,000 free to them. This would be sufficient to pay only about 5 per cent on the deposit liability of approximately $4,000,000.

Preferred Claims Form Problem.

The status of preferred claims, which still are being filed, is one of the most perplexing problems in the situation. If a reserve must be set up out of the loan for all claims filed, the outlook is gloomy for the depositors.

Preferred claims filed to date amount to $400,000, including the trust liability of $230,000 against assets which were mingled with general funds of the bank when it closed.

A balance of $600,000 is due the RFC on a loan made prior to the bank's failure. This would be deducted from the face value of the new loan, lowering it to $1,050,000.

Differ Over Basis for Loan.

With full allowance on preferred claims, the figure would shrink to $650,000, equal to a 16 per cent dividend.

A third possible deduction which the RFC may demand has precipitated a sharp argument. Since the loan application first was made Feb. 28, the receiver has paid off $400,000 on a loan from the First National bank, reducing the balance to $25,000. The RFC is represented as expecting to cut the face value of the loan by $400,000 to allow for holdings sold in this liquidation. Thus the amount remaining for dividends may be only $225,000.

In the midst of this uncertainty, Attorney R. F. Shay filed with Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis a petition to authorize O'Connell to make the loan. A court order is a necessary legal step before the transaction may be completed.

POLITICAL WINDS GOVERN GRAINS; TRADE SHRINKS

Wheat Off Fraction; Corn Is Firmer.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Conflicting influences at play in the world grain markets have again slowed up trading in the Chicago market and traders are awaiting the appearance of some decisive factor which will induce a trend in one direction or another. Lacking any aggressive speculative leadership the market at present moves back and forth in response to routine daily developments without steering any certain course.

The shortages existing in all the principal grain crops in this country is a matter of history. Theoretically, at least, prices of grain today already register the unprecedented disaster which American agriculture encountered this year. That they actually do is disputed on all sides, but the market remains relatively quiet and shows bursts of life only when Washington gives evidence of using the inflation hypodermic.

Test of Prices to Come.

The real test of prices will come apparently as the season progresses and the deficits in the grain crops are more keenly felt. Prices of grain futures would normally reflect expectation of such shortages, but the market today is far from being free and open.

The administration keeps an eagle eye cocked at speculators in the commodity markets for the avowed purpose of preventing any unwarranted advances in prices. But at the same time it keeps speculators in a state of confusion by letting it be known now and then what a higher price level is still desired by the government. Old timers who have watched the trend of prices in other years of scarcity and during the years of plenty insist that in the long run the fundamental economics of the grain situation, not government policy, will determine prices. But a speculator might go broke very quickly by acting on such a line of reasoning if he didn't take into consideration the time element.

Wheat Sags, Corn Firmer.

Yesterday's trading furnished no departure from the current market pattern. The declining trend in the principal foreign markets brought about a sympathetic recession here. The volume of transactions was small, and actual changes in quotations were insignificant. Wheat futures closed the day ¼ to ⅜ cent lower, with the December contract quoted at $1. In the corn pit prices were firm and closed ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher, with December deliveries bringing 77⅞ cents. Oats were a trifle lower, and rye averaged a trifle higher.

The nominal causes of the decline in Liverpool prices were the present condition of the Argentine crop, which is described as excellent, and the fresh competition in the world market of cheap French wheat. France has been subsidizing her wheat exporters, and it was believed some time ago that offerings from that source had been exhausted. Again however, this subsidized wheat is competing with Argentine and Canadian grain in the world market.

International Harvester Votes Regular Dividend

International Harvester company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, payable Dec. 1 to stock of record, Nov. 5.

U. S. Suggests Teamwork on World Money

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Adoption by the leading commercial nations of a spirit of team work in the redrafting of their monetary and trade policies is being suggested by this government. This proposal is contained in a memorandum prepared by the department of agriculture and submitted to the International Institute of Agriculture as a basis for discussion at its twelfth general assembly in Rome on Monday.

Among other things, the memorandum suggests the advisability of international monetary coöperation "as a means of eliminating one of the principal motives existing at the present time for the imposition of trade barriers."

Would Ease Restrictions.

This is followed by a proposal that study be given to the possibilities of moderating import restrictions and export and production subsidies through the medium of international commodity agreements such as have already been undertaken in wheat, sugar, and rubber.

In the latter connection it is pointed out that in many cases such agreements have been hindered or rendered impossible by the failure to obtain coöperation from a sufficiently large number of the various large producing nations and an intensification of efforts in this direction is suggested.

Long time planning as a means of avoiding such trade dislocations and economic maladjustments as have arisen in recent years is also put forth as a likely consideration.

Trade Pact Study Urged.

Bilateral commercial agreements and treaties and multilateral and regional trade agreements are among factors of world trade for which thorough consideration of advantages and disadvantages is recommended by this government.

The memorandum came as a great surprise to observers who recalled this country's attitude at the world economic conference. President Roosevelt himself has stated in effect in recent months that this country was in no position to say at what point United States currency should be stabilized with respect to that of other countries and the resulting conclusion then was that international coöperation, whether through conference or otherwise, could accomplish little if anything in this direction.

Gold Bloc Meets Today.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—New plans for protecting the gold standard will be formulated at tomorrow's meeting of the standing committee of the gold bloc nations—France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, and Luxembourg.

Foreign Minister Henri Jaspar of Belgium, who called the initial meeting of the gold bloc last month at Geneva, will preside over tomorrow's session.

Signing of bi-lateral accords among the several nations is expected to pave the way for a general accord. If an agreement is reached for extension of import contingents among the gold bloc nations, it is predicted countries now adhering to the sterling bloc may join in order to obtain like benefits.

SEC to Hear Objections to Trade in Bank Stocks

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Because of opposition by some banks to trading in their stocks which have received the unlisted trading privilege on the New York produce exchange, the securities and exchange commission announced tonight that it was prepared to consider objections filed by the banks or any other company against the continuance of such trading in their securities on a registered exchange.

HOLC WILL LET BANK SYNDICATE SELL ITS BONDS

50 Million Issue to Be Floated Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—A revolutionary system of government financing which may eventually stuff the pockets of private bankers with millions of dollars is about to be launched by the Home Owners' Loan corporation, it was learned today.

The HOLC has turned a 50 million dollar issue of its 3 per cent bonds over to a private banking syndicate which will float them early next week, inquiry disclosed. This is the first time in recent history that private bankers have been allowed to float government securities. The treasury department has always acted as its own banker in all federal flotations. HOLC bonds are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the treasury and are tantamount to government bonds.

Bankers to Make Profit.

Injection of a private banking syndicate into the forthcoming HOLC financing means, it is understood here, that this banking syndicate will make a profit on the marketing of federal securities. The bankers will take the bonds over from the HOLC at a price sufficiently low so that, in the bankers' judgment, they can be peddled to the public at a profit.

Details of the price at which the bonds are being handed to the bankers and the writeup they expect to make on them may be revealed when the arrangement is announced publicly during the coming week-end.

Why this unusual method of handling a federal security issue has been hit upon was not explained by officials, who were reticent about the affair. HOLC bonds, however, have been selling at a discount. When the treasury attempted to float a similar HOLC issue recently, it was forced to buy in part of the offering itself. The government may have decided to let private bankers run this risk.

Treasury Approves Sale.

It was definitly established that the treasury is aware of and approves the HOLC's revolutionary move. On the other hand, observers point out that the treasury is offering private bankers an opportunity to make a killing on government financing. HOLC bonds have recently been rising, a fact which the syndicate may be suspected of arranging, and the prospects are good that the bankers will reap a profit from the public.

In addition, other quarters point out that the procedure raises the propriety of the treasury making private deals with individual bankers on government bonds. In the past no favoritism between the treasury and any group of bankers has been possible because each issue of federal bonds had to be offered to the entire public at once. The gold reserve act, drafted by Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury, however, in a brief sentence made the change of allowing private sales of government bonds.

CHICAGO FIRM IN DEAL.

Field, Glore & Co., well known Chicago and New York investment house, will head the syndicate which will handle the marketing of $50,000,000 of HOLC bonds, according to reports in La Salle street. Officials of the company refused to discuss the deal, stating that any comment would have to come from New York.

The Chicago company has been active in the market for Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds for sime time.

STOCKS DECLINE DESPITE TALK OF 'GOOD NEWS'

Capital Announcement Is Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Despite a little extra encouragement in the form of predictions of a "favorable announcement" of some sort out of Washington in the next few days the stock market worked irregularly lower today. Trading was in light volume and there was no suggestion of pronounced liquidation in any quarter. Most traders seemed to be marking time against whatever new developments may be in immediate store for the market.

The expectation of good Washington news seemed to be based mainly on the series of conferences which President Roosevelt has been holding with recognized leaders of industry, banking, shipping, and other fields of business activity.

Watch Bankers' Convention.

The belief is generally held the President may say something really reassuring to the bankers when he addresses them in convention next week and it is thought the conference series may be by way of preparation for the announcement.

In the meanwhile the market appears to be settling down to a drifting course. With a few exceptions the price changes in today's dealings were of minor importance, the chart following pretty much the same pattern it has been following for several days. Oil shares were under some pressure because of the destructive progress of the gasoline price war in eastern territory, but the weakness in this department was offset by a display of strength in meat packing shares.

Oil Issues Decline.

In the petroleum section, Socony-Vacuum was driven down nearly a point before it bumped solid ground. It came within a fraction of its year's low. The issue firmed up somewhat in the later dealings, however. Texas corporation and Standard of New Jersey also found the sledding rough.

Armour and Wilson issues were prominent on the meat group rise, gains among the preferreds running as high as 3 points.

Silver stocks had another poor day. Golds also were heavy. McIntyre and Dome fell more than a point each. Kennecott Copper ran into some selling on news that the company had cut its production 20 per cent.

Weakness in commodities balked whatever chance the farm implements may have had of doing their stuff.

WHY PACKING STOCKS RISE

Behind the sharp advance in the shares of the packing companies which has occurred on the New York exchange are two discernible factors. The prospect for higher meat prices next year and prospective inventory profits accruing to packers, plus the big volume of business which all the packers, large and small, have been handling for the government relief agencies, are cited in explanation of the advance in the share prices.

If and when a meat shortage develops as a result of the large reduction in live stock is a speculative matter. Packing officials, however, believe that next year will witness a rising trend in all meat prices. Of more concrete and immediate benefit to the packing companies is the business now being done in handling relief cattle.

The packers are handling a big volume of relief slaughtering, and unlike their ordinary business there is no risk involved. The animals are government owned and the packers are paid a specified amount for handling them. The slaughter of cattle during September was the largest on record in the government supervised packing houses.

Many of the packing companies are working three shifts daily. Most of the slaughtering is being done by the larger concerns, while the smaller companies are engaged in canning meat for the relief agencies.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES DECLINE ON CLOSING SALES

Selling at the close caused butter and egg futures to ease on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, butter finishing ⅛ to ¼ cents and eggs ⅛ cent lower. Potatoes were unchanged to 5 points higher, October showing strength.

Continued favorable statistical reports aided butter and eggs early, but profit taking and new selling entered at the close and an early advance was lost. The Centralizers reported butter production slightly under last year and the movement of storage stocks totaled 197,000 lbs more than last year. Egg withdrawals totaled 4,200 cases more than last year.

Sales: Butter, 91 cars; eggs, 143 cars; potatoes, 4 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 18 cars; potatoes, 1 car. Prices follow:

COTTON FUTURES DISPLAY WEAKNESS IN LIGHT TRADE

Trade in cotton was light yesterday, business being restricted to a considerable extent due to the disparity which exists between the price of the actual cotton in the interior and futures in the leading markets. Scattered selling caused a small dip at the opening and the close was easy with net losses of 2 to 10 points in Chicago, while other markets were off 4 to 10 points.

Hedging pressure continues light, but there is little demand at the present time from the trade or from abroad, a practical deadlock prevailing, and speculative interest was reported as unusually small. Spot cotton was off 5 points with New Orleans, 12.65 cents; Galveston and Houston, 12.60 cents, and New York, 12.55 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Drooping prices reflected extension of the break in buying of government bonds on the stock exchange today. Although offerings were on a moderate scale quotations backed off as much as one-quarter point at the lows for the day.

Treasury 4¼s registered the largest trading volume, but the 3¼s dipped sharpest. A feature of trading was the relative strength of the government guaranteed home loan and farm mortgage issues compared with direct treasury obligations.

Corporation Bonds Irregular.

Heaviness of government issues did not have much influence on high grade railroad, utility and industrial bonds, which followed an irregularly narrow course. Small gains about balanced losses in light dealings. Not the least interesting development was the advance in Union Pacific bonds, the refunding 5s climbing two points and getting close to their high for the year.

Secondary and speculative issues were highly irregular and not as active as usual. One point gains and losses were recorded for a scattered few, while the average fluctuated close to yesterday's closings.

Declines of a point or more were recorded in such issues as Kelly Springfield 6s, Chicago and North Western 6¾s, Baltimore and Ohio refunding 5s, and American Water Works 6s.

Foreign List Firm.

The only section of the market that showed a uniformly firm tone was the foreign list, where the demand sent prices up one to two points. German and Danish issues were the strongest. Bergen 5s of 1949 advanced to a new high.

Transfers totaled $11,400,000, par value, against $13,780,000 in the preceding session. The turnover in governments amounted to $3,450,000 compared with $4,730,000 Wednesday.

RFC Gets Premium in Sale of Bonds to Secure Loans

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has received a premium of $105,000 from the sale of 17 issues of municipal bonds which had been deposited with the PWA for collateral by various communities which had borrowed money from the Public Works administration.

Phillips Petroleum.

Investors' Guide: What can you say of Phillips Petroleum 5¼s, due 1939?—S. M. L.

Answer: Phillips Petroleum company is a completely integrated petroleum distributor and producer, operating principally in the Mississippi valley region and the southwest.

During the first half of 1933 low gasoline prices prevented the company from making any profits. A reversal of that situation enabled it to finish 1933 with a new high record of both dollar volume and physical volume of business done in any one year. The situation carried through in the first half of this year, but since midyear the price structure of the industry has shown signs of weakening.

For the first six months of 1934 gross income was $38,265,000 and net income was $2,510,000. This compared with gross of $23,511,000 and loss of $5,325,000 for the corresponding 1933 period.

Gross income in 1933 was $62,783,000, against $61,722,000 in 1932, and $54,674,000 in 1931. Fixed charges were covered 1.73 times in 1933 and 1.30 times in 1932. In 1931 a loss of $2,411,000 was sustained before charges of $3,165,000, while in 1930 charges were earned 2.37 times.

Earnings in 1933 included $2,321,000 inventory appreciation.

At the close of 1933 current assets of $26,120,000 compared with current liabilities of $7,454,000. During 1933 funded debt was reduced about $3,000,000 to $26,891,000. An additional $1,417,000 of bonds was called for retirement on March 1, 1934.

The debenture 5¼s, due June 1, 1939, are the unsecured obligation of the company. They are a business man's risk.

Curtis Court Apt. Bldg.

Investors' Guide: In 1924 I bought a Curtis Court Apartments building, Detroit, bond. It defaulted. I hold a certificate of deposit for it, received when I sent the bond to the protective committee. Since I sent it I have heard nothing about the matter. I am beginning to fear that the entire amount has been lost.—W. W. F.

Answer: It appears that your fears were not entirely groundless. We have the following report from the protective commitee:

"All these bonds were held by one of our local banks with the exception of $3,500. This property is able to earn only slightly more than operating expenses. Taxes have been delinquent for many years. In our opinion the holders of Curtis Court bonds have only a claim against Federal Bond and Mortgage company, which will never be able to pay anything to its creditors."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today and the undertone was easier with store sugars offered at slightly below the last paid price. It was reported that 21,000 bags of Cubas were sold from store yesterday at 2.91c and 10,500 bags at 2.90c.

Futures were easier under increased December liquidation and selling of later deliveries by producing interests with the market closing 3 to 5 points net lower. Sales were 21,250 tons. Prices:

[Prices in cents and fractions of cent per pound.]

Refined was unchanged at 4.65c for fine granulated and while a fair inquiry was reported, it was limited to nearby requirements only.

[Note: The processing tax on raw sugar is ½c a pound. Refined sugar prices include the tax.]

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods were firm and trading moderate in the unfinished cloth division today. Ginghams, denims, work shirt fabrics, and some of the printed lines sold better. Silk fabrics sold moderately, with velvets in steady demand in the higher priced lines. More business was offered in staple men's wear, but at low prices. Burlaps were quiet and slightly firmer on spot deliveries. Rayon fabrics and yarns sold in better volume.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed closed steady at 1 point advance to 3 points decline today. Sales, 36 contracts. Firmer crude oil which sold at 7¼c was the main feature early and after holding steady, prices reacted partially under hedge selling. Steadiness of cotton, lard, hogs, and corn were also factors. Bleachable spot normal: Oct. closed, 8.20c; Dec., 8.30c; Jan., 8.32c; March, 8.45c; May, 8.58c.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Flour prices were unchanged today. Shipments were 30,070 brls.; pure bran was quoted at $22.50@23.00, and standard bran at $22.00@22.50.

REQUEST PERMIT TO FORM NEW WEST SIDE BANK

Business Men Declare Facilities Needed.

Formal application requesting permission to organize a bank to occupy the former quarters of the Garfield State bank was sent the controler of currency at Washington, D. C., yesterday by a group of west side business men. The name would be the Madison Street National bank, 4010 West Madison street.

William M. Druley, head of the Druley-O'Brien Coal company and president of Garfield Park Business Men's club, is chairman of the organization committee which has permanent quarters at the Madison street address.

List of Directors.

Members of the board of directors submitted to the controler are: Bernard Baer, vice president of Baer Brothers & Prodie, clothing concern; Frank H. Armstrong, president of Armstrong, Valiquet & Co., investment house; Walter Immerman, vice president, Balaban & Katz corporation; Peter N. Kelly, west side undertaker; William Rusnak, president Rusnak Furniture company and vice president of the Main State bank; Ray McCarty, McCarty Brothers, realtors, and Mr. Druley. Richard N. Lenihan is secretary of the organizing committee.

The proposed bank would have a capital of $200,000, surplus of $30,000, and a contingent fund of $20,000. It was stated that personal pledges have been received for the full amount of the capitalization.

Need Banking Facilities.

Members of the organizing committee said yesterday that business in the community has been seriously handicapped by lack of local banking facilities and consequently many business men in the district have pledged their support to the proposed bank.

Before the controler of currency would give his approval for the opening of a national bank, it was pointed out, he would order a national bank examiner to make an investigation of the qualifications of the applicants. The organizing committee of the proposed bank has been in communication with the controler, but formal application for the establishment of a bank was not sent until yesterday.

HEAD OF FRISCO TELLS OF PROFIT ON CALLED BONDS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The hearing into the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad bankruptcy before a federal court master adjourned today until Nov. 20 after Edward N. Brown, chairman of the Frisco board, had testified his immediate family owned $700,000 of bonds retired at par in 1928 when the market value was considerably less.

Jack L. Kraus, attorney for the Gans bondholding interests which filed the original bankruptcy suit against the Frisco in August, 1932, sought to learn whether Brown acquired the bonds after directors decided to retire them. Brown said he did not recall the date. He said that if he had a record of this he would bring it to the next hearing.

Kraus brought out that Brown benefited to the extent of more than $50,000 by the declaration of preferred and common dividends in November, 1930, when the railroad's earnings were declining.

After retiring $75,739,000 adjustment and income bonds in 1928, $700,000 of which were owned by Brown's immediate family, the Frisco issued $110,000,000 of consolidated mortgage bonds bearing a fixed rate of interest. The income bonds retired had no fixed interest rate, the interest depending on earnings.

SHELL UNION OIL WILL REDEEM 5% DEBENTURE ISSUE

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Shell Union Oil corporation today announced a plan for redemption of 5 per cent debenture bonds and refunding a portion of the called bonds into 2½ per cent short term notes. The amount of debentures called is approximately 26 million dollars, while the note issue will total 9 million dollars.

Of the 9 million dollar note issue 3 million dollars will be series A notes, due Nov. 1, 1935; 3 million dollars will consist of series B, due Nov. 1, 1936, and 3 million dollars will be series C, due Nov. 1, 1937. The notes will not be redeemable before maturity and are unsecured. Interest will be payable May 1 and Nov. 1.

The 5 per cent debentures have been called for redemption on Nov. 19 at 102 and interest. They are not payable until 1949. The debentures carry stock purchase warrants which will be returned to the debentures for redemption.

The original amount of the debentures was 50 million dollars. The total has been reduced through open market purchases and sinking fund.

GROUP TO CONFER ON INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS TODAY

The first Midwest Conference on Industrial Relations, sponsored by the Industrial Relations Association of Chicago and the University of Chicago school of business, will be held today at the university.

Speakers for the session will include Byron F. Field, president of the association, Joseph C. Belden, president of the Employers' Association of Chicago, who will speak on "The Impact of the New Deal on Industrial Relations," and Dr. D. D. Lescohier, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, who will discuss "Federal and State Programs of Social Insurance."

At a series of round table discussions, H. L. McCarthy, managing director of the Chicago regional labor board, will preside over the session on "Wage Policies and Hours of Work," and W. C. Hall, college employment representative of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, will lead the group discussing "Employment Insurance."

RESERVE BANKS INCREASE LOANS FOR INDUSTRIES

$868,000 Rise in Week One of Largest.

Industrial concerns in the last week borrowed $868,000 from the twelve reserve banks, one of the largest weekly totals of such advances since direct loans were inaugurated last spring.

The reserve statements issued last night showed that in the Chicago reserve district alone an additional quarter of a million dollars in such loans was made. The total of such loans now outstanding throughout the country is $4,576,000.

Big Cities Not Active.

While industrial loans continued to flow directly out of the reserve banks in moderate volume there was no indication of any considerable expansion in commercial loans by the member banks in the two largest cities of the country. The Chicago and New York member banks are the only ones reporting their condition along with the reserve banks.

In Chicago commercial loans declined $1,000,000 and in New York expanded $2,000,000. At the same time the gross deposits in both centers expanded rather sharply, apparently reflecting the drift of idle funds from smaller cities.

Brokers' Loans Expand.

The only material change in credit in New York was an increase of $32,000,000 in collateral loans, nearly all of which represented loans to brokers.

The monetary gold stock of the country was up $5,000,000 and holding of gold certificates by the reserve banks showed a corresponding expansion. The total volume of money in circulation was down $10,000,000.

Government security holdings of banks in New York were $12,000,000 above the preceding week but showed no change in Chicago.

145 CITIES, TOWNS SEEK TO AVOID GAS SALES TAX

A total of 145 Illinois cities, towns, and villages yesterday was granted permission by the state Supreme court to intervene as friends of the court in the suit of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to be exempted from the sales tax on gas fuel.

Recently the Cook county Circuit court held that gas, electricity, and water constituted personal property and that as such was subject to the 2 per cent sales tax. The People's Gas company appealed, and the municipalities, all of which operate utilities of some nature, took the step to join in the appeal.

The downstate municipalities have pending in the Sangamon county Circuit court a suit for an injunction to restrain the state finance department from collecting the sales tax on the products of their city water and electric plants.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

The Harris Trust & Savings bank headed a group which yesterday purchased $1,237,000 City of Minneapolis 3.40 per cent sewage disposal bonds, dated Oct. 1, 1934, and due Oct. 1, 1937 to 1964. The bonds will be reoffered at prices to yield from 2 per cent to about 3.37 per cent.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Otis & Co. are offering $360,000 Memphis, Tenn., 4 per cent improvement bonds, due 1935 to 1961, at prices to yield from .60 per cent to 3.75 per cent.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. are offering two additional issues—$250,000 Hamilton, O., 4 per cent city hall bonds, due Oct. 1, 1935-'59, and $197,000 Pawtucket, R. I., 4 per cent bonds, due 1935 to 1955. The Hamilton bonds are offered at prices to yield from 1 per cent to 3.60 per cent and the Pawtucket bonds are offered at prices to yield from .50 per cent to 3.90 per cent.

The City of Buffalo, N. Y., will receive tenders on Oct. 25 on an offering of $2,000,000 of work and home relief bonds. The bonds will be dated Nov. 15, but the maturities have not yet been disclosed.

Nassau county, N. Y., will sell on Oct. 29 an issue of $1,500,000 refunding bonds, carrying interest at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent.

The City of Newburgh, N. Y., has called for tenders on Oct. 26 on an issue of $150,000 work relief and public improvement bonds, dated Oct. 1, 1934, due Oct. 1, 1935 and 1944, and carrying interest at a rate not exceeding 6 per cent.

Gertler & Co. and Edward Lowber Stokes & Co. are offering $157,000 Town of Westfield, N. J., school district 4 per cent bonds, due from 1935 to 1957, at prices to yield from 1.25 per cent to 3.85 per cent.

MERCHANTS LAY PLANS TO FIGHT OLD SALES TAX

Demand No Levy or One Paid by Consumers.

After a stormy luncheon session yesterday delegates to the Illinois Chamber of Commerce meeting at the Hotel Stevens voted unanimously to oppose in the state legislature in November any attempt to reënact, in its present form, the state occupational sales tax law, which expires next July.

Half of the delegates present—largely those representing small merchants, a perusal of their ballots disclosed—voted to oppose the passage of a sales tax law in any form. The remainder, consisting of those representing larger enterprizes, stated that they would approve a tax upon sales if the law makes it mandatory for retailers to collect the tax from the consumer.

Vote Taken After Debate.

The vote was taken after three hours of discussion, during which Barnet Hodes, member of the state tax commission, presented "the administration side" of the question, and M. J. Pittsford of Wheaton, former president of the Interstate Merchants council, and H. F. Stickney, president of the Interstate Merchants' council, of the Chicago and Cook County Grocers and Butchers' association, discussed the merchants' difficulties with the present law.

Hodes was recalled after his speech in which he had asserted that the opposition to the present sales tax law was largely "political" and had urged the merchants to seek a constitutional convention and a change in the state revenue laws to allow enactment of a direct sales tax. An indignant delegate, who announced that he represented every retail merchant in East St. Louis, jumped to his feet and pounded his fist on the table.

Denies Political Opposition.

"The opposition of the merchants to this law is not political," he shouted. "This thing is wholly an economic question with us. Either the law must be changed or the small merchant faces bankruptcy."

There was mild applause when Pittsford suggested that the merchants should attempt to work out an entirely new law to force the open collection of the tax, rather than oppose a law which tax experts say must be continued if the state is to find sufficient revenue to carry on vital functions.

But when Stickney demanded a lobby to "fight to the bitter end and kill for all time a sales tax in Illinois" there were cheers, whistling, and stamping of feet. The vote which followed gave the voters the two options: either of complete opposition to another sales tax, or approval of a law which "passed on to the purchaser" the tax.

TWO RAIL CHIEFS LEAVE EASTERN REGIONAL GROUP

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The resignations of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and of J. J. Pelley, retiring president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, from the eastern regional coördinating committee were accepted yesterday by the Eastern Presidents' conference. They were succeeded, respectively, by M. W. Clement, vice president of the Pennsylvania, and H. S. Palmer, newly elected president of the New Haven.

The resignation of Mr. Atterbury from the committee was accepted as foreshadowing his retirement from the headship of the Pennsylvania. He has not been in good health lately. He recently underwent an operation and since then has been on leave of absence. The Pennsylvania's retirement age is 70. Mr. Atterbury is 68.

It is thought that Mr. Clement would succeed to Mr. Atterbury's position should the latter retire. Mr. Palmer was elected to succeed Mr. Pelley on the board of the Railroad Credit corporation today.

CONT. MOTORS OFFICIALS SUED FOR $16,000,000

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Several stockholders of the Continental Motors corporation today filed suit in Circuit court charging that officers and directors of the corporation had profited personally in large sums through numerous acts. Restitution of approximately $16,000,000 of assets and money which defendants are charged with dissipating during the last four years is sought.

The suit was filed in the name of Oscar G. Herrick, Adolf Blome, William Bryant Turlington, and Samuel Bloom, stockholders who own 620 shares. Defendants named are William R. Angell, James H. Ferry, Craig Keith, Roger Sherman and Benjamin F. Tobin, officers of the corporation.

The plaintifs ask appointment of a custodian for the corporation to protect interests of the stockholders who have deposited their stock with a protective committee in New York.

Rockwell T. Gust, attorney for Continental Motors, said he would issue a formal statement tomorrow morning.

FINDS EUROPE REGARDS DOLLAR KEY TO FUTURE

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and a nationally known economist, said today upon returning from a business trip abroad that the future of the dollar was regarded in Europe "as the most important cog" in the world-wide recovery movement.

He got his impressions, he said, from numerous talks with financial and business leaders, none of whom, he added, had anything to say in praise of the present silver buying program of the United States government.

HEAVIEST HOGS, SCARCE, RISE 10 TO 15 CENTS

Cattle Slow and Weak; Lambs Higher.

Colder weather and the decided decrease in the proportion of medium and heavy hogs in receipts stimulated demand for stock over 225 pounds yesterday and these advanced 10 to 15 cents under brisk competition. Demand lately has centered in the big weights, particularly in the lard types. Butchers weighing more than 300 pounds are outselling all other weights for the first time in weeks. Packers admit there is a possibility of a shortage of heavy product and lard in the hog receipts for the rest of the winter and that they are stocking up. Few such hogs will be moved out on the fresh pork trade, most of the product from the big weights going into cure or salt for late winter and spring selling. Prime butchers averaging 250 to 310 pounds cost packers a top of $8.15, of which $2.25 was the processing tax paid to the federal government and $5.90 the price paid to the farmer.

Decrease Starts Early.

A survey of packing centers has revealed that the movement of packing sows, lard type, is dropping off fully two weeks earlier than in 1933, and that the bulk of these kinds came to market this season with less weight than for many years because of the feed situation.

Top grades of 200 pound hogs now are selling mostly 25 cents under the peak for 300 pound butchers, new crop 150 pound averages of strictly choice quality are being discounted almost $1.00, and 100 pound pigs can be bought $2.00 to $2.50 under the heavy butchers.

Selling of new crop hogs by farmers gained more volume yesterday. The Chicago run for the day totaled 21,000, as against 20,309 last Thursday and only 9,661 a year ago.

Cattle Slow and Weak.

Despite the broad buying by eastern packers since last week's close, the cattle market was an unsatisfactory affair and in many cases the price list showed signs of sagging further. Some cattle went through the day almost without bids, while others were locked up because of the sluggishness of the trade.

The trade is carrying a nominal quotation of $10.15 for prime weighty steers, but none in yesterday's run was good enough to bring more than $9.50. Yearlings averaging 1,081 pounds reached $8.75 and the bulk of all beef steers sold within a range of $6.25 to $8.75.

Yearlings were particularly dull again and show losses of 25 to 50 cents in two days. Calves were steady, with selected vealers at $7.00 and under.

Lambs advanced 25 cents after a slow and steady opening. Top handpicked natives sold to city butchers at $6.60, while packers paid $6.50 for ewe and wether natives. Shorn lambs sold at $6.50, the narrow spread between wooled and shorn stock being attributed to the condition of the wool trade. Wool is mostly 2 to 7 cents lower than in 1933.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES CLOSE STEADY TO HIGHER

Removal of hedges against sales of cash lard to the domestic and foreign trade gave the provision market a firm undertone throughout the day, and the close was unchanged to 2½ cents higher. There was an absence of the commission house selling early which has been so noticeable of late. According to reports foreigners have been forced to pay a premium for tierced lard of late in order to secure the full benefit of the processing tax on exports desiring product made since March 1 which takes the maximum rebate.

Bellies finished unchanged with only a fair trade. Cash and loose lard was quoted at 9.42 cents; leaf at 9½ cents, and bellies at 13⅜ cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound, follow:

ASSERTS STEEL WORKERS SOUGHT COMPANY UNION

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Workers at the Weirton Steel company's plant, bargaining with the management under the employé representation plan in effect there, were responsible for the last 10 per cent pay rise granted throughout the steel industry, Jack Larkin, general chairman of the employé representatives at Weirton, testified in the federal district court here today.

Mr. Larkin cited this instance to prove the efficacy of the company union. He asserted there existed among the workers a desire for the establishment of the representation plan. The government contends that the management was solely responsible for the initiation of the company union and the workers as a body never had a direct opportunity either to approve or disapprove it.

Larkin, however, declared today that a group of workers, anticipating the NIRA and section 7A, had decided that they ought to have some kind of union and that they did not want to join the Amalgamated. These employés sent for copies of various plans in effect in other plants and studied them. Larkin asserted the plan is wholly free of company domination. He estimated that about 88 per cent of the eligible voters cast votes in the first election of representatives in June, 1933.

BANK WON'T SUE VAN SWERINGENS FOR LARGE DEBT

Cleveland, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Union Trust company liquidators will not sue the Van Sweringen interests or their New York bankers for the remaining debt of more than $14,000,000 or for return of collateral removed from the Union Trust company in favor of New York interests, it was announced today.

While the Ohio attorney general has advised that suit would lie against the Van Sweringens and their New York creditors, for whose benefit the collateral posted at the Union was drained of approximately $5,000,000, the state banking department has definitly decided not to suit, Liquidator Oscar L. Cox said, despite the fact that there has been little improvement in the status of the Van Sweringen loans since the bank closed.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 18.—Sentiment is much improved in the Boston wool market as a result of the recent pickup in sales of greasy combing domestic wools. Inquiries are being received on a wide range of fleece and western grown wools. Many bids are still too low to be acceptable, but an increasing number of buyers are coming back with new and higher offers which secure sizable lines of wool. Prices in cents per pound:

EUGENE BLACK URGES BANKERS TO FIGHT FOR SELVES AND RECOVERY

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve bank of Atlanta, said tonight that bankers never will redeem their place in America until they fight for themselves and for the recovery of the country.

Gov. Black, who is a contact man between bankers and the Roosevelt administration, addressed the 41st annual convention of the Savings Banks Association of New York state.

Gov. Black said he never believed in devaluing the American dollar. "I believed that it should go out and seek its level with other currencies in the world," he said. "But there was a cry for a fixed price, not giving it a chance to fix its own price.

"The only chance now is to devalue further, and no American wants that. You never can have certainty about the American dollar until you have certainty about the British pound. The English never stabilized the pound. You can't risk America's foreign trade in the world with a fixed, final dollar in competition with the floating British pound. America must realize that."

On legislation, Gov. Black said, "we are facing many questions in January. America has become more radical than the administration. Aloofness and silence isn't going to get us any place with congress . . . the time has come for the banks of America to fight."

U. S. PURCHASES 15 AIRPLANES FOR INSPECTORS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Seeking to encourage the production of safe, low cost airplanes, the commerce department has awarded a contract for fifteen airplanes to be used by its aëronautical inspectors. For some time the department has been working on a development program to popularize a plane which could be sold for about $700. Such a plane, however, could not be made unless it was sold in large volume.

The Hammond Aircraft corporation of Ypsilanti, Mich., will build the planes for $3,190 each.

NO "CHISELING" IN HOUSING AREA, U.S. AGENT WARNS

Asserts Government Will Protect Owners.

BY AL CHASE.

Chiselers who seek to take advantage of property owners in the west side area selected by the government for the $12,500,000 federal housing project were warned yesterday by F. J. Dresser, Chicago administrator for the housing division of the Public Works administration, that they will be under observation and will be prevented from operating by government officials.

Dresser was speaker at a luncheon attended by members of four west side neighborhood organizations, held at Wieboldt's midtown store at Ashland and Monroe.

Would Protect Owners.

"The federal government is not going to be a Shylock in this Chicago housing project," said Dresser. "And we're going to watch carefully the Shylocks who try to do business in that area to the detriment of the property owners and residents."

Dresser declared that the $25,000,000 allocated to Chicago for slum reclamation and low cost housing is only "a drop in the bucket" in the elimination of blighted areas. "Because of our limited means we can at this time erect only demonstration projects in the hope that possibly the state, municipalities and other coöperative corporate organizations will carry on this work," he said.

Wants "Back Yard" Reclaimed.

"After all, a city which has had the vision and the will to reclaim and build a lake front for a front yard unequaled by any other in the world, should find ways and means to reconstruct its back yard.

"Chicago in 1926 spent three hundred and thirty-six millions of dollars in its building program at a cost level of approximately 12 per cent above that which existed in 1913. To build the demonstration projects all over the United States, we have available only one hundred and fifty millions of dollars."

The luncheon was sponsored by the Mid-Town Kiwanis' club, the West Towns Chamber of Commerce, the Austin Federation of Clubs, and the West Central association. John Usher Smyth of the Mid-Town Kiwanis, presided.

WARNS U. S. WON'T SCALE TAXES IF FIRMS CAN PAY

The closing session of the annual meeting of American Institute of Accountants at the Stevens hotel was wound up yesterday with a discussion of the technical aspects of the revenue act of 1934 by Wright Mathews, assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue. He said the recently adopted policy of continued refusal of compromise amounts due to the government where there is ability to pay the full amount will be continued.

"The present policy is simply that the executive officers of the government have no legal authority to compromise a valid tax for an amount less than can be collected," he said. "Unquestionably, under present procedure, there is less room for discretion, but a marked uniformity has been developed."

Arthur D. Whiteside, member of the national industrial recovery act board, told the assembled accountants that price fixing under the NRA, except for possible temporary periods not to exceed nine months, is a thing of the past. He further said that although he is not against purchasers receiving discounts when buying in large volume, he is opposed to the granting of discounts large enough to enable large scale purchasers to extinguish their smaller competitors.

The association adopted a resolution opposing "restrictive legislation" for accountants. Such legislation, which is in force in about half a dozen states, provides for senior and junior classes of accountants.

NEW YORK MAN HEADS ELECTRIC MANUFACTURERS

Frank C. Jones, president of the Okonite company of New York City, yesterday was elected president of the National Electrical Manufacturers' association at its annual convention at the Palmer house.

The board of governors also chose F. R. Fishback of Cleveland, Carl L. Peirce Jr. of Pittsburgh, S. L. Nicholson of New York, O. E. Shreve of Schenectady, N. Y., and D. G. Phelps of Hartford, Conn., as vice presidents. R. H. Goodwillie of Yonkers, N. Y., remains as treasurer.

Members of the new executive committee include F. W. Magin of Milwaukee and A. D. Byler, vice president and general manager of the Edison General Electric Appliance company, Chicago.

Industry will be given a satisfactory means of solving its own problems, Jones said in discussing the new recovery board established in the reorganization of NRA.

MEN

With Mechanical or Sales Ability.
We are paying over $60 a week to hundreds of men, and will engage three additional men this week for a similar opportunity.

This is an international company manufacturing and selling a line of exclusively patented products. Our products and our name are well known, and our method of merchandising offers the men we select a permanent income. Among our products, going over big now, are an electrical hygiene unit and air conditioning.

We have paid as high as $400 for one week on our percentage plan.

We are only interested in men who are sincere and who can accept the responsibility of a dealership in our business. THERE IS NO FINANCIAL INVESTMENT.

Your investigation will be very interesting, and we will deal only in facts. Arrange to investigate at 11 a. m. or 3 p. m. Fri. only.
Room 1027, Mather Tower,
75 E. Wacker-dr.

YOU CAN'T BRING BACK PAST OPPORTUNITIES, BUT YOU CAN STEP INTO A BIGGER AND BETTER ONE RIGHT NOW!

You can't complain, mourn, or wish the boom days back, but you can step into something that is booming—even if it is much different from your past occupation or business. Some men let their courage and ambition wear threadbare, and others kept up that old fighting spirit. We are ready for some of this latter class, living on the North Side, and if they don't take snap judgment and forecast their interest in this different electric, service and unit business they can make as much money with the same experience as R. B. is making—$184 in 1 week—G. B. and H. W. over $160 the same week each—and H. H. $138 that week —the latest available reports, paid in absolutely certain comm. checks.

You can learn as well as they and apply yourself as well if you WILL. And if you are success-minded and invite real work, call for personal interview, Room 215, at 1046 Wilson-av., from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., Friday, Oct. 19. Ask for MR. BARNHART.

WE ARE READY FOR A GOOD MAN WHO IS READY FOR US!

I want a high grade man who lives on the North Side and has had 5 years' business experience, or has been a printer, mechanic, or in some trade for at least 5 years—of good character, willing to work, able to meet people courteously. I want no money from him, but will put him in position, if we get together, to soon be drawing down big commission checks from this strong, progressive electric unit service company.

If you are in earnest, call at 3:00 only, Friday afternoon, Oct. 19, 2d floor, 3703 Irving Park-blvd. Mr. Wright will see you.

WE WILL EMPLOY 10 MEN.
IT'S PERMANENT
FOR THOSE WHO WILL WORK.
Electrical-Mechanical.

TRADE OR SHOP EXPERIENCE will be of advantage to you. Those who qualify will be taught this mechanical device business at which men can and are MAKING $40 to $50 PER WEEK. Comm. No investment required. Men of neat appearance between 24-55 years.
Apply Emp. Mgr., Room 618,
203 N. WABASH-AV.

THE OPENING OF A NEW DEPARTMENT by an old established local house creates opportunities for rapid advancement to a few men over 28 years of age who consider their future more important than immediate large earnings. While household appliance or other direct sales experience is helpful, it is not essential, as accepted applicants will be given utmost in training and co-operation and placed on a liberal percentage and bonus arrangement. Apply 9:30 to 11 a. m., or 2 to 4 p. m., Room 1502, Chicago Motor Club Bldg., 66 E. South Water-st.

IMMEDIATE PLACEMENT

for several married men of good appearance, between 30-45 years of age, to meet our customers; outstanding percentage opportunity for men experienced in meeting people; a permanent connection with regular weekly pay. If selected you will be placed with one of our neighborhood furniture establishments. Apply after 9:30. Employment Mgr., Mr. Backstrom, 3036 Lincoln-av.

TALL MEN.

Wanted, several tall men, 6 ft. 3 or over, of neat appearance and erect carriage, 25-40 years of age, not over 190 lbs., for pleasant work in connection with advertising. No selling or soliciting. Salary, steady work. For appointment phone Mr. J. T. Walker, Franklin 2100, 10-12 a. m.

A POSITION.

An exceptional opportunity is offered several men between 25-45. Those hired will be thoroughly trained to handle U. S. gov. bonded warehouse receipts issued on one of the finest Kentucky distillations ageing in storage. Splendid income assured on comm. basis. Phone for appt. State 5960.

EDUCATED MAN.

35, with car, some college pref.; must have exp. and travel; $21 outright expense plus bonus 1st wk.; $40 straight salary plus bonus, 2d week. Quota requirements thereafter; educ. work. This means exactly what it says. See Mr. Kester, 850 E. 58th-st.

EXPERIENCED ELECTRIC APPLIANCE Salesman—also a district manager. Best proposition in city. Guarantee basis plus overwriting to responsible man. Preference will be given to man with car. Apply 9 to 11 a. m., Room 219, 1305 E. 63d-st.

HAVE OPENING FOR MAN TO INTERview furniture customers. Prefer a man between 35 and 45, with some selling or contact experience. Liberal percentage, weekly pay to man selected. Best of refs. and character essential. Apply today, 10 to 4:30, Mr. Johnson, 2237 W. 39th-st.

WHAT OF THE JOB?
THE IMPORTANT THING IN LEARNING BEAUTY CULTURE IS THE JOB AFTER COMPLETING.

MOLER creates positions not only in the beauty shops of their thousands of Moler graduates, but in such delightfully unusual places as Transcontinental R. R. Trains, Steamships, Hospitals, State and Fraternal Organizations, employers who know and demand superior service.
MOLER not only creates superior positions, but creates superior graduates through their superior individual training course that is perfection in itself, true economy in time, effort and final cost.
MOLER'S half rate regular course is still maintained for those who must make every dollar count double.

Kidnap Search Centers in Ohio—Arrest Father as Hunt for Robinson Goes On—Wife Plans Defense

Saturday Oct 13

Dear Mr Intermediary
This is Alice Stoll writing.
We are sending my wedding ring in which is engraved my name if you look the inside closely.
I am well and being treated nicely. I only have a slight cut on my head. If you haven't already done so please pay over the money to the one who this man tells you to Alice Stoll

P.S. The man I am referring to is the man who is sending this letter to you with instructions. Of course you may have already paid it in which case ignore this letter

WIFE OF HUNTED STOLL KIDNAPER ASSERTS SHE WAS CO-OPERATING WITH GOVERNMENT IN PAYING RANSOM TO HUSBAND. At left, Mrs. Robinson, wife of the much sought Thomas H. Robinson Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Berry Stoll, as she was arraigned in Louisville, Ky., and held on $50,000 bond. In center, note written by Mrs. Stoll while she was held prisoner in Indianapolis, with wedding ring attached in upper left. At right, department of justice agents continue to question Mrs. Robinson at session in Louisville court. (Story on page 1.)

HISTORIC PICTURE OF ARRIVAL OF KING ALEXANDER IN FRANCE JUST BEFORE ASSASSINATION. General view at the Quai des Belges in Marseilles, France, as King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia was being welcomed with military pomp on good will tour. A few minutes later, after the monarch had been greeted by Foreign Minister Barthou, both were shot down by an assassin and all was confusion in great crowd. (Story on page 13.)
